UIC PAYOUT UP 25%

OTTAWA (CP) — Nearly $453 million was paid out in unemployment insurance benefits in May, an increase of 25 per cent from May, 1977, Statistics Canada reported Friday.

Total payments from January to May have been $2.3 billion, an increase of 21 per cent from the first five months of 1977, the statement said.

More Mills Closed

Times News Services

PORTLAND — The U.S. West Coast pulp and paper mill strike spread to seven Crown Zellerbach plants today following the rejection of the firm's latest offer by the Association of Western Pulp and Paper Workers.

The strikes brought the total number of mills struck by the AWPPW and United Paperworkers International Union to 27, idling some 13,000 workers.

Jack Brown, a spokesman for the giant paper company, said pickets were to be posted at 8 a.m. at mills in Washington, Oregon and California that employ 5,000 people.

"We made a two-year settlement proposal," Brown said.

Brown said no further bargaining sessions have been scheduled.

Friday evening the AWPPW announced it had reached tentative agreement with Western Kraft in Albany, Ore., averting a strike at that mill which employs 295 people. That two-year contract was expected to come up for a vote early next week.

Prior to the break down in negotiations with Crown Zellerbach, Farris Bryson, President of the West Coast union, said he was "elated" at the agreement reached Friday in Albany.

The seven Crown Zellerbach mills struck early today are located in Camas, Port Angeles and Port Townsend, Wash., West Linn and Lebanon, Ore., and Antioch and Los Angeles, Calif.

Meanwhile, Ocean Falls Corp. officials said Friday the company will put one paper machine back into operation Aug. 21 to fill a special order for the Los Angeles Times.

As previously announced, the corporation will close down its operations on Sunday because of the current hot spell which has been limiting its hydroelectric generating capabilities.

It was originally thought that the mill would be closed indefinitely.

CanCel Profits Slumping

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canadian Cellulose Ltd. reported Friday a sharp drop in net profits for the second quarter of 1978 in spite of a $9 million increase in sales.

Donald Watson, president and chief executive officer, said the company had a net profit of $641,000 or five cents a share compared with $5.8 million or 48 cents a share in the corresponding period last year. Net sales were $50.5 million compared with $41.5 million in 1977.

For the first six months, the company had net profits of $1.2 million or 10 cents a share compared with $9.2 million or 76 cents a share the previous year. Total sales for the first half were $89.1 million compared with $82.5 millions.

Meanwhile, Doman Industries Ltd. of Duncan predicted Friday that 1978 will be a record year for profits and sales following impressive second-quarter results.

The Duncan-based forest company reported a net profit of $3.9 million or 59 cents a share on sales of $50.7 million for the first six months of 1978, compared with $2.15 million or 33 cents a share on sales of $41.7 million for the corresponding period in 1977.

Police Locate Bus In 41-Death Plunge

Times News Services

EASTMAN, Que. — Police said today they believed they had located the bus which carried 41 passengers to their deaths after it sped off a country road and sank in 15 metres of lake water.

Divers were preparing to go down at the site of Canada's worst bus disaster, about 75 metres from the shore of murky Lac d'Argent (Silver Lake).

Police were uncertain whether they would remove the bodies from the bus one by one or first haul the vehicle up from the muddy bottom of the lake, about 100 kilometres east of Montreal.

The 48 people aboard the chartered bus, most of them physically or mentally handicapped, had just left a theatre performance and were heading down a steep hill when the bus brakes apparently failed at a sharp curve and the vehicle plunged into the water.

Six volunteer assistants to the group as well as the bus driver managed to escape as the vehicle floated briefly before sinking.

The others, two of them in wheelchairs, were trapped inside.

A helicopter was skimming over the lake late Saturday morning using sonar equipment in an attempt to detect the location of the bus. A team of divers was working from three police boats.

The victims, ranging in age between 14 and 86, were returning from a theatre performance specially held for them here to their homes in the Quebec mining town of Asbestos on a back road, when the brakes of the bus failed.

Alain Pouliot, one of the survivors, said: "The bus started to speed, and the driver told me to tell everyone to get set because he was going to do a 90-degree turn . . . but at the speed we were going, he couldn't turn."

Among the victims, all members of La Fraternite des Malades et Handicapes de la Region Asbestos (Society of Infirmed and Handicapped of the Asbestos Region) were some mentally handicapped persons, while the others had a variety of physical ailments.

Among the dead are two nuns, a priest, several other volunteers and parents of the disabled persons.

Early today, police listed the survivors as: driver Denis Martel, Adelard Lussier, Maurice Paquet, Gaston St. Jean, Alain and Lucie Pouliot, and Georgette Levasseur, all of Asbestos.

Three or four of them arrived in Asbestos, a town of 10,000 people about 60 kilometres northeast of here, early today, after first going to hospital in Magog, Que., said Const. Jacques Poirer of Asbestos police.

Priests there had been summoned to the police station to help complete a list of the victims, and to contact their families.

By dawn, the news had been broken to five or six families of the victims, he said.

A list of victims was not expected to be available until later today after definite identification had been made and families were advised, he said.

As the sun began rising, Quebec provincial police Const. Alain Perron told a news conference the bodies of one of the victims had been found. It was identified as that of Bernadette Plourde, 72.

He also said the flat-nosed bus, owned by Autobus Bolduc Transport, "apparently" had no brakes as it came down the hill above the lake.

"The bus apparently had lost control," he said.

Still No Movies

VANCOUVER (CP) — Striking theatre projectionists in British Columbia Friday rejected a contract offer which would have ended a strike which has shut down most movie houses throughout the province since July 21.

After six hours of negotiations, members of the 113-member B.C. Projectionists Union voted 88 per cent to turn down the proposal made by Canadian Odeon and Famous Players Theatres.

Theatres' spokesman Doug Chow did not reveal details of the proposal but said further negotiations are scheduled to take place next week.

Meanwhile, MP Stuart Leggatt (NDP—New Westminster) said Friday he will assist in the negotiations.

"The union invited me so I've offered my services as a kind of go-between."

Terror Aide Named

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Don Jamieson has created a new intelligence position in his department to help cope with a world where terrorism is becoming common.

Eldon Pattyson Black, 52-year-old career diplomat who has been working in the defence department, will become deputy under-secretary of state for security and intelligence affairs.

An external affairs statement said the creation of the new intelligence position that is comparable to assistant deputy minister in other departments "will contribute to more effective management of the security and intelligence aspects of Canada's international relations."

The appointment comes only a short time after the leaders of Canada, the United States, Britain, France, West Germany, Italy and Japan agreed in a summit meeting that greater action should be taken against terrorists.

A department spokesman said it is a reflection of the growth of terrorism in the international field.

Black has been seconded to the defence department as assistant deputy minister policy since 1975. Before that he was director-general of external's bureau of European affairs. Since joining the department in 1949 has served in Moscow, Stockholm, Brussels and Paris.

Clinics Jammed For Polio Shots

Times News Services

Thousands of Canadians jammed clinics Friday following reports this week of cases of paralytic polio in Western Canada and Ontario.

And in Holland, a polio epidemic among members of a religious community opposed to vaccination has claimed its first fatality, a three-month-old girl, the Dutch health ministry said today.

In Norwich, Ont., where doctors say two men have polio and a third is suspected, the head of the Oxford County health board called for federal legislation to make polio immunizations mandatory.

Health officials say there is also a case of polio in Chilliwack, B.C., and one in Lethbridge, Alta.

All victims are Dutch-Canadians who belong to fundamentalist Protestant sects that do not believe in immunization.

Norwich health board chairman Jack Warden said he would ask for legislation to ensure that all Canadians and visitors to Canada receive polio vaccine.

"Immunization should be made compulsory, regardless of religious beliefs," Warden said.

"People don't have a choice when the life and health of fellow Canadians are involved."

About 1,400 of the 1,800 Norwich area residents were immunized this week.

In the Delhi, Ont., area, where students from the Netherlands are on an exchange program and helping with the tobacco harvest, about 500 local residents have been vaccinated.

In Toronto, hundreds of persons, including three members of the Netherlands consulate-general, crowded clinics and jammed municipal switchboards seeking immunizations.

In the Chilliwack area, 5,000 were immunized at clinics all week.

AirCan Normal For Now

Canadian Press

Air Canada expects to operate normally during the weekend, but there may be more problems next week when the final result of a national contract-ratification vote by its 7,500 ground-service workers is announced.

Union sources said late Friday that workers in Montreal and Toronto voted by a wide margin to reject a tentative contract negotiated recently with the company.

The Montreal vote was reportedly 1,635 to 257 against the offer of a 16-per-cent wage increase over 25 months, retroactive to April 3.

The same union sources said Toronto members, who returned to work Friday after a 36-hour work stoppage, voted by a two-to-one margin to reject the tentative agreement.

Between them, the two units account for almost three-quarters of the ground-service group, whose work stoppages at several eastern centres this week played havoc with airline operations in Eastern Canada and the northern United States.

The Montreal workers—off the job since Thursday—returned to work this morning as did ground-service employees in Saint John, N.B., the only other group out Friday.

National officials of the International Association of Machinists (IAM), who opposed the work stoppages, have ordered local leaders not to release their vote counts until all units finish balloting early next week.

Real Vaillancourt, head of the Montreal unit, said that if vote goes against the agreement, the IAM's bargaining team should press Air Canada to reopen negotiations to improve several non-monetary clauses which were unacceptable to many of the workers.

Hostile Game

BAGUIO, Philippines (UPI) — The ninth game of the world chess championships, marked by open hostility between champion Anatoly Karpov and Soviet defector Viktor Korchnoi, was adjourned tonight after five hours of play.

Canada, U.S. to End Auto Firm 'Wooing'

OTTAWA (CP)-Canada and the United States agreed in principle Friday to stop the bidding war to attract auto manufacturers to their countries with generous government incentives.

The announcement by Julius Katz, U.S. assistant secretary of state, followed six hours of closed talks between top trade officials of the two countries.

The meeting came only hours after Ford Motor Co. announced Thursday that it had decided to build a $535 million engine plant in Southern Ontario rather than Ohio. Both areas had been vying for the plant estimated to provide up to 2,600 jobs.

Canadian officials had no comment on the talks.

Katz said details of the Ford decision were not discussed, but the case was mentioned as an example of the kind of competing incentives both countries are determined to avoid in the future.

He said no specific plan for ending the incentive race was agreed to, but futher meetings are planned to work out a detailed formula.

Katz refused to say whether the United States government considers the Ford decision to locate its new plant in Ontario final. He also refused to indicate the reaction in Washington to Ford's decision to build in Ontario with a $68-million incentive from the Ontario and federal governments.

Calling the talks extremely productive, spokesmen for the U.S. delegation said Canadian and U.S. officials are in complete agreement that it is a "mugs' game" to entice wealthy corporations to their soil with taxpayers' money.

Fred Bergsten, U.S. assistant secretary of the treasury, said there was a serious risk that the process of enticing major auto manufacturers with government incentives could escalate if steps were not taken fast to control it.

Meanwhile, General Motors is expected to decide in a few months where to locate a planned $400 million aluminum casting plant. The Montreal area is one of the sites under consideration and the federal and Quebec governments have agreed to offer the company a $78 million incentive.

98 Counts Follow Drug Raids

VANCOUVER (CP) — A roundup of persons charged with drug trafficking in three Vancouver-area centres has resulted in the arrest of more than half of 83 persons named in warrants. The persons named face 98 charges.

Police said that Friday 60 RCMP officers began arresting people in Surrey, Maple Ridge-Haney and the Coquitlam-Port Coquitlam-Port Moody area. The arrests followed the surfacing of three separate one-man undercover operations.

The drugs involved included marijuana, hashish, cocaine and the chemical MDA. Undercover buys were in amounts of between $25 and $800.

DEADLY SHARK IN PUGET SOUND

SEATTLE (AP) — A gillnet fisherman bagged a half-grown specimen earlier this week — but he wasn't about to reach in and throw it back.

The Washington department of fisheries said the 1.8-metre mackerel shark was captured in southern Puget Sound about 48 kilometres southwest of Seattle.

The mackerel shark grows to about 4.6 metres long, is very fast and belongs to the same shark family as the great white shark.

Pigott said department records indicate there have been six previous sightings of mackerel sharks in Puget Sound.

"They are the most dangerous sharks in the world," said Roy Pigott, the assistant manager of the department's Miller Creek Hatchery who identified the shark. "They'll attack anything that moves."

Four Mowed Down In Terror Attack

ISLAMABAD (UPI) — Two Arab gunmen mowed down four people with machine gun fire today in an attack on a Palestine Liberation Organization office.

The gunmen escaped without finding their prime target, PLO chief of mission Yousuf Abu Hantash.

He said he believed the Iraqi government was behind the attack, the latest in a series of violent clashes around the world between the mainstream Palestinian group and the Baghdad regime.

"This was a serious action plotted by the Iraqi government," Hantash said. The two attackers spoke with Iraqi accents, he added.

Pakistani police guards stopped the two gunmen as they walked up to the PLO mission gate at about 11 a.m. and asked to search a bag holding their machine guns and hand grenades.

The two attackers argued with the police about the search until a Palestinian telex operator, Saad Abu Nassar, came out of his office.

One of the assailants grabbed him and the other shot him and a Pakistani policeman down in the doorway, leaving the area splattered with blood.

The two then burst into the office shouting for Hantash.

"They were shouting for me. I was sitting in my office but they didn't enter it," the PLO chief said.

Instead they found Omar Khan Far, a Palestinian studying medicine in Pakistan, who had dropped by the office. They shot him down without saying a word.

Their fourth victim was "a PLO freedom fighter training in Pakistan's Army," Hantash said, identifying him as Mohammad Al-Hussain.

The two gunmen hurled two grenades behind them as they ran out of the office. A third man, believed to be a Pakistani, drove a getaway car waiting outside.

It was unclear just how the gunmen escaped but police were searching the city for them.

"I think they came from Iraq," Hantash said. "The Iraqi embassy supplied them with machine guns and organized the attack. We hold the Iraqi government responsible and hope that the Iraqi people, who have always stood by the Palestinans will take their revenge on the Iraqi regime."

The attack followed another three days ago by two other Arab gunmen, reportedly Fatah commandos, who raided the Iraqi consulate in Karachi. One of the gunmen was killed and the other died today in a hospital.

Thorpe Hints he Won't Resign

LONDON (AP) — Jeremy Thorpe, the former Liberal party leader charged with conspiring to murder a male model who says they were lovers, went doggedly on with weekend constituency chores today after hinting he will not resign from Parliament.

As Britain's biggest political scandal in 15 years raged around him, the 49-year-old politician was opening a flower show at Bishop's Nympton, a village in his rural parliamentary constituency of North Devon in southwest England.

At a reception organized by his party's constituency association at the small North Devon town of Lynton on Friday night, Thorpe hinted he will not resign from the House of Commons.

He told reporters: "I have a full range of duties scheduled, both public and private, and will be continuing with these." He said he will probably make a statement "clarifying" his position, but not this weekend, and added: "The fact that I am continuing my range of duties as a member of Parliament is indicative."

About five hours before, Thorpe and three others were charged with conspiring to murder 37-year-old male model Norman Scott.

Newspapers splashed an allegation by Scott 2½ years ago that "I am being hounded by people just because of my sexual relationship with Jeremy Thorpe." Thorpe repeatedly has denied the allegation of homosexuality. But increasingly scandalous headlines and the embarrassment of the Liberal party over the affair forced him to resign as Liberal party head in 1976.

The party, last in power in 1910, polled 18.3 per cent of all votes in the last British general election in October 1974. But it has only 16 seats in the 635-seat House of Commons.

The charge stems from an investigation ordered by Prime Minister James Callaghan's Labor government into allegations made last October by British airline pilot Andrew Newton. Newton told the London Evening News he was hired by Liberal party sources and paid $10,000 to kill Scott, who lives in North Devon.

MOUNT SHASTA GETS 25 JOLTS

MOUNT SHASTA, Calif. (AP) — A series of more than 25 moderate quakes has hit the Mount Shasta area in the last four days, state officials said Friday.

That might indicate volcanic activity under Mount Shasta, a 4,720-metre (14,162-foot) peak which still is regarded as an active volcano although it has not erupted in the last 200 years, they said.

However, seismologists at the California Division of Mines and Geology added that there is no indication the volcano is ready to erupt.

The first quake, which measured 4.2 on the Richter scale, was reported early Tuesday. It was one of more than 25 quakes with a magnitude of at least three that have struck since then.

Seismologists said there were about 100 micro-earthquakes a day in the area, which is 320 kilometres north of Sacramento.

Meanwhile, a moderate earthquake Friday in Arequipa, the second largest city in Peru, shook cornices loose from old buildings but caused no injuries, officials said.

Arequipa is about 800 kilometres (500 miles) north of the area in Chile hit by a strong quake Thursday.

The University of San Agustin's geophyscial institute in Arequipa, about 1,040 kilometres (650 miles) south of Lima, said the quake was recorded at 12:16 p.m. EDT and measured five on the 12-point Mercalli scale.

BALLOONISTS GETTING SET

PRESQUE ISLE, Me. (CP) — Three New Mexico balloonists are preparing to lift off in yet another attempt to reach Europe in a balloon.

Max Anderson, 34, of Albuquerque said he and two companions will lift off as early as Aug. 10 from a field near here if weather conditions are favorable.

The attempt follows the flight last week by Britons Donald Cameron and Christopher Davey that narrowly missed reaching Europe.

Anderson and Ben Abruzzo, also of New Mexico, tried to cross the Atlantic last September from a launch near Marshfield, Mass. They were forced into the ocean after reaching a point near Iceland.

"We got experience from that trip and will correct a number of things for this one," Anderson said Friday. A third crew member will be Mary Newman, 31, of Albuquerque.

Anderson said the British team had about 1,000 miles less to fly to Europe from their Newfoundland launch than he will have to travel.

The balloon the New Mexicans will use is en route here by truck from New Mexico. It is expected to arrive Aug. 7.

Rain Threatens Texas Dam

ALBANY, Tex. (AP) — Rain from a dying tropical storm that has already turned a lazy creek into a six-metre wall of water and killed at least 23 persons was still falling Friday, threatening a nearby earthen dam and forcing the evacuation of many of its residents.

The state public safety department said National Guard and police helicopters plucked 26 persons Friday from trees, housetops and oil rigs where they had run for their lives when the raging water rushed through Albany on Thursday night.

The threatened dam was at Throckmorton, about 64 kilometres north of Albany, national guardsmen removed many of the town's 1,100 residents.

The National Weather Service reported that moderate to heavy rain was falling in the area Friday night and that the Clear Fork of the Brazos River, a normally small stream midway between Albany and Throckmorton, was 3.2 kilometres wide.

Forecasters said rain along a 320-kilometre front running north from the saturated hill country to Albany might last for the next three or four days.

The reservoir behind the dam at Throckmorton was rising, but not at the drastic rate that resulted in tragedy Thursday night at Albany when Hubbard Creek erupted into a raging killer.

Boyd Badley, 71, said he noticed the creek boiling Thursday night and placed a marker at the edge while he went to get a friend.

"When I came back in 15 minutes, a 20-foot (six-metre) wall of water came down that creek washing trucks off the road, houses off their foundations and tearing the highway all to pieces.

"Some big timbers came down across the highway and tore up my garage," Bradley said.

The water at Albany receded quickly Friday, soaked up by the parched ground that had been so dry only a few days earlier farmers were forced to plow under their cotton crops.

Telephone lines with Albany were down Friday. John Darilek, a ham radio operator, said most streets were impassible and that Albany hospital, where he was set up, was without drinking water but had some electrical power.

In the hill country, authorities reported Friday that the swirling waters of the Guadalupe and Medina rivers had begun to recede. But, they said they are certain more bodies would be found as cleanup operations progressed.

In Bandera, Tex., law enforcement officials and volunteers, many of them on horseback, searched for victims in the muddy, debris-dotted flood plain of the Medina River.

Two Men Slashed At Tow Firm Lot

A 31-year-old man is in custody after two men were slashed by a knife-wielding assailant in a city towing company lot early today.

Alvin Hartmann, address not known, appeared in provincial court this morning charged with wounding and possession of an offensive weapon in connection with the incident which sent Greg Allan Barnes, 28, and Randy Olney, 18, employees of Gordon's Towing, 1618 Store, to hospital with superficial knife wounds.

Police said Olney was slashed across the throat in a fight with a man. Barnes received a cut to his hand as he tried to break up the fight.

Police said the assailant had wandered onto the company's property apparently heading for a vacant lot nearby at about 2 a.m., when he and Olney had "a verbal exchange."

COME ON, MA I ONLY HIT YOU A COUPLA TIMES

NEW YORK (AP) — One morning, a Pennsylvania woman who divorced her husband because he beat her weekly was punched in the mouth by her 17-year-old son.

"Aren't you happy now?" he asked. "You've still got me to hit you."

An 81-year-old Chicago man was chained to a radiator by his 19-year-old daughter. She stole $2,300 from him before she set him free seven days later. He told police from his hospital bed that he would not press charges.

In New York, a 19-year-old youth was arrested for repeatedly thrashing his mother and stealing her money. He tossed off a final plea as police led him away: "Aw, come on, Ma. I only hit you a couple of times."

The social workers and scholars who move about the veiled corridors of family strife say no one is sure how many parents are battered by their offspring. But they say this most private of miseries — the son who slugs his mother, the daughter who shoves her down the stairs — is more common than most would suspect.

Through the burgeoning number of shelters for battered women, bits of information have surfaced about offspring injuring their mothers. Next to nothing, however, is known about those who attack their fathers.

"It's the last family problem to be explored," said Richard Gelles, a University of Rhode Island sociologist.

"It is a hidden problem, but it's something all of us found as we started to share information," said Sue Bienemann, director of a new coalition of 18 Pennsylvania projects for battered wives.

"It's a strange thing, because oftentimes the mothers are reluctant to disclose that their children beat them," she said. "They want to protect them."

After interviewing more than 2,100 families, Gelles and Murray Strauss, a University of New Hampshire sociologist, concluded that as many as one in 10 parents have been kicked, slugged, punched and otherwise battered by their offspring.

The researchers believe one in five parents may have suffered lesser abuse at the hands of their children — objects lobbed at their heads, shoving, pushing, furious verbal abuse — an expression, perhaps, of the adolescent turmoil that can bubble over.

But at its most explosive, Gelles says, there is "stark evidence" that such physical abuse is learned at the knee of an assaultive parent.

"Of the five or six million kids who assault their parents, about half are probably kids who've been assaulted by their parents," he said.

Gelles and Strauss think the violence goes beyond self-defence or revenge. They say that to strike out, to win by decking a parent, is the way these young people learned to handle family disagreements.

Counsellors at women's shelters agree that youths who batter their mothers learned abuse from their fathers — men who feel they can reign supreme only by beating their wives.

"It doesn't matter if it's a wife or a sister or a mother. The point is: It's a woman."

Eager Crowds Mob Queen During Games' Walkabout

EDMONTON (CP) — Tamil Selvan won the applause and admiration of Queen Elizabeth on Friday night as the Royal Family watched the Indian weightlifter break the Commonwealth Games record in the 52-kilogram class.

The Queen, looking relaxed and interested in the show of strength, witnessed the event at the end of a day spent viewing Games competitions and meeting athletes.

With a lift of 105 kilograms, Selvan broke the Games record but placed second in total points to Precious McKenzie of New Zealand.

As with other venues visited by the Royal Family on Friday, the weightlifting auditorium was surrounded by eager crowds hoping for a glimpse of the Queen.

Earlier, the Royal Family spent almost two hours at the Commonwealth Games athletes' village where they ate with Games competitors in the cafeteria.

At a reception before the lunch, the Queen told weightlifter Lawrence McConnell of Northern Ireland: "It must be hard for you over there living with all the bombs and terror."

McConnell, of Belfast, said he told the Queen he did not foresee an end to the violence in the near future. The Queen nodded sympathetically and moved on to talk with someone else, McConnell said.

The Royal Family, on a 12-day Canadian tour which began July 26 in St. John's, Nfld., appeared to enjoy the visit to the village.

Earlier Friday, the Royal Family viewed the sedate sport of lawn bowling which requires considerable skill but not much exertion.

The competitors tended to be middle-aged and more than a few had their cigarettes ready at the edge of the green so they could puff after competing.

Young athletes who met the Royal Family said it was harder to meet a prince than it was to compete before thousands.

"You don't see the people when you compete," said Sherry Hawco, 14, of Cambridge, Ont. She was so shaken after meeting Prince Andrew, 18, and Prince Edward, 14, that she could not remember everything they said to her.

At the weightlifting events, news photographers were not allowed to take pictures of the Royal Family which was seated in the middle of the audience directly in front of the competitors.

QUEEN MUM MARKS 78th

LONDON (AP) — Some sang Happy Birthday, others shouted "God bless you, Ma'm!" and others just cheered Friday as Britain's Queen Mum greeted well-wishers on her 78th birthday. Most of her family was out of the country, however.

The crowd, many of them tourists, waited for hours outside Clarence House to see Queen Elizabeth the Queen Mother. She stepped outside briefly to say "Bless you" and "Thank you all very much."

Also marking the date was publication of a new book about this country's First Granny. The book, The Country Life Book of Queen Elizabeth the Queen Mother, written by Godfrey Talbot, includes a warm and loving tribute from one of her greatest admirers.

"For me she has always been one of those extraordinary rare people whose touch can turn everything to gold," wrote Prince Charles.

MURDER BY BULLDOZER

WILKINSBURG, Pa. (AP) — A construction contracter was killed Friday by a man using a bulldozer for a weapon, police said.

Authorities said Umberto Gulli, 28, of Pittsburgh, was arraigned on a general charge of murder and jailed without bond in the death of Ian Snider, 31, of nearby Plum Borough.

Snider died at a Pittsburgh hospital after being attacked at a construction site in this Allegheny County community, the coroner's office said.

Authorities said Snider went to the work site to collect a debt from Gulli, who was reported to be operating a bulldozer.

In the midst of an ensuing argument, police said, Gulli dropped the bulldozer's dirt-laden bucket on Snider, then gouged him with the toothed lip of the bucket.

Nazis Pelted

LANSING (UPI) — Counterdemonstrators greeted neo-Nazis Friday night with eggs, stones, firecrackers and baseball bats in the Nazis' second rally in the Chicago area this summer.

Nazi leader Frank Collin ducked missiles as he addressed about 200 onlookers and 40 protesters from the Progressive Labor Party and its International Committee Against Racism.

The demonstration in the heavily ethnic working-class community was the first of seven the National Socialist Party of America plan this summer and fall in southern and western suburbs.

The Nazis gave up plans to march in north suburban Skokie, which has a large Jewish population, after winning approval for a rally in Chicago's Marquette Park. They held one rally and plan more activities in the Marquette Park area.

Collin stood eight steps up on a landing of the Park District office, in an area cordoned off by police, and read from a notepad.

"Fellow white Americans," he said, "we believe all white people should stand united in the cause of the white race."

Guerrillas Abduct Rhodesia Farmer

SALISBURY (AP) — Black nationalist guerrillas abducted a former British army officer from his home in the eastern Rhodesian countryside and took him across the nearby border to Mozambique, the military command reported today.

Thomas Wigglesworth, 61, was the fourth white abducted by guerrillas this year.

As far as is known, none has been heard of since being seized, although military sources say some are thought to be held at guerrilla bases in Mozambique.

The communique said Wigglesworth was abducted Tuesday morning.

The report was delayed to allow time for notification of relatives in Britain.

The retired soldier, who lived on a farm near the small town of Penhalonga, was seized when he returned home after seeing his wife on to the military-escorted convoy that runs daily round trips to the nearby larger town of Umtali.

A neighbor, Mrs. J. P. Valintine told authorities Wigglesworth found a group of armed guerrillas ransacking the house.

"He was armed but there were evidently too many of them," she said.

Absurd Promises

Conservative leader Vic Stephens has undoubtedly increased his stature in the eyes of the most narrow-minded and unthinking members of the B.C. public with his latest announcements that, if his party was elected government — heaven forbid! — he would immediately eliminate the sales tax and at the same time pay all basic education costs from provincial revenues.

For those who have come to the simplistic conclusion that there's not a thing wrong with our country that a dramatic tax reduction wouldn't cure, the thought of saving five per cent on nearly every purchase made and having property taxes cut by almost half at the same time is as welcome as a brisk rain would be in the woods these days.

In fact, however, Stephens' paired proposals are, taken together, so unrealistic that they must be said to border on the misleading — unless the Tory leader is willing to admit at the same time (which so far he has not done) that the steps would be matched by drastic cutbacks in other provincial services.

Let's take a look at the numbers:

Stephens suggests the amount lost by the sales tax would be about $600 million, but it seems a more realistic figure would be $750 million. The reason for that is that this year's $600 million figure is being supplemented by an extra $150 million that Ottawa is giving so the provinces could lower their sales tax by two points. That money won't be around next year, so it too would have to be made up somehow.

As if it wouldn't be hard enough to find $750 million to cut from the provincial budget, Stephens is saying that at the same time his government would pick up extra costs by paying the entire costs of the basic education program.

The total budget of B.C.'s 75 school districts is now about $1.08 billion of which the local taxpayers pay about 60 per cent or $600 million. Even if 17 per cent of that could be lopped off by chopping what Stephens calls "frills" in education, the new costs to the province would be half a billion dollars.

In other words, Stephens is saying that if he were elected premier, he would immediately cut government spending by about $1.25 billion dollars, just under 30 per cent of the total 1978-79 budget.

Asked how he would manage this, he talked about "greater government efficiency." Now there's certainly lots of inefficiency in the provincial government but hardly more than a billion dollars worth — particularly when it is recalled that the government employees' union is liable to object strenuously to any efficiency program that means getting rid of nearly one-third of B.C.'s civil servants.

It wouldn't be impossible for a government to cut $1.25 billion from the provincial budget, mind. It could do it simply by abolishing the health care system — no medicare, no hospitals and everything would just about balance. (Actually it wouldn't balance because half the health costs are paid by Ottawa, which would stop paying if the programs were eliminated, but the point to be made is the size of cutback that would be forced on the province.)

It might also be possible to save that much money by eliminating all human resources programs — Mincome, welfare, foster homes, daycare, the works — all highways ministry maintenance and construction, and all courts and jails. The idea is staggering.

The public should realize the absurdity of Stephens' statements before they are taken in by such fine-sounding promises.

Liberalized Drinking

Victoria city council could perform an excellent experiment in liberalized drinking laws by adopting the suggestion of Ald. Robin Blencoe to impose relatively strict guidelines on the next beer gardens approved for the city.

Victoria's first real beer garden, held last week just off the Causeway, was, of course, supposed to be an experiment in liberalized drinking laws, but as Blencoe has said, it turned out be nothing more than "a beer hall with the roof off." If it didn't cause any actual problems for the city, it didn't add much to the causeway atmosphere either.

Council doesn't have any control over the standard drinking establishments in the city, that being strictly a provincial matter. But by approving future beer gardens only if they met strict criteria regarding size, design, and entertainment required or permitted, the city fathers could find out whether Victorians — and Victoria tourists — are ready to accept more civilized drinking patterns, like those in Europe for example.

A successful experiment might even mean that similar guidelines could be adopted across the province.

Council should begin looking at the matter now so that the new guidelines will be ready and waiting when next summer's applications for beer gardens come along.

A Reporter Meets the Duke

Prince Philip, Duke of Edinburgh, gave me a hard look. "I wish you'd get to hell out of the way," he said. "I came to see those people, not you." And he nodded at a group of Indians who stood patiently in the summer drizzle some little distance away.

We reporters, who had surged across the landing strip beside the Mackenzie River to greet him when he alighted from his plane, stood aside chastened. The duke loped off like an agile heron, his hand extended to greet a chubby Roman Catholic priest and an Indian affairs official who were shyly approaching.

Within minutes he was talking to the local Indians, pumping hands, firing off questions, occasionally throwing back his head to hoot with laughter at their jokes or his own. He repeated the performance again and again during the next few days as we hopped our way across Canada's northland in small RCAF aircraft.

The duke's blunt comments to the half dozen newsmen who accompanied him established rules for the tour and helped to put it in perspective.

How to Get It Out?

"The fact is we've been had," said the man from The Times of London. "The only real story is if something happens to him. If it does, how do we get the story out?"

Good question. Northern development was in its infancy. Most of the places we visited had limited communications with the outside. One had the feeling that in an emergency the press would find it had no priority.

I had been in the Northwest Territories before so had anticipated the problem. Before leaving London, where I worked for Reuters, the British news agency, I prepared with some help from the Canada House library a series of news items which were to be released on a day to day basis.

They pinpointed the duke's travels through places like Fort Norman, Aklavik and Coppermine. Each contained some fascinating scrap of local lore, part of the scene to which he supposedly was being exposed that day. Thus I had added reason to hope that nothing, absolutely nothing, would disrupt his travel program.

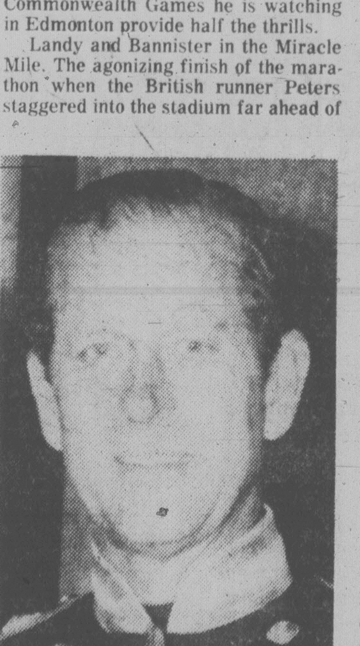
Happily it went like clockwork through all the intermediary stops from Whitehorse to central Labrador. Eventually my impressions of the land through which we had travelled were summarized in a long article and cabled to Reuters from Montreal. By then the duke's trip was old hat and newspapers around the Commonwealth which had assiduously printed tidbits about seal hunts and white whales and fur traders ignored it.

We journalists had one further confrontation with the duke before we went our various ways. During a 24-hour halt in Quebec City we were invited to join him for drinks.

He and his aides looked as though lunch had left them with indigestion which they were bravely determined to ignore in order to be civil to us. The only flash of animation occurred when "the games" were discussed.

Those were the British Empire Games of 1954 which the duke had officially opened in Vancouver and which some of us had reported before embarking on our northern assignment. What games they were! He'll be lucky if the Commonwealth Games he is watching in Edmonton provide half the thrills.

Landy and Bannister in the Miracle Mile. The agonizing finish of the marathon when the British runner Peters staggered into the stadium far ahead of anyone. Dazed and dehydrated, he tried to complete the final lap but fell, and got up, and fell, and got up, until his trainer could endure no more and ran onto the track to rescue him.



PRINCE PHILIP
. . . renowned world traveller

No one could live in England in the ensuing years without being very much aware of the Duke of Edinburgh. He has a way of blurting out thoughts which many others share but haven't dared to express so forthrightly. When he was suspected of turning on the sprinkler system at the Chelsea Flower Show just as the reporters and photographers were passing, only the press was outraged. And always he loomed behind the Queen, protective and reliable.

The man who ran Reuters at the start of the 1960s was inordinately proud of its expanding communications. It was he who arranged, in an ancient hall in the City of London, an exhibition that demonstrated their globe-girdling capacity. His triumph was complete when the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh accepted an invitation.

I found myself explaining the technical mysteries of news transmission to the duke. He got off one joke — I think he asked if we had separate wires for good news and bad news — but then listened attentively and asked a couple of questions that showed he had done some homework.

Now it was my turn to get off a joke. The Hilton Hotel had just been built in London and it was rumored that an American visitor (who else?) had been observed on the roof, gazing through a telescope into the gardens of Buckingham Palace.

"Is it true, sir," I asked him, "that you were seen in the gardens with a pair of binoculars, looking up at the people in the Hilton Hotel?"

He roared with laughter. "Oh, jolly good. I must tell my wife." A moment later I was repeating the story to the Queen, who laughed delightedly. Well, there isn't much occasion for mirth at these official functions, so they made the most of it.

With the help of a world atlas, a researcher at Buckingham Palace and a computer, it shouldn't be hard to estimate the number of miles travelled by the Duke of Edinburgh since he married into the royal family, He surely tops the list of indefatigable globe-trotters.

Society's Glue

"Indefatigable" is the word. When he flies into strange parts he does not collapse beside a swimming pool with a cool drink in his hand. At home or abroad, whether with the Queen or on his own, he submits to being taken in tow while experts explain in garrulous detail their pet enthusiasms and projects. With the shy and tongue-tied he is gentle. Somehow he always remains his own man as well as the Queen's.

If he retains only a quarter of all that he has been told about the multifarious activities of the citizens of the British Commonwealth his store of knowledge would be immense. He has travelled more in Canada, often off the beaten track, and been better briefed about what he has seen, than most of our ministers of the crown. I hope he enjoys his visit to Victoria on Monday with Prince Andrew.

The heir to the throne, Prince Charles, is supposed to enjoy his father's physical and moral fibre, tempered by his mother's warmth. That's a happy thought if like me, you feel the monarchy is and should remain a vital force in our Canadian democracy. It's part of the glue that holds our society together.

Report Card Time, Part IV: The Provincial Cabinet

The series of report cards running in this space moves on this week from the local scene to the provincial with an evaluation of Premier Bill Bennett and his 16 cabinet ministers.

The same ground rules apply as in the local report cards: it is basically a subjective evaluation of the performance of each minister during the past six months. The ministers are ranked roughly in order of merit, from top to bottom, and the grades are approximately equal to those used in schools: A = excellent; B = good; C = mediocre; D = unsatisfactory.

Criteria used in evaluating the cabinet include: performance in the political arena, administrative performance, accessability to the public and responsiveness to public concerns and over-all contribution to good government in B.C. In the case of Greater Victoria MLAs, their local performance will also be taken into consideration. It must be emphasized that individual policies were not evaluated because major policies are considered decisions of the government has a whole, not of specific ministers.

EDUCATION MINISTER PAT McGEER - A - McGeer's improvement over the past two years has been remarkable; he has risen from an unsatisfactory rating to head the class. When first elected, it seemed he could not make the transition from opposition to government; he has obviously applied his outstanding intellect to that problem most satisfactorily. Although he has made some highly controversial decisions, he has managed to carry them off without getting into much trouble.

MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS MINISTER HUGH CURTIS - A - Curtis scores high on administrative talent, accessibility and concern about the public mood. He isn't a great orator, but he should get credit for trying to deal with issues in the House rather than personalities. Doesn't seem to have as much influence in cabinet as his skills might warrant.

CONSUMER AND CORPORATE AFFAIRS MINISTER RAFE MAIR - B - Mair is also proving to be a more-than-competent administrator with a refreshingly open attitude towards his ministry. He is known for good one-liners and off-the-cuff remarks, and misses an A rating only because of the unpleasantly belligerent attitude he frequently adopts in the House.

AGRICULTURE MINISTER JIM HEWITT - B - Hewitt often appears colorless in the gaudy world of B.C. politics, but he is doing a careful, thorough job. He is one of the few ministers ready to sit down and try to solve problems co-operatively with those affected by his ministry (e.g. farmers) rather than playing power politics with them.

PREMIER BILL BENNETT - B - It would probably have required a superhuman effort for a premier facing the problems Bennett faced last spring to get an excellent rating. Bennett didn't do badly, but the strain told on him and by the end of the legislative session he was showing poor judgment and a bad temper.

LABOR MINISTER ALLAN WILLIAMS - B - Williams' performance in governing the tempestuous world of B.C. labor has continued to be excellent — it will be interesting to see if it stays as good after the departure of the brilliant Labor Relations Board chairman Paul Weiler. But Williams loses for his uninspiring handling of the native Indian and human rights side of his portfolio.

MINES MINISTER JIM CHABOT - B - Chabot isn't an inspiring political performer, but the mines ministry hums along without any serious problems. He is a master at thinking up good putdowns when the opposition asks him silly questions, but is less good at providing serious answers when needed.

PROVINCIAL SECRETARY GRACE McCARTHY - B - The hype and gaudiness that McCarthy has brought to her tourism portfolio have been unpalatable to many, but they certainly have brought results. Her political performance, however, is still marred by her fierce hatred of the opposition, a passion so intense it weakens her credibility.

HEALTH MINISTER BOB McCLELLAND - C - McClelland's chief claims to fame in the past six months have been the introduction of his Heroin Treatment Act and his feuds with the medical profession. He hasn't handled either all that well, displaying a lack of sensitivity. Even the last-minute changes made to the heroin bill don't dispel that impression.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL GARDE GARDOM - C - Gardom remains one of the most pleasant, most affable, most liked men in government — much too affable and pleasant to be a really good cabinet minister, unfortunately. He lacks the streak of toughness and decisiveness that is needed in the crunch.

RECREATION AND CONSERVATION MINISTER SAM BAWLF - C - If Bawlf has done anything noteworthy with his major portfolio, it has slipped by everyone's notice. He has launched some interesting major projects in his role as minister responsible for Victoria, but has recently developed a regrettably heavy-handed, arrogant attitude towards the city. He should, however, get some credit for making some creative and long overdue changes in the ferry system.

HUMAN RESOURCES MINISTER BILL VANDER ZALM - C - Vander Zalm is a man with an unerring flair for publicity. However, he has not yet learned that the man who said it doesn't matter what they say about you in the papers as long as they spell your name right, was wrong. He has become the bad news boy of the cabinet, the perpetual bearer of cutbacks and budget slashes.

FINANCE MINISTER EVAN WOLFE - C - The criticism of Wolfe is the same as it has been since he was appointed: there is no evidence that he is the finance minister in anything but name. All the major policy decisions seem to be made by the premier.

ENVIRONMENT MINISTER JIM NIELSEN - C - Nielsen deserves credit for trying hard, but he hasn't accomplished anything noticeable that will significantly improve the environment in B.C.

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT MINISTER DON PHILLIPS - D - The B.C. economy is somewhat improved, but that mostly results from a better forest products market, not from anything Phillips has done. The results of his ministry's work are not impressive, and Phillips' performance in the legislature mostly consisted of saying nothing very loudly and at great length.

FORESTS MINISTER TOM WATERLAND - D - Waterland brought in the most important legislation of the session, but he never gave any indication he understood it. He handled criticism of it extremely badly and never, even in the House, gave any rational defence for what he was doing.

Grade for the cabinet as a whole - C - There are some strong ministers in the Bennett government, but the over-all tone for the past six months has been lacklusfre. They haven't done much that was really bad (although a couple of issues have been rather mishandled) but they haven't done much that was really stimulating or creative either.

One minister missing from this list is Alex Fraser, minister of highways and public works. Fraser was ill for much of the spring, and it was not possible to rate him fairly. — B.McL.

Next week: the opposition. — B.McL.

Congratulations!

I think some extra credit is due to the Vancouver Island Vistas soccer club who recently became the undefeated champions of Pacific Northwest Soccer League.

It was my pleasure and privilege to accompany the team to Seattle on the occasion of their game against the Seattle Sounders Reserves.

Seldom in my long experience of soccer have I witnessed such a magnificent recovery from a three-goal deficit as was staged by the Vistas. Handicapped by artificial turf and a very small field, they roared back with tremendous elan and cool, disciplined soccer, to score four unanswered goals against a fast-moving, tough team.

These fine young men, the flower of our local youth, deserve our appreciative notice. They are: Ted van Waes, Ray Telford, Mark Robb, Steve Caroll, Gordie Manzinni, Garnet Moen, Steve Forslund, Pat Smith, Frank Woods, Robbie Williams, John Leir, Peter Zachary, Danny Lomas.

Great credit must go to coach Brian Hughes, with his incisive perceptive counselling at the half, Dave Unwin for his devoted managerial activities and to Lou Williams for his expertise as trainer. — David H. Foster, 1250 Dallas Road.

No Thanks

In your article of Aug. 1 regarding Minnie Mountain, the developer, Mr. Rolston, is quoted as saying that his revised plan with lower apartment buildings was an effort to allay neighborhood fears about high rises. Mr. Rolston's efforts are not very impressive. The overwhelming majority of residents in the Cadboro Bay area favor single family dwellings and strongly oppose any multiple family units such as townhouses and apartments.

If he wished to allay residents' fears, he would have scrapped the apartments and townhouses and proposed a single family development which conformed to the existing density regulations. The change in apartment height was merely window dressing and has no real effect on the over-all impact of the proposal.

He is trying to sell a plan which emphasizes a certain quality of development; the residents oppose the plan not on its quality but on its suitability. This plan is unsuitable to the residents because it threatens to break down the quiet atmosphere of Cadboro Bay by intruding on a single family area and establishing a precedent for other high density dwellings. — R. M. Boss, President, Cadboro Bay Residents' Association.

What Controls?

Now that the so-called price and wage controls are being phased out one can only wonder when were they ever in effect? That is to say, when were there any price controls?

A case in point is the bus fares on B.C. Hydro's transit system. In November, 1976 the fares jumped 10 cents or 40 per cent. Now this year it is announced the fares will be upped another 15 cents or a 100 per cent increae in 22 months.

If the chairman, Robert Bonner, cannot or will not hold a line on transit costs to the point where he has to inflict an additional increase on the weary traveller, then he should step down and provide room at the top for someone with a little more business accumen.

If the Anti-Inflation Board with its price and wage controls was supposed to do something about the lagging economy and the high inflation rates it fell far short of its mark. The only ones to benefit were the higher echelons of corporate management and politicians with their ideal tax structures.

If the unions and the public want a bone of contention to gnaw on why not boycott the buses on Sept. 5 onward until the Hydro people come down to earth? — Bernie Frankum, General Delivery, Victoria.

The New Japanese Empire

By JOEL KOTKIN

SAN FRANCISCO — From the highrise office towers of this western financial capital to the rich wilderness lands of Alaska, Japan is building a new economic empire in the American West.

Japanese interests, enriched by a huge trading surplus with the United States and the skyrocketing value of their yen currency, are quietly buying billions of dollars' worth of western land, timber, fish, agricultural products and industrial facilities.

Close to half of Japan's almost $29 billion trade with the United States in 1977 went through western ports, where thousands of Japanese cars, television and other manufactured goods were exchanged for western minerals, timber and farm products.

Over the last decade in each of the five Pacific western states — Alaska, Hawaii, Oregon, Washington and California — Japan has emerged as both prime international trading partner and investor, establishng an economic sphere of influence unprecedented in the often-xenophobic West during recent times.

Many western business and government leaders are seeking to encourage this growing interdependence with Japan as a way to expand the already prospering economies of their states.

"We don't want to rely any more on the establishment of the eastern states. They're Europe-oriented, and our future is with Japan and the Pacific Rim," said Richard King, director of the newly establised California Office of International Trade.

"The Japanese see California as part of their 'Pacific co-prosperity sphere,' and we better be responsive to that," he said.

While sharing King's sentiments, many Japanese businessmen shy away from the "co-prosperity sphere" label out of fear that some Americans might recall how that precise term was used by Second World War Japanese militarists to justify their then-farflung Pacific empire.

"But, of course, we do see it that way," said one smiling Japanese banker in San Francisco. "We see California already as part of Japan. Oh, yes. California Prefecture."

Huge trade surplus spurs purchase Of land and resources in Western U.S.

But the increasing power of Japan over the western economy is no laughing matter to others here who fear that a quasi-colonial relationship is developing between the western states and the island nation.

They claim the West, in classic colonial fashion, is already surrendering its vital natural resources in exchange for much more costly manufactured products — a pattern which last year caused the western states to run up over a $3.6 billion deficit with Japan, twice the region's 1976 trade imbalance.

Kazutoshi Satta, manager of the San Francisco office of the mammoth Mitsui Trading Co. and director of the Northern California Japanese Chamber of Commerce, said he expects the present Japan-western states trading pattern to continue in the coming years.

With the exception of airplanes and maybe some canned foods, Satta said he believes western industries will have little chance of selling finished products in Japan.

"Our processing industries are simply better than in the United States," said Satta, whose 300-year-old company has more than 140 trading offices in some 80 nations. "If the United States wants to sell us finished consumer products, they don't have a chance."

Japan's continuing reluctance to purchase American-manufactured goods makes some western business leaders fear their region may become a mere "resource colony" of an ever-expanding Japanese imperium.

"The question is whether we want to become a banana republic," said E. Floyd Kwamme, vice president of National Semi-Conductor, a large electronics manufacturer in Santa Clara, 40 miles south of San Francisco. "The problem is that manufacturing creates more jobs than agriculture. If we think we are trying to balance our trade imbalance with the Japanese by selling them beef and grapefruit, we'll end up killing our industrial base."

The semi-conductor industry, which makes the component parts for computers and other advanced electronic products, is one of a number of western industries, including lumber milling, fish processing, steel and autos (almost one-quarter of California's cars come from Japan, twice the national average), that are reeling from strong Japanese competition.

While American manufacturers still control 60 per cent of the world's semi-conductor market, the industry has been singled out for domination by the Japanese industrial establishment, backed financially with government research money.

Already, enriched by the over 33 per cent increase in the value of the yen since 1972, some Japanese semiconductor companies are moving into places like Santa Clara's "silicone valley," perhaps the world's single most important concentration of high-technology industry, buying out small American firms, hiring skilled American engineers and, in the process, according to National's Kwamme, "packing for themselves the fruit of our technology."

At the same time, American semi-conductor executives complain that their products are being restricted on the Japanese home market by tough import regulations and alleged government-business collusion in Tokyo.

Japanese business leaders claim that their intrusion into the proviously American-dominated semiconductor and computer industries is necessitated by the rapid rise in the value of the yen, which has made numerous Japanese products — including shoes, textiles and radios — less competitive with these of such Asian countries as Taiwan and Korea.

"We have to keep exporting our manufactured goods to survive, but we are finding our neighbors in Asia are making the goods we used to make, so we have to go into high technology in a big way," said Mitsui's Satta. "I know these days computers are delicate commodities, but our technology level must keep improving so someday there's a chance we will be able to ship lots of computers here. The Americans are good at inventing new machines, but, in the ability to apply those inventions, well, maybe the Japanese have more ability."

Opposition to the growing power of Japanese investment — estimated by top Japanese business sources at $25 billion last year, more than a third of it in the western states — is also developing in the Pacific Northwest, where highly active Japanese-owned firms are buying logs and fish in huge quantities and shipping them back to Japan for processing.

George Cassidy, president of the Portland-based Lumber Production Industrial Workers, claims Japanese reluctance to buy finished U.S. lumber instead of logs has forced the closure of more than 100 sawmills throughout the Northwest over the past decade.

"The exporting of the raw materials from which our jobs spring," Cassidy insists, "is the exporting of our jobs."

George Hess, a spokesman for Weyerhaeuser, a major log exporter to Japan, says the Japanese prefer to buy logs rather than finished timber because "they are artisans. They cut their wood differently than we do." The Weyerhaeuser spokesman added that congressional legislation has forced American lumber companies to ship all their intra-national trade in American vessels, and claimed that makes it far too expensive for northwestern lumbermen to trade with their traditional East Coast markets.

Hess also said the rejuvenated U.S. southern timber industry and Quebec now supply most of the East's lumber needs, leaving northwestern companies to seek foreign, mostly Japanese, markets.

There is also growing concern in the Northwest about reported attempts by Japanese interests to buy out or control many American fishing companies in the region. Ed Furia, co-chairman of the North Pacific Ocean Protein Coalition, a U.S. fishing lobby group, said he fears that Japanese-owned companies in the Northwest are giving foreigners control of a key natural resource.

"I don't see anything wrong with majority investment in areas like television and cars,' Furia said, "but I don't think that we should allow majority foreign investment in strategic resources."

A high-ranking executive of one Japanese majority-owned fishing firm, however, disagreed with Furia's assertion, claiming that the Japanese investors have proven a godsend for many foundering northwestern fishing companies.

"The fishing business in this country has not been all that good," said the executive, who asked that neither his name nor that of his company be used. "Most of the companies which have sold out — or rather sold to — Japanese investors did so because they couldn't keep their heads above water, financially. Prices are up simply because the Japanese are willing to pay more for the fish."

As dollar goes down, yen goes up

Other rumblings about the Japanese power in the West are coming from Alaska, where several native American villages have had run-ins with Japanese firms seeking to purchase their abundant timber and fish resources.

"I think we're becoming very concerned about them," said Tom Richards, editor of the Tundra Times, Alaska's oldest native-owned newspaper. "The Japanese are very experienced in the corporate world, and some of our contacts with them have not been the best. The native companies are going to be very cautious in dealing with them from now on because they're trying to assume control in the fisheries area."

Despite these growing concerns about Japan's economic influence over the West, most states, including Alaska, seem anxious to strengthen their links with the Asian economic powerhouse.

Dick Eakins, Alaska's director of Industrial Development, said he believes the need for the Japanese market far outweighs other considerations.

Japan's critics are leading some of that nation's businessmen to urge their government to loosen some barriers against American exports.

But some leading western businessmen, like Robert Noyce, chairman of Intel, a leading California semiconductor manufacturer, say nothing substantial can be accomplished about the trade deficit until American governmental agencies and workers learn how to match the discipline and tough marketing policies of the Japanese.

"We businessmen are sick of being the scapegoats of everything. The problem is the American worker and the consumer, too. We're all screwed-up, the whole fabric of our society," Noyce said.

"If you're shipping out dollars, if you can't pay your bills, you have to sell your house to the Japanese so that you can drive your goddam Toyota. Maybe if we sell it all, we can nationalize them. That's what everyone else does when it goes too far."

The Problems of Pillow Criticism

katharine whitehorn

LONDON — When novelist Penelope Mortimer was married to playwright John Mortimer she used to show him what she'd written every evening. He would say either: "Magnificent — but don't you think . . ." and then they'd discuss it. Or he'd say: "That's fine," in which case she'd tear it up.

When Simone Signoret was writing her autobiography, husband Yves Montand would yell at her: "Do you think you're bloody Madame Dostoyevsky?" And when a friend asked best-selling novelist Mary Stewart, who is married to scientist Sir Frederick Stewart, how her book was going, she said: "All right except for my hero. Fred wants me to change his name and break his leg."

Even lesser mortals like columnists have their troubles. Polly Toynbee, runner-up for Britain's Best Columnist Award last year and winner of the Rowan Wilson Prize for medical writing, has a terrible time with her husband Peter Jenkins, a political maestro.

When she writes about politics, he knows far too much ever to agree with her.

And since my husband is Gavin Lyall, who writes thrillers, I go through the same agony — especially when I touch on any subject about which he feels strongly, like NATO, the European Airbus, trade unions, King Arthur (he's in favor) or Andrew Young (he's against).

Every one of us must have cringed with sympathy during those terrible scenes in the film Julia where Lilian Hellmann submits her play to lover Dashiell Hammett. We, too, have prowled round the house waiting for the man to finish reading; we, too, use that whipped-dog look of mute appeal when the verdict is to be delivered.

Why do we do it? Men don't. In my tougher moments I think it's sheer weak mindedness: we lay ourselves open to the whipping because we want — we need — the pat on the head and the lump of sugar.

Sometimes I think it's because it's only from them we get the truth — but at other times I think they're the last people on earth to tell us anything of the sort.

For what makes it so ghastly is that it's all so personal. The objective literary criticism takes on the quality of a personal row; you are wounded in your private feelings, not just your professional prose; the knife goes in at exactly that place which years of cohabitation have taught them it will strike home most surely.

No wonder doctors never operate on their wives; it's against their ethics, it's against all common prudence. In my view, if Parliament and the newspapers ever do agree on a press charter of professional ethics for British journalism, they should write in a clause equivalent to the medical one.

It should be a point of principle that no one shows anything they've written to anyone they go to bed with. It might, I suppose, cause some curious situations between virile features editors and up-and-coming girl writers; but that, for heaven's sake, is their worry.

House Finches On the March

Five years ago, in January 1973 to be exact, I donned my seer's cap, gazed steadfastly into my crystal ball, and confidently predicted that British Columbia's position as the only province in Canada where one could see a House Finch would soon end.

It gives me great satisfaction to now announce that such has come to pass — the House Finches are in Ontario and have been since April, 1976.

The story behind this bit of tomfoolery began some time in the early 40's when unscrupulous pet dealers in New York were caught in the act of contravening the Migratory Birds Convention by selling these native American birds for pets. But before the law could put the arm on them, the dealers dumped the evidence — the birds — and the story of the House Finch in eastern North America got under way.

Until then, House Finches had been birds of the west — the far west — and showed no evidence of changing that situation voluntarily. Until then, too, British Columbia had been the only place in Canada where House Finches held forth.

Well, with the releases in New York, the House Finch was on its way. Within 10 years it had spread from Lower Manhattan and Long Island to Connecticut, and up the Hudson River to up-state New York and Pennsylvania. Meanwhile, others were spreading south with Maryland and North Carolina being added to the territory of the House Finch.

By 1971 they had reached Buffalo, New York, and were in northern England in force. Two years later I made my prediction, and three years after that they had entered Canada — at Fort Erie.

The reason for resurrecting this little story of human perfidy and avian opportunism was a letter from Bill Camsell of Mississauga, Ont. — yes, Stray Feathers gets around — to the effect that he had a House Finch at his feeder recently, the first to be seen in the Toronto area.

Bill was justifiably excited about his find — particularly at his feeder. (You'd get the same feeling if you were to see a Field Sparrow at your feeder in Victoria). But, as with many of us who have both House Finches and Purple Finches coming to our feeders, the problem of identification isn't easy.

Bill sent me two color slides of his bird, neither of which help in the matter of identification. But a picture is one thing, seeing the bird in life is another. And Bill Camsell looks as if he's chalked up the fourth or fifth record for the House Finch in Ontario.

Whether the little fellows can hold on in the east — where the winters are somewhat more severe than here — is a matter of conjecture. So far they've managed to do quite well in the northeastern states — which have some pretty fair winters themselves — so there is reason to be optimistic about their future in Ontario.

But while all eyes have been directed towards the activities of the House Finches in the east, their western counterparts have been on the move too. Formerly limited to areas west of the Rocky Mountains, the westerners — under their own steam — have spread as far east as Nebraska with a strong population now established in Montana.

If these flows continue, the westerners to the east and the easterners to the west, the day does not seem too far off when House Finches will be found all across the United States. Nor does it seem too improbable that provinces such as Alberta will soon join British Columbia and Ontario as places in Canada to see the House Finch.

Projecting a little farther into the future, it isn't too unrealistic to predict that Quebec and the Maritimes will join us as the House Finches — already poised on their southern borders — move in. Which leaves only Manitoba and Saskatchewan, and all I get for them when I look into my crystal ball is blizzards — no House Finches, just blizzards.

Ask your builder about the Super-Insulation System... the lifetime heat and money saver!

"Super-Insulation uses batts inside the walls...plus a blue blanket of STYROFOAM SM on the outside!"
"It leaves no heat-robbing gaps in your home's defences!"
"You'll save on heating bills for as long as you own your new home!"

It's a fact: if you're building or buying a new home, the Super-Insulation System is your best protection against the high cost of home heating. There's nothing complicated about it. S.I.S. simply retains regular batt insulation within the walls and replaces ordinary low-efficiency sheathing on the outside with high-efficiency STYROFOAM* SM insulating sheathing. Result? A snug blue blanket that wraps your home in permanent, super-efficient insulation from top to bottom, corner to corner, and all points between (including the door and window frames).

So, if you're in the market for a new home, talk to your builder about the Super-Insulation System. He'll tell you how the small extra cost is more than repaid by substantial savings and extra comfort all year, every year!

Family Retrieves Money Lost By Lawyer's Fiddle

VANCOUVER (CP) — A family from Oliver will be paid back the $42,000 they invested in mortgages following a British Columbia Supreme Court decision that Vancouver lawyer Peter O'Brian was grossly negligent in handling the money.

O'Brian invested the money on behalf of Dr. Robert Walton and his wife in mortgages issued by companies controlled by Paul Pidgeon. Pidgeon, a one time Vancouver mortgage broker, is in prison following conviction last fall on two counts of fraud.

In a written decision this week, Mr. Justice D. R. Verchere said Walton wanted to invest $12,000 in his wife's name and another $30,000 for a family trust. In July 1976, he inquired about an advertisement, offering three mortgages for sale, that Pidgeon had placed in a newspaper.

Pidgeon referred the doctor to O'Brian who discussed the advertised mortgages with Walton. When Walton forwarded the $42,000, however, O'Brian invested the money in a different kind of security. He bought an assignment of a mortgage on a right to purchase, instead of mortgages on realty.

Justice Verchere said that as a result of the manipulations, several cheques sent to Walton as interest payments bounced at which point Walton contacted a lawyer.

He ruled that the plaintiffs were entitled to the amount paid plus interest. Negligence claims are ususally paid from an insurance fund maintained by dues from all practicing lawyers.

'KILLERS DON'T GIVE WARNINGS'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Helen Sovilj, the widow of murdered Vancouver pediatrician Dr. Vladimir Sovilj, should not be overly concerned about the threats against her life because "If someone is going to kill you, they're not going to warn you about it," Ljubo Krvavac, a member of the Croatian Society of B.C. says.

Mrs. Sovilj has said that she has received several direct and indirect threats since her husband's murder outside the downtown YMCA on last September. She said she suspects the murder and the ensuing telephone threats are the work of the Ustashi, a violent fascist political group that seeks croation separation from Yugoslavia.

Dr. Sovilj, a Serbian, was said to be a supporter of the Communist government in Yugoslavia.

"She's just guessing," said Krvavac. "If he was an enemy of the Ustashi why wasn't he killed 20 years ago? He could have been murdered for any number of reasons. He was a rich man. Maybe someone killed him because of one of his business deals."

Krvavac said the Ustashi did not exist in Vancouver.

"Most of those guys either got killed in the war or are in jail" he said. "Maybe they're still around in Europe, I don't know, but they sure aren't over here."

He said there has been biased reporting against Croations ever since the murder occurred.

"I thought everyone was innocent until proven guilty but now people think I'm some kind of terrorist just because I'm Croation."

Dusan Maskovich, president of the Serbian Eastern Orthodox Church of St. Sava, said Sovilj's murder was probably politically oriented but wouldn't speculate on what group was responsible.

KENYA
RURAL WATER SUPPLY

Applications are invited from civil engineers with extensive practical experience in the construction, operation, and maintenance of water supply systems servicing rural communities. Previous involvement in technical assistance and training in a developing country will be considered a strong advantage.

The successful candidate will fill a major role in a Canadian team assisting the Kenya Government in Western and Nyanza Provinces over a 2 year period. He will have at least 5 years' experience in the management of water systems and be familiar with administrative procedures as well as the technical aspects of their operation.

Demonstrated competence for effective communication, both formally and informally, is required since the success of his efforts will depend to a large extent on his capability to provide useful advice which is followed by less experienced staff.

Resignation Demanded

PENTICTON (CP) — The president of the British Columbia Wildlife Federation has demanded the resignation of federal Environment Minister Len Marchand for criticizing fisheries officers involved in a dispute with native Indian fishermen last month at Lilloet.

Dick Cole said the 22,000-member federation has asked Prime Minister Trudeau to fire Marchand "for making irresponsible statements against civil servants who are charged with upholding the law."

Cole was referring to a statement Marchand made earlier this week in which the minister said fisheries officers involved in the July confrontation over a two-day fishing ban were over-zealous and lacked adequate training and discipline.

"The federation is shocked that a minister would make irresponsible and outrageous claims of wrongdoing against fisheries patrol officers without ascertaining the true fact," said Cole.

B.C. Rail Workers Seek 50%

VANCOUVER (CP) — Initial demands by seven British Columbia Railway unions, bargaining in a joint council, call for more than a 50- per cent wage and benefit increase in one year, the Crown corporation said Friday.

B.C. Rail also said it applied Friday for a mediator to assist in negotiations for a new contract to replace one that expired Monday. Earlier this week the unions said they will take a strike vote.

The railway said it has offered the 1,800 workers a three-year contract with wage increases of seven per cent in the first year, 5.6 per cent in the second year and 5.2 per cent in the third.

Two Scientists Sought For Research on 2,4-D

VANCOUVER (CP) — The federal government is looking for two scientists to do research on the herbicide 2,4-D because the use of the herbicide has not yet been proven safe, according to an Environment Canada spokesman.

At the same time, Mac Clark of Environment Canada's inland waters directorate said of the herbicide, there's also "no evidence yet to indicate that it's not safe".

On that basis, Clark said he thinks the British Columbia government made a "sound decision" in using the herbicide against Eurasian milfoil in the Okanagan Lakes.

He said Environment Canada is looking for two scientists — to be stationed in Vancouver and in Burlington, Ont. — to study the ecological effects of the herbicide on flora and fauna in fresh water lakes and rivers.

"They will do research on ecological methods of controlling Eurasian milfoil and the potential long-term effects of 2,4-D on benthic communities in water — whether the 2,4-D may be damaging or not."

He said 19 people have applied for the position so far.

The B.C. government's herbicide program was curtailed this year after protests and court actions by groups opposed to its use in the lake system in which about 2,000 acres are infested. Treatments were made in several areas, but others were postponed.

Searchers Find Body Of Missing Boy, 8

NEW DENVER (CP) — Searchers have found the body of an eight-year-old boy who went missing from this West Kootenay town in southeastern B.C. July 27.

RCMP divers recovered the body of Peter John Urae from Carpenter Creek, which flows through the town into Slocan Lake, on Friday.

Still missing is Christopher Allan Wells, 28, who was last seen collecting bottles with the boy.

Police have not yet revealed the cause of the boy's death.

RCMP Cpl. Herb Stengert said Thursday that police had no idea where the two were.

"We've covered the area as far as 24 kilometres away so all we can do now is go over a few places that weren't checked as thoroughly as others," he said.

New Cable Service

VERNON (CP) — The Interior Cable Operations Association filed a letter of intent Thursday with the Canadian Radio-Television and Telecommunications Commission to apply to extend cablevision service to at least 19 communities in northern British Columbia.

The proposal would provide Dawson Creek, Fort St. John, Mackenzie, Vanderhoof, Fort St. James, Burns Lake, Granisle, Houston and Smithers with up to seven additional channels.

Picketing Halted

VANCOUVER (CP) — The International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, on strike at Pacific Northern Gas, were ordered Friday to stop picketing a Pacific Petroleums Ltd. oil refinery near Fort St. John.

The British Columbia Labor Relations Board ruled that Pacific Petroleum, the major shareholder of Westcoast Transmission Ltd., which in turn controls Pacific Northern, is not an ally of the gas utility company that operates between Prince George and Prince Rupert.

The union resumed picketing earlier this week of the Pacific Petroleums refinery site, which includes a Westcoast gas plant, after talks for a first contract broke down the previous week.

Editor Dies

VANCOUVER (CP) — Funeral services were held Thursday at St. Paul's Anglican Church for Donald Robert Lyall Bruce, editor of the British Columbia Motorist for 16 years and a past-chairman of the Vancouver branch of the Media Club of Canada.

Born in Evansburg, Alta., on Aug. 8, 1915, Bruce graduated from the University of Alberta in 1935 and from the Columbia School of Journalism in 1937.

Area Evaluated

A report on the agricultural development and potential of the Fort Nelson area shows there is a substantial area adjacent to city which is suitable for producing a wide range of crops, Agriculture Minister Jim Hewitt said Friday.

He added, however, that the high cost of clearing and developing it are seen to be a major obstacle to agricultural development

The minister said in a news release that the climate throughout the growing season is comparable to the more productive portions of the Peace River area and would be suitable for cereals, seed, forage and number of vegetable crops.

Cherry Crop The Pits

KELOWNA (CP) — Adverse weather conditions this year throughout the Okanagan Valley have caused a reduction in the Okanagan cherry crop, according to Joe Bauer, domestic sales manager for British Columbia Tree Fruits.

The estimated total crop for 1978 is 513,000 cases, each weighing about nine kilograms, down from 715,000 cases in 1977, or a decline of 28 per cent, he said.

He said unseasonal conditions during blossom time and rainfalls as cherries were ripening caused the drop in production. Rainfalls July 9 and 10 resulted in splitting, rendering some of the crop unfit for anything but processing, said Bauer.

He said the fruit industry now is well into processing the apricot and peach crops.

Winery's Import Under Probe

KELOWNA (CP) — The British Columbia liquor control and licensing branch is conducting an investigation into the importation of 380,000 litres of California white wine by Calona Wines Ltd. of Kelowna.

Bal Munkley, assistant general manager of the LCLB, said in Victoria that normally B.C. wineries, through the provincial ministry of agriculture, are allowed to import 20 per cent of their grape requirements. Munkley said they are not allowed to import foreign wine.

The wine, estimated to be worth more than $200,000, is for blending with B.C. wine made from Interior grapes, branch officials said, and is equivalent to 540,000 kilograms, or 540 metric tonnes of grapes.

Munkley said the winery brought the wine into B.C. without permission from the LCLB, as required by the branch.

He said the situation is in the hands of Vic Woodlands, LCLB general manager, but Woodlands is on vacation "and I don't know if he has decided to hold a hearing or not."

Oak Bay, Region Get Grants

Oak Bay, the Capital Region District and Sidney are among 107 municipalities and regional districts that have received sewer and water grants this year.

Sidney got $87,431 toward sewerage facilities and $42,798 toward water facilities. The Capital Region District got $15,528 and Oak Bay $4,375 toward sewers.

In announcing the grants Friday, Municipal Affairs Minister Hugh Curtis said a total of more than $6.5 million had been paid out to 107 municipalities and regional districts.

$750,000 For Housing

The B.C. government has approved grants totalling $750,000 for two housing projects, Housing Minister Hugh Curtis said Friday.

Curtis said $490,000 has been allocated for the Hays Vale Mobile Home subdivision in Prince Rupert, completed in 1976, for improvements including sewer and storm drainage upgrading.

He said $260,000 has been approved for the 14-storey Kamloops Masonic Temple Acacia Tower for senior citizens.

Driver Found Negligent

A 21-year-old Duncan man has been ruled negligent in a traffic accident which occurred more than four years ago.

Mr. Justice Gordon MacKinnon of B.C. Supreme Court said Michael Roy Summers drove his car while the steering was defective.

His written judgment and the four-day trial in Victoria in June dealt only with the issue of liability.

Summers' Vauxhall collided head-on with a Pinto driven by Joanne Lee Meyer (formerly Pearson), 23, of Duncan on March 17, 1974, in the 1400-block Maple Bay Road between Duncan and Maple Bay.

Three separate actions were consolidated for the trial.

Summers said the accident was due to a defect in the steering mechanism of his vehicle which prevented him from controlling its direction and that the failure was not his fault and the accident was inevitable.

But MacKinnon noted that Summers was aware before the accident of some play in the steering wheel and had stated his concern.

An expert witness testified that the rear main support bolt would have been broken for at least two weeks before the accident and such a defect would have been found by a qualified mechanic had the sloppy steering been reported to him.

"I find the defendant Summers knew or should, in the circumstances, have known the steering in his vehicle required inspection by someone qualified to determine whether some repair was required," said MacKinnon.

"It is clear from the expert's testimony that had Summers reported 'the play' in the steering, the defect that in fact existed in the steering box could readily have been detected and the appropriate steps taken to correct that defect.

"There was an obvious problem with his steering prior to the accident and it was known by him to exist and it demanded he do something about it.

"Notwithstanding his tender years and brief driving experience he had a clear duty to the public to investigate any unusual characteristic in the performance of the steering so as to prevent any damage that may arise from a failure.

"Had the steering been investigated this accident would not have occurred. Because he failed to have an inspection the accident did occur. I find that Summers' failure to arrange for the inspection amounts to negligence and I reject his plea of inevitable accident."

MacKinnon also ruled that Meyer, the driver of the Pinto, was not negligent by failing to keep a proper lookout or taking evasive action.

Meyer was represemnted in two of the three lawsuits by Don Farquhar and by Douglas MacFarlane in the other. Ken Murphy represented Summers.

Clinic Jammed for Shots

Health officer Dr. William MacInnes said that if no symptoms of polio appear in the area by the end of the week, there will be no more risk of anyone contracting the disease.

In the Victoria area, large supplies of Salk polio vaccine will be available by Wednesday for anyone wanting it but there is no reason for alarm, Capital Region health officer Dr. Allan Arneil said today.

"What we are dealing with is a single case in Chilliwack. There are no other confirmed cases in British Columbia. We are taking precautions and we expect the outbreak will be contained."

Anyone who has had a polio vaccination within the past five years should be 100 per cent safe, he said.

Most others should be safe as well but anyone who is concerned could get a needle vaccination at a community health clinic starting Wednesday. These clinics are listed on page 94 of the Victoria telephone directory.

There is no oral Sabin vaccine left if Victoria. It has all been sent to Chilliwack, where an emergency vaccination clinic has been established.

Those in Victoria who could require vaccinations, he said, are those who plan to travel to Holland, where the outbreak orginated, or who have household guests from Holland. Some medical people are also being advised to take shots.

Arneil said Victoria has ordered a large supply of Salk vaccine and it should arrive Tuesday or Wednesday at the latest.

There will be a special Victoria clinic at 9 a.m. Monday, a provincial holiday, for urgent cases only, Arneil said.

The clinic, at 1947 Cook, is intended for those going to Holland soon who can not wait for the regular clinic on Wednesday. Only urgent cases will be dealt with Monday.

The clinic opens at 9 a.m. and all eligible people there at that time will be innoculated.

"Once everyone is vaccinated we will close the specal clinic. We don't want to have the nurses waiting around."

Anyone with urgent problems connected with the vaccination program could contact Arneil during the weekend at 388-4421 or 592-1313.

For other people, there is no real emergency, he stressed.

He said he wanted to avoid having a number of calls at clinics on Tuesday in the event the vaccine had not arrived by then.

"There is a large supply, more than enough. There is no reason to rush or become concerned.

"There is only one case and it serves as a reminder that vaccinations are a good idea."

While the disease was unlikely to spread here, all necessary precautions will be taken, he said, because Chilliwack is not far away.

People who are concerned they may have contacted the disease should check with their doctor.

"But polio is difficult to detect in the early stages," he said. "The symptoms are the same as the summer flu that is going around."

Signs of polio, he said, are a high temperature accompanied by a weakness of the muscles.

"If you have fever and have difficulty raising your arm or wiggling your toes, this could be a symptom."

A stiff neck is not necessarily a symptom, he said, because it could result from the common flu virus.

Footprints Of Crime Fingered

LONDON (UPI) — London's top policeman says fingerprints are nice things to have in seeking out wrongdoers — but palm, toe and footprints would be even better.

The proposal was included in a 169-page omnibus bill for combatting crime presented by Metropolitan Police Commissioner David McNee in which he demanded sweeping new powers for the police.

He said police should have the power to take an arrested person's finger, palm, toe and footprints, using "reasonable" force if necessary to do the job.

He also asked for the right to fingerprint entire communities, if necessary, in serious rape and murder cases.

McNee said crime is increased by "Utopian measures" designed to protect the individual.

MDs Urging Patients To Back them on Bills

VANCOUVER (CP) — A group of general practitioners throughout British Columbia are asking their patients to support them in a protest against a regulation requiring patients to sign doctor's billing forms.

The patients are being given a form letter, addressed to Health Minister Robert McClelland, which states that the patient objects to the regulation. Patients are asked to sign the letter and send it to the ministry of health.

The B.C. Medical Association (BCMA) currently involved in a court battle to quash the regulation, supports the move, but is not involved in it, said BCMA spokesman Jim Gilmore Friday.

"We're not recommending this, but certainly not criticizing it either," said Gilmore. "It's certainly BCMA policy to oppose this move."

Doctors have the right to solicit support from their patients, said Gilmore. "It's not coercion. Coercion is against the law."

Gilmore said he doesn't think the practice is "that widespread."

"I think it's just a group of doctors who have spontaneously decided to bring their patients into it."

He said he did not know how many doctors were involved.

McClelland announced the regulation in June, saying it would serve to provide public accountability of doctors' billing practices and help detect patients who may be overutilizing the medical service.

The BCMA says patients will be unwilling to sign the blank billing cards and that the regulation will increase paperwork, will increase costs and will disrupt office routines.

About 4,300 doctors will be affected if the regulation is put into effect. The matter is now being decided by the courts and Justice Nathan Nemetz is expected to hand down a decision early next week, said Gilmore.

$7 Million Spent so Far Fighting Forest Fires

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia already has spent $7 million fighting forest fires this year and foresters say electrical storms forecast for the B.C. Day holiday weekend in the interior will intensify the crisis.

No thunderstorms are expected to hit the Island over the weekend although some isolated showers are forecast along the coasts.

Russ Campbell, B.C. forest service spokesman, said Friday that this year's forest firefighting costs are more than triple those of last year, when $1.8 million was spent.

There have been fewer, but much bigger, fires this year, Campbell said.

He said 1,500 men are fighting fires.

"What we need is rain without electricity," he said. "This weekend's weather is the worst kind for us. The forests in northern B.C. are exploding.

"Within minutes of a lightning strike 15 to 20 acres are on fire. And we're getting fairly heavy winds, so it's like dynamite."

The major boost to costs has been exceptionally dry conditions in the Prince Rupert district, a vast region in northwest B.C. where it is hard to detect fires fast enough to stop their rapid growth.

Campbell said an electrical storm late Friday in the Babine Lake — Skeena River area of the Prince Rupert district started at least 30 fires and a score of fires had been touched off by lightning in the North Thompson region.

He said interior regions, such as Williams Lake, the Chilcotin, Kamloops and Nelson, have reported an increase in fires this week.

Until recently, these areas were enjoying the results of a wet spring that kept fires down to half the usual number.

A 1,500-acre forest fire was burning out of control Friday about 24 kilometres east of Quesnel.

Officials said the fire was spreading in a northerly direction with the help of 30- to 40-kilometre wind, but flames were not moving toward any populated areas.

Harness Racing Boon to Sidney

By AL FORREST
Times Staff

Sidney had mixed feelings about the idea of summer-long harness racing at Sandown but now that it's under way everyone is smiling.

"The harness people have turned out to be good neighbors," Sidney Chamber of Commerce president C.E. Goodman said Friday.

"And the jobs are a real boost for the area. The impact has been all good. People stay in the hotels, eat in the restaurants and go shopping in town. Harness racing is a major new industry."

Orangeville Raceways Ltd. spokesman Jim Keeling Jr. said the feeling is mutual, the harness racing officials are happy to be at Sandown and they plan to stay awhile, despite being in the red during its first year.

"We will lose $100,000 this year on operations," he said. "And there is another $100,000 for capital improvements. We will be out of pocket $200,000 at the end of the season.

"Actually that isn't too bad at all. We expected it would take a while to catch on. We should be able to break even in our second season. After that, we should grow strongly. We expect to double our handle in four years."

Orangeville needs betting of $11,000 a race to break even. The race track collects 10.5 per cent of that amount ($1,155) and the rest goes in government taxes and in bet payouts.

"The average betting is only $8,400 a race but the significant thing is how much we have improved. On opening day the handle was only $66,000 or $6,000 a race. But now it is almost double. We have had one week with an average over $10,000 a race.

"Last week the average was $9,500, up from $9,400 the week before. It keeps getting better."

Despite the first-year loss, Orangeville plans to be at Sandown for a long time — at least four years and probably 20. The track has been leased for the four years with an option on 16 more.

At the end of the fourth season a major decision will have to be made: whether to continue and, if so, whether to construct its own race-track in the area or continue at Sandown.

Keeling said there is nothing to indicate Orangeville will leave in less than 20 years.

"We're very happy with the way things are going and we are planning for the long term."

He admits to a few first-season problems.

"We had far too many people employed on opening day. But we had two previous openings where we didn't have enough people. That was a worse mistake. We vowed we wouldn't let that happen again."

The previous openings were in Orangeville, Ont., where the company was founded, and in Cloverdale.

For the Sandown opening there were 150 employees on the payroll and many had very little to do.

The staff was quickly pared down to 115. With the arrival of summer and larger crowds, the staff was increased to the present total of 130. The weekly payroll is $10,000.

"About half the employees live in the Victoria area and the rest are from Sidney and Central Saanich. We have a number of housewives on the concession stands while the people at the betting windows are mainly students."

Most employees work on a bonus system. There is a flat salary plus a bonus, based on the handle.

"In four years the handle will double but that doesn't mean the staff will be twice as large. We have a very large staff now and it would only have to increase about 25 per cent to handle twice as many people."

This would add about another 35 to the payroll.

Most employees have a four-day week: the racing days, Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday. About 25 are full-time employees working a five-day week.

After opening day, the staff total was reduced by 15 in the betting windows and some concession workers were also laid off. The parking staff was reduced from four to one.

The present level of 130 employees is about as low as the race track can go to meet the demands of busy summer racing days.

In addition to the $10,000 local payroll, the racing has attracted 200 horsemen to the Sidney area for the season.

"They are living near the track and spending money in the community. This has been another benefit for the district," Keeting said.

Sidney Mayor Dick Leigh agrees.

"This racing season is doing us a lot of good. There are no problems at all and the jobs are welcome."

Sidney Review publisher John Manning says local merchants have noticed an increase in sales as a result of the harness season.

"The only complaint I have heard is from the Saanichton Fall Fair organizers. They are worried because there is racing on the Labor Day weekend when the fair is on but I think they can work it out. There is no reason why people shouldn't be able to go to both events during the weekend."

Goodman said the chamber was a bit concerned that money might leave the community because of the racing season.

"With the thoroughbreds, we noticed a decline in sales in Sidney when people were out at the track betting. But we haven't noticed any decline this summer. If anything, sales are improved because of the harness season."

Who Will Pay Bus Bills? Tindall

The key question to be answered Aug. 14 at the first meeting of the new Urban Transit Authority is how the province is going to help municipalities pay bus deficits, Victoria Ald. Bill Tindall said today.

Tindall, a member of the 10-member UTA board, said there is no doubt municipalities will have to begin paying for transportation deficits.

"The key question is: where will we get the money?"

Tindall said the provincial government has given assurances the funds will not come from property taxes in 1979 — but beyond that there are no guarantees.

"We will have to consider new sources of revenue. Tourism is our number two industry. Maybe we should use a portion of the hotel tax raised in this area to pay for the bus deficits. This is one idea we should consider."

Other possibilities include an increase in gasoline taxes and a surcharge on electricity bills.

What everyone wants to avoid, he said, is an increase in the property taxes to pay for transportation.

"Something more palatable will have to be found."

He said Victoria Mayor Mike Young has also indicated a strong opposition to using property taxes to pay transit deficits.

Tindall and Saanich Mayor Mel Couvelier will represent the Victoria region on the 10-member board. The other eight come from the Vancouver area.

Tindall said it appears the new Urban Transit Authority will act as a management group only. B.C. Hydro would continue to operate the bus system but now municipalities would have to pay the annual deficits.

All questions of routes and fares would be decided by the municipalities.

"Obviously there is no need to be concerned about a disruption of contracts with the bus drivers because these continue to be in force. The drivers are still working for B.C. Hydro."

Many questions remain to be answered under the new system but the key issue will be cost-sharing, Tindall said.

He said municipalities must face the reality they will have to pay transportation deficits that may grow larger each year.

Tindall's remarks follow a statement Friday by Muncipal Affairs Minister Hugh Curtis that municipalities were being unduly "alarmist" about the transportation changes.

Curtis said contracts with the bus drivers' Amalgamated Transit Union (ATU) continue to be in force.

"The Urban Transit Authority is not, I repeat, is not going to become an operating company. It will enter into operating arrangements with a number of companies for the delivery of service. One of these companies is B.C. Hydro.

"There are contractual agreements in place between Hydro and the ATU that are inviolate. They are legal documents."

Curtis said the transit changes, while making municipalities liable for the deficit, would for the first time give local governments a voice in transportation policies.

HELP OFFERED THEFT VICTIMS

The Burry family may have a holiday this summer after all, thanks to the generosity of two Times readers.

After reading an article in Friday's Times about the family losing their tent trailer and camping gear to a thief, they phoned to offer help.

One man said he had a tent he no longer needed which he'd gladly give them.

Another said he had a variety of camping equipment the family could use.

Darlene Burry, a welfare mother with three children to support, had saved 2½ years to buy the trailer and had only used it a couple of times when it was stolen from a carport at her home at #4, 2409 Chambers.

Judge Details Options For Heroin Sentences

A number of options are open to judges faced with sentencing those convicted of heroin-related offences before the compulsory Heroin Treatment Act comes into effect Jan. 1.

Les Bewley, taking time off the provincial court bench to act as a consultant to the Alcohol and Drug Commission, today explained the options to a problem raised by Judge Blake Allan in Victoria provincial court earlier this week.

Allan remanded Stephen Prescott, 26, of 991 Cloverdale, to sentencing after he pleaded guilty to a breaking and entering charge.

Prescott admitted to the court he had a heroin problem and was dependent on two to three caps per day.

Allan noted that the new Heroin Act had been proclaimed, but was unsure if any of the treatment facilities were available.

Bewley said Judge Allan has the power to adjourn the matter for sentencing until after Jan. 1 when the act comes into effect along with its treatment program.

At that time, Prescott could enter as a voluntary patient or Allan could order him to the program.

Or, more immediately, Prescott could voluntarily submit himself to one of the programs currently operated by the ADC.

For example, Bewley said, Prescott could seek help at the Drug and Alcohol Rehabilitation Society here in Victoria.

Allan could also suspend sentence, and as part of the probation order direct Prescott to seek treatment under one of the existing treatment programs.

Allan could also include another provision ordering Prescott to present himself to one of the evaluation panels that will be set up after Jan. 1.

Another option open to the judge, if he feels a jail sentence is necessary, is to require Prescott to appear before an evaluation panel upon his release as part of the post-incarceration probation.

Meanwhile, Bewley said he would call Allan to advise him of the options and said any other provincial court judge faced with a similar problem should call the ADC in Vancouver.

The ADC is in the process of switching its voluntary treatment programs to compulsory ones over the next five months.

Death Laid to Lack of Care for Senile

max low

The next day his body was pulled from the sea and Barbara Rolls says the accident should not have happened.

"That man and others like him would be alive today if we had a proper long term care facility for the ambulatory confused in the Lower Island area," explains Mrs. Rolls, whose husband is a patient in a local nursing home.

"My husband has to be restrained — tied to a chair — to keep him from wandering because the facilities at the nursing homes for this type of patient are simply inadequate," she adds.

The dead man's wife had feared something like this would happen, says Mrs. Rolls.

"The woman was really concerned for her husband's safety as he'd already disappeared several times before, often being missing seven or eight hours at a time. She used to take him for walks every day and have him home on the weekends but when she wasn't with him there was no one to prevent him from wandering away.

"Nursing homes here are just not equipped at all and there's no way that these patients should be in them."

Concern over the case of her own husband and for other people has led Mrs. Rolls, who is also health services chairman of the Consumers' Association of British Columbia, to write to Winfield Mott, long term care administrator for the Capital Regional District.

In stressing the need for a long term care facility in the area, Mrs. Rolls asked Mott if he would consider a survey to establish the number needing it.

"I personally know of several and feel there must be a need for a facility where such patients can move around freely and safely both inside and outside, and without invading the privacy of extended care patients in their rooms," she said in her letter.

"Admittedly the construction of such a facility will take time," she told Mott. "But could not modifications be made to an existing facility in the meantime so these patients would not have to be restrained?"

Mrs. Rolls' letter rightly pointed out the lack of such a facility "and the unfortunate situations which arise from that lack," Mott told her in his reply.

"To that I can add that your husband's status is hardly a unique one," he said. "There are a large number of people in this condition in your area, most of them without an articulate advocate such as yourself.

"Several facilities and proposed facilities have plans on paper to construct or renovate space to do exactly what you suggest."

Plans are taking shape and the problem should be dealt with in a much better way within three or four years, Mott told Mrs. Rolls. Renovations could bring some improvement even within a year, he said.

A brief submitted by the Consumers' Association as long ago as last December and urging the establishment of a long term care facility for the ambulatory confused in the Lower Island area, will be heard by the provincial health department at 8:30 next Wednesday morning.

"We're going to try to get the Minister to agree to a facility on the Lower Island," Mrs. Rolls explains. "The only places at present where such patients can be free to walk about but not roam off the premises are in Vernon and in a special wing at Riverview, both on the Mainland.

"You know, Mr. Mott said the problem here should be dealt with in a much better way in three or four years . . . but a lot of people can die in that time."

Canadians Away To a Rousing Start

EDMONTON (CP) — The home team is off to a rousing, if inhospitable start at the XIth Commonwealth Games, capturing three of the first five gold medals put up for competition.

The Canadians struck gold in the women's 100-metre freestyle and the men's 4x100-metre freestyle relay, the only two swimming events to be completed Friday, and won their third in the first cycling event, the 1,000-metre time trial.

The victories of 15-year-old Carol Klimpel of Toronto and the foursome of Bill Sawchuk of Thunder Bay, Ont., Graham Smith of Edmonton, Gary MacDonald of Mission City, B.C., and Peter Szmidt of Pointe Claire, Que., had been expected. But the triumph of Jocelyn Lovell of Toronto in the time trial had not been anticipated by the cycling experts, who rated Trevor Gadd of England and David Weller of Jamaica ahead of the veteran Canadian rider.

The three were the last competitors in the event, which was delayed by high winds after the other 33 riders had finished. At that point, Ken Tucker of Australia was the leader with Gord Singleton of Niagara Falls, Ont., in second place.

Weller, who shot into prominence last month with victories in the sprint and time trial at the Central American and Caribbean Games, started strongly but faded to an eventual 10th-place finish.

Then Lovell, a 28-year-old veteran who had won two gold medals at the 1970 Games in Edinburgh, flashed around the track in one minute six seconds, almost a full second faster than Tucker's time.

That left it up to Gadd, but the best the Englishman could do was 1:08.10, good for fifth place, leaving Tucker with the silver medal and Singleton with the bronze.

The first six riders broke the Games record of 1:08.69, set eight years ago by Harry Kent of New Zealand. Lovell's win was the first by a Canadian in the event.

The only gold medals to escape the Caladians on Friday were in two weightlifting divisions in which the host country was not entered.

Precious McKenzie won the 52 kg. class for New Zealand, getting a resounding ovation from the crowd as he captured his fourth successive Games title.

India's E. Karunakaran won the 56 kg. class.

Klimpel, whose rapid improvement as a freestyle swimmer inspired the Canadian coaching staff to drop highly-rated Gail Amundrud from the event, was the fastest swimmer in the heats and swam even faster in the final to win in 57.78 seconds. Rosemary Brown of Australia was second in 58.30 and Wendy Quirk of Pointe Claire, Que., third in 58.41.

All three, as well as fourth-place Susan Sloan of Stettler, Alta., were well under the Games record of 58.19, set by Amundrud in a relay in 1974, which had already taken a beating in the heats.

The freestyle relay was a spirited battle between the Canadian defending champions and Australia with Szmidt's strong anchor leg giving Canada the edge. The winning time was 3:27.94 to the Aussies' 3:28.42. Third-place England, at 3:30.10, also finished under the Canadians' 197 Games mark of 3:33.79.

MacDonald was the only survivor of that team, which also included Bruce Robertson, Ian MacKenzie and Brian Phillips.

Canadians looked impressive in the heats of other swimming events as only one member of the team failed to qualify for a final. That was Rob Baylis of North Vancouver, who fell one place short in the 200-metre freestyle even though his time bettered the old Games mark.

Lisa Borsholt of North Vancouver and Christine Hodson of Ottawa were the two fastest qualifiers in the women's 200 breaststroke and Graham Smith and his sister Becky appeared to be saving themselves as they qualified comfortably in the men's 400 and women's 200 individual medley.

The Australians, longtime rulers of the Commonwealth Games poll, made their best showing in the women's 800 freestyle as Michelle Ford won her heat in 8:31.58, barely a second off the world record, and team-mates Tracey Wickham and Joanne Litzow were the only others to complete the course in less than nine minutes. The former Games mark was 8:58.49.

Canada appeared set for a medal sweep in women's springboard diving with Janet Nutter of Toronto, Beverley Boys of Pickering, Ont., and Eniko Keifer of Dollard-des-Ormeaux, Que., entrenched in the first three places after their six preliminary dives.

While high hopes had been pinned on the Canadian swimmers and divers, there were encouraging performances by the home team in other sports.

The first two Canadian boxers emerged from the ring with victories, flyweight Ian Clyde of Montreal gaining a split decision over Emmanuel Mlundwa of Tanzania while featherweight Guy Boutin of Edmonton disposed of Kenneth Webb of Northern Ireland by a technical knockout in the third round.

The Canadian lawn bowlers, probably the longest-priced outsiders on the entire team, had a fair opening day as Bruce Matheson of Port Moody had a win and a loss in his first two round-robin matches and the pair of Graham Jarvis of Vancouver and Ron Jones of London, Ont., easily defeated New Zealand. The Canadian four lost its only start to Scotland.

Canada did well on the opening day of the badminton team competition, a new Games event, breezing to a 5-0 victory over the Isle of Man and upsetting second-seeded Malaysia 3-2.

More Than 'Shuttle' Put Rocks on Skids

VANCOUVER — Much was being made of Vancouver Burrards' success with their "shuttle system" but Victoria coach Nirmal Dillon saw another reason for the Shamrocks' defeat in their second meeting in the Western Lacrosse Association playoffs.

The Burrards, rebounding from Wednesday's 20-7 humiliation in Victoria, turned around Friday night for a 10-8 victory at Kerrisdale Arena and deadlocked the best-of-seven semi-final 1-1.

Teams return to Memorial Arena for game No. 3 on Monday, starting at 8 p.m.

Vancouver coach Ross McDonald relied heavily on only 10 players, exclusive of his goaltenders. Doug Hayes, Mike Smith, Taki Vohalis, Dave Tasker and Rico Bellusci were McDonald's choices virtually every time Vancouver obtained possession of the ball.

When the Shamrocks assumed control, Bill Rawson, Bill Foote, Pat Differ, Joe Marello and Ron Pinder shuffled off the Vancouver bench to handle defensive assignments.

"It worked," admitted Nirmal, "because we played their game. It wouldn't have worked if we had played our usual running game.

"Our fast break was missing and we didn't take good shots. We fell to Vancouver's level and played into their hands. There has got to be something wrong when you hold this (Shamrock) team to eight goals. I don't think that 'shuttle system' hurt as much as our own inability to get untracked on offense."

Certainly, there was nothing wrong with Victoria's defence. Only 52 minutes in penalties were handed out and Victoria's penalty-killing unit of Gerry McKenna, Ivan Thompson, Chris Hall and Larry Bell did its job. Vancouver managed only one power-play goal.

Teams were tied 8-8 with less than 12 minutes to play. That's when the Shamrock offense hit the doldrums. The Irish failed to get a goal in the remaining time while Doug Hayes, scoring his third of the night at 12:57, and Vohalis, at 16:13, connected to give Vancouver its victory.

A win, said Dillon, Vancouver "had to have. If they didn't win, the series would have been over."

Hayes and Smith each scored three times for Burrards. Vohalis connected for two while Foote and Bellusci each scored once.

Ron MacNeil scored four goals for Victoria, including a shorthanded one early in the third. Thompson, Charn Dhillon, Bell and McKenna each counted one.

Playing an important role in the Vancouver victory was goaltender Dave Evans. Steady over the entire route, Evans was perhaps at this best in the final 10 minutes when he held Shamrocks scoreless. He was particularly outstanding in thwarting Thompson, MacNeil and Norm Baker in the dying minutes.

Evans finished with 26 saves while Larry Smelzer turned aside 33, including 13 in the opening period.

Shamrocks will be without McKenna for Monday's game and, possibly, one other playoff encounter. McKenna was to leave today for Edmonton and the Commonwealth Games, where he will be joined by the Shamrocks for their demonstration game against Nanaimo. McKenna then will leave for a short vacation before rejoining the Rocks for the balance of the playoffs.

'Bambi' Shirts Back In Brewers' Lockers

WINNING prestigious Frank Gnup Memorial Scholarship to University of British Columbia is Mark Townsend, 18-year-old quarterback for Victoria Dolphins of B.C. Big Four Junior Football League. Townsend, five-foot-eight and 175 pounds, plans to try out for UBC Thunderbirds. Mark is a graduate of Mt. Douglas Secondary School.

By Associated Press

Popular though it was, the fad is over. Milwaukee Brewers have put their "Bambi's Bombers" T-shirts in storage.

"We can do it!" proclaim the inscriptions on the new ones, left in the Brewers' locker room by an anonymous donor and worn by manager George Bamberger and most of his players on Friday.

Whether they really can do it—win the American League East Division title—remains to be seen, but Friday they won a game they almost had to win to brake a skid of seven defeats in 10 games.

They trotted out their favorite weapon—the long ball—and beat first place Boston 6-2 before their second largest crowd in history of 52,562 to bounce back to within five games of the Red Sox.

Lary Sorensen (13-8) checked the Red Sox on six hits for his first victory since July 15, while Sal Bando and Gorman Thomas backed him with two-run homers, and Larry Hisle and Cecil Cooper added bases empty shots.

With the four home runs, the Brewers regained the major league lead with 123, two more than Boston.

Don Money singled with one out in the Brewer first inning, and Bando followed with his 13th home run. Two pitches later, Hisle hit a shot into the gap between the left field grandstand extension and the bleachers as the Brewers jumped to a 3-0 lead against Bill Lee, 10-7.

Boston got a run back in the fourth. But the Brewers made it 5-1 in their half of the fourth as Robin Yount singled and Thomas hit a shot that landed three rows from the top of the left centrefield bleachers.

In other American League games, Baltimore Orioles nipped New York Yankees 2-1, Toronto Blue Jays edged Kansas City Royals 5-4, Detroit Tigers dumped Chicago White Sox 7-1, Texas Rangers blanked Cleveland Indians 8-0, California Angels slugged Minnesota Twins 12-3 and Oakland A's defeated Seattle Mariners 6-1.

Doug DeCinces slugged a 44-foot home run in the seventh inning and Mike Flanagan, 14-9, scattered seven hits as Ron Guidry took only his seceond loss aginst 15 wins.

In the National League, Vida Blue learned what the Giants-Dodgers rivalry is all about.

The San Francisco Giants left-hander was caught up in the intensity of the competition between the two clubs and responded by beating Los Angeles 2-1 with a near-perfect performance.

Blue was one out away from his fourth major-league one-hitter when Reggie Smith doubled in the ninth. The only other hit off Blue was Ron Cey's lead-off homer in the fifth.

Elsewhere, San Diego Padres edged Cincinnati Reds 3-2, Philadelphia Phillies blanked Pittsburgh Pirates 2-0 before the Pirates won 5-2 in the nightcap of their twi-night double-header, Atlanta Braves bombed Houston Astros 7-2, New York Mets crushed St. Louis Cardinals 8-3 and Chicago Cubs bested Montreal Expos 6-4.

A Wild Night In Bellingham

Times News Services

The fans may have found it exciting, but Friday's Northwest Baseball League game in Bellingham wasn't the kind that thrills scorekeepers.

Bellingham Mariners, striking for six runs in the seventh and eight innings, survived a wild evening to defeat Victoria Mussels 13-9.

The game was marred by seven errors, including four by Victoria, six wild pitches, two passed balls, two hit batsmen and a stream of 23 hits. As well, four base-runners were picked off trying to steal.

The loss was charged to Doug Hogan, the second of three Mussel moundsmen who now has a 2-4 won-lost record. The victory, also in relief, went to Jeff Carey.

Mussels continue a nine-game road trip by opening a three-game series in Bend tonight.

In other games Friday, Salem defeated Eugene Emeralds 9-4, Grays Harbor Loggers dumped the Walla Walla Padres 7-3 and Bend thumped Boise 13-3.

BUDGETS, READING AT IT AGAIN TONIGHT, SUNDAY

Bona Fide 'Super Series'

Round No. 4 of Victoria Budgets' 1978 "Super Series" does, indeed, shape up as a "super" matchup.

It is a four-game set-to matching the men's softball champions of the United States against the Canadian titleholders. And lest we forget, Billard Barbells of Reading, Pa., and Victoria Budgets are basically the same teams that wound up sharing the world championship with New Zealand in 1976 although both are sporting new names as the result of undergoing sponsorship changes.

Victoria, with a 43-15, won-lost record, and Reading, 39-6 at last report, square off in the exhibition series in doubleheaders tonight and Sunday (starting at 7 each evening) at Royal Athletic Park.

Always the targets of other rivals because of their reputations and past achievements, both show other similarities. Both are stocked with good hitters and top-rated pitchers. Budgets have Andy Konopacki, already a winner of 22 games this season, big Stan (the Colonel) Kern and newcomer Dave Wilson. Reading's pitching revolves around the brilliant Ty Stofflet (24-0 this season and 59-0 since his last defeat in June of 1977) and lanky Larry Bergh.

And when you bring together the best from two nations, what else but a "super series?"

TY STOFFLET
. . . one of the best

Two Challenge Budgets

Only two teams will challenge Victoria Budgets in the British Columbia senior "A" men's softball playoffs.

Formerly the Bates, Victoria has controlled the provincial title for the past seven years.

Normally, at least a half dozen teams throw in challenges. This year, however, tournament chairman John Oster said only Vancouver Thirsks and Abbotsford will compete with Budgets in the double-knockout tournament to be played at Royal Athletic Park Aug. 18-20.

In contrast, officials are expecting at least a dozen teams to compete in the "B" final, also to be held in Victoria, Aug. 25-27. Seaboard Construction, qualifying as the host team after topping the Stuffy McGinnis League standings, and Victoria Athletics, who eliminated Sooke Merchants in a best-of-three series last weekend, will be the district's entries.

The "C" men's picture also moved towards clarification Friday when Elks edged Stuffy McGinnis rival Ingraham Hotel 5-4 to advance to the provincial tournament at Richmond later this month.

Friday's "game" went only two innings, completing one started last Sunday but called because of darkness. Elks finished the three-team, double round-robin series with a 3-1 record while Ingraham was 2-2 and Batesons finished 1-3.

The Stuffy McGinnis semi-final, a best-of-five affair, between Athletics and Sooke will start Tuesday at Central Park. Seaboard meets Elks in the other semi-final series.

The McGinnis League also will hold its annual "fan appreciation night" at Central next Wednesday when the league's all-stars go against Budgets in an exhibition game.

The Outlaw Tops Savage

The Outlaw, with a little help from The Shiek, won the "no disqualification" battle against Dutch Savage that formed the feature bout of a professional wrestling card Thursday night at Memorial Arena.

In other bouts, Jake Roberts and Rock and Roll Zum Hofe won a tag-team tussle against Goldie Rogers and The Shiek, Denny Alberts outgrappled Jim Cook and John Anson defeated Igor Volkoff.

Kicks Wrap Up Crown For Third Time in Row

By Canadian Press

Minnesota Kicks capturerd their third consecutive division title on Friday, the first time this has happened in the North American Soccer League.

The Kicks wound up on top of the National Conference Central Division when they blanked Colorado Caribous 2-0 in one of four NASL games.

In the other games, Fort Lauderdale Strikers edged Rochester Lancers 2-1 in overtime, Los Angeles Aztecs nipped Tulsa Roughnecks 2-1 and Tampa Bay Rowdies came from behind to defeat Houston Hurricane 3-2.

The Kicks had needed either a victory or two points to wrap up their division title and they got both to finish with 156 points.

"It's nice to be a part of history," said Minnesota coach Freddie Goodwin. "I feel happier going into the playoffs this year than I did last year. We peaked too soon last season, but we're just gathering momentum now."

Forward Pat Ercoli gave Rochester a 1-0 lead at 32:16 when his shot beat Striker goaltender Ian Turner. Maurice Whittle tied the match at 72:47.

Houston's Eduardo Marasco opened the scoring at 7:09 and Dale Russell gave the Hurricane a 2-0 halftime lead, scoring at the 18-minute mark.

Mike McGuire scored the first Rowdies' goal at at 64:55 and reserve forward Joe Fink headed in a corner kick to tie it at 74:42.

'Dustys' and the 'Ones' Hot Items at Sandown

By ERNIE FEDORUK
Times Staff

The numbers bettors would have fared reasonably well if "one" was their choice at Sandown Park on Friday.

Horses starting in the rail position returned money to across-the-board bettors in eight of the nine harness races.

Four — Taiga in the first, Cal's Dominion in the third, Andy's Lester in the sixth and Holdridge Duke in the eighth — paid off all way way.

Not unusual but one of those quirks quickly noticed by the racegoer who puts more faith in numbers than in breeding and past performances.

For the name-droppers, the good things were the Dusty ones. Dusty Tex, Ginger's Dustie and Charmin Dusty all scored victories and Dusty Speedball might have slipped in a fourth triumph but for Holdridge Duke's ability to hold off the speedster in the charge to the wire.

Dusty Tex posted the fastest time of the night, two minutes, four seconds flat for the mile pace. It was Dusty Tex's best race of his career. The six-year-old gleding, driven by Dave Junquist, lopped one and two-fifths seconds off his previous best time.

Others might have been more impressed by the racing. It was a good working day for the eye-in-the-sky people.

Judges had to study photographs in four races before exactor prices could be posted, and there were other waits to determine show positions.

Keith Linton, getting Willie T'Knight and Gingers Dustie first to the wire, and Joe Hudon, with Charmin Dusty and Andy Lester, both scored a pair of victories. Linton's meet-leading total now is 47 winners after 36 race days.

Friday's turnout of 1,453 pushed $82,266 through the betting windows, down about $6,000 over the corresponding day last week, but the standardbred sport continues to gain gradual support here.

Attendances and mutuel play averages continue to rise each week. The past four days have averaged $87,887 compared to the first-week's average of only $64,177 back in June.

LONG WAIT FOR VIVIAN

SUNNINGDALE, England (AP) — Vivian Brownlee, after an agonizing four-hour wait Friday, found herself sharing the lead with Sally Little of South Africa at the midway mark of the European women's golf championship.

Brownlee, who has only won one major tournament in three years as a professional and who stands 35th on the U.S. money list, started the day three under par, got two seven under par at one point but three late bogeys put her at 143, five under par, for the 36 holes.

Little, starting four hours after Brownlee, fired a par 74 after and opening 69.

Behind them was Nancy Lopez, the 21-year-old golfing sensation from New Mexico, who turned in a 71, the best round of the day, to pick up three strokes and jump into third place with a 144.

'Golden Putter' Rescues Watson

OAKMONT, Pa. (AP) — Tom Watson, solving his problems with what he called "a golden putter," shot a 69 on Friday and stretched his lead to four strokes after the second round of the PGA golf championship, while Jack Nicklaus, almost incredibly, missed the cut.

"Everything seems to be rolling my way on these greens right now," said Watson, who used only four putts on his last five holes.

He had a 36-hole total of 136, six shots under the demanding par on the famed, 6,989-yard Oakmont Country Club layout, the site of more major championships than any other U.S. course.

However, Watson was far from over-confident and actually less than pleased with his play going into the last two rounds of the final major championship of the season.

"It was one of those rounds when I didn't hit the ball very well at all but got out of it with a good score," he said. "I've got to improve the way I'm hitting the ball if I'm going to have a chance to win the golf tournament.

For Nicklaus, however, practically nothing went right.

The winner of the British Open and Philadelphia Classic in his last two starts and solid favorite to win a record-matching fifth PGA title this week, failed to qualify for the final two rounds. He shot a fat 79 in the first round and followed with a 71.

It was only the fourth time in 68 major events as a pro he had missed the cut.

His round was a catalogue of woes. He reeled off three quick birdies and seemed primed to shoot the 66 he said he needed.

Then it all went wrong.

He played the three par-5 holes 5-6-7. He missed the green and three-putted for a double-bogey six on the 15th. He hit his second shot into a gallery stand on the 18th, took four to get on and double-bogeyed.

"I wasn't really concerned about making the cut," Nicklaus said. "I was trying to get back in the golf tournament. The thing that took the wind out of my sails was the seven on No. 12."

His second shot on the par-5 kicked into a bunker. His third was short. He was on in four and three-putted.

"After that it was all over," he said.

Colwood in Front

Royal Colwood overpowered last-place Cedar Hill 6-0 Friday to regain the lead in the Vancouver Island Seniors' Golf League.

The match at Colwood was postponed last week because of a conflict with the Gordie Howe tournament.

Wilf Flack, Bill Allen, Tom Restell and Len Ebbling fashioned Colwood's victory and the first sweep in the league this season. Allen tripped Rennie Hayes 2-1, Restell beat Gerry Edwards 4-3, Flack downed Tom Halkett 3-1 and Ebbling defeated Bill Bird 2-1, and Colwood also won both four-ball matches.

Senior Golfers Tune Up With Hole-in-One Binge

There is silverware to be claimed, but golfers entered in the 56th annual Seniors' North West Golf Association tournament at Victoria Golf Club may find Friday's act a hard one to follow.

Charles Carpenter, Warren Munro and N.B. Guistina all scored holes-on-one at the Oak Bay course. The three aces on the same day at one club is believed to be a Canadian record.

Carpenter, a club member but not entered in the tournament that gets under way Sunday with the annual Canada-U.S. international matches, had a premonition. He took out "insurance" on Thursday and came back the next day to hole out on the 148-yard second hole.

Munro, from Portland, got his ace on the 200-yard 14th while Guistina, from Eugene, Ore., also connected on the second. Both are entered in next week's tourney and, of course, will be hoping to duplicate their feats.

Also scoring a hole-in-one this week was Vi Northup of Gorge Vale. She fired her ace — her second one in eight months — on the 197-yard 16th at the Gorge.

Following are Sunday's and Monday's draws for the seniors' tournament, in which Erv Parent of Seattle will be defending the title he won last year:

Different Twist For Drivers, Fans

Car-racing fans have the opportunity to watch something a little different this weekend at Western Speedway.

Tonight a regular stock car program gets underway with time trials at 7.

But on Monday, both the stock car and super-stock drivers will be testing their skills on the one-mile road circuit.

Since the vehicles are geared to oval-track racing, where the turns are only in one direction, some suspension and steering changes will be needed to be competitive on the twisting hairpin and right-angle turns of the road course.

In order to give the drivers and mechanics time to get things ready, practice and qualification runs will be held Sunday beginning at 12:30 p.m. Admission on Sunday is free.

On Monday, the gates open at 12:30 and racing is expected to get underway at 2.

This event, dubbed the Captain Cook Bicentennial Road Race, is the first road race sanctioned by the Vancouver Island Track Racing Association and counts for full points.

The program will consist of two trophy dashes, heat races and a 25-mile main event for both super-stocks and stock cars.

DEMAND PROMPTS REVIEW

LONDON (AFP) — The British Amateur Athletics Associations has decided to review its regulation which allows firms to sponsor sporting events.

The decision was taken following publication in Tuesday's London Times of a half-page advertisement by the International Athletes Club demanding that British American Tobacco and State Express of London get out of athletics for attempting to link success in athletics with smoking.

Association secretary David Shaw said the group would reconsider the position after the Commonwealth Games.

Fergy Five Under To Lead by Two

SASKATOON (CP) — Cec Ferguson has not won a Canadian tournament in two years of professional golf but Friday he fired a seven-under par 65 to take a two-stroke lead in the first round of the 54-hole Saskatchewan Open golf tournament.

The Victoria golfer's score set a club record as he charged around the 6,000-metre course under ideal conditions at the Riverside Country Club.

Roger Klatt of St. Albert, Atla. shot a 67, matching Ferguson's four-under 33 on the back nine holes but slipping to 34 on the last-nine.

John Morgan of Victoria carded a 74.

Ferguson registered nine birdies, five of them in succession, and two bogeys on the way to his first-round lead.

"You've got to get the birdies on par fives on this course if you want to win," he said. "Guys like Halldorson and myself (long hitters) can reach the par fives here in two and that's where we can make up strokes on the other guys."

First place in the tournament is worth $4,000 of a $15,000 total purse.

DOLPHINS OPEN SEASON AGAINST RAMS IN SURREY

Victoria Dolphins open their B.C. Big Four Junior Football League season Sunday by playing the Rams in Surrey.

A team spokesman said today the Victoria club will dress about 32 players for the game.

A fan bus leaves the Simpson-Sears warehouse on the Pat Bay Highway at 9 a.m. Sunday and the $12 fee includes admission to the game.

Cutler's Run Stops at 137

Times News Services

Dave Cutler, the Victoria-raised place-kicking specialist who missed a convert attempt last Tuesday and thus snapped a string of 137 consecutive successes, continues to set the scoring pace in the Canadian Football League with 48 points.

With kickers continuing to provide the most impressive statistics in the CFL, Cutler, veteran member of Edmonton Eskimos, has connected for 12 converts and has 11 field goals and three singles, leaving him nine points ahead of his closest competitor, Ian Sunter of Toronto Argonauts, another kicker.

Cutler reached Ottawa Roughrider Gerry Organ's record 132 conversions in succession in the second Edmonton game of the season. He claimed the record for his own in the third game, and in the fourth, was wide the first of two convert attempts.

Sunter has nine converts and 10 field goals for 39 points, one better than kicker Lui Passiglia of British Columbia Lions.

Henry Ilesic, also of Edmonton, continues to lead in the punting department with a 50.6-yard average on 32 punts, although his average has dropped somewhat from the 52.9-yard average he had last week.

HIGH JUMP MARK FALLS

BRESCIA, Italy (AFP) — Sara Simeoni of Italy bettered the women's world high jump record Friday, becoming only the second woman in history to clear two metres.

Simeoni, 25, jumped 2.01 metres, bettering by exactly one centimetre the existing record of her rival, Rosemarie Ackermann of East Germany.

B.C. Club Drops Two

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia Lions announced Thursday they had placed two Canadian Football League veterans — tight end Tyrone Walls and non-import defensive lineman Gary Robinson — on waivers without right of recall.

Walls, 30, an import, was in his seventh CFL season. He was acquired by the Lions from Edmonton Eskimos before the 1977 season.

Robinson, 32, joined the Lions in 1970 from Simon Fraser University and played both tackle and end, starting at the latter position last season and performing well.

BREWERY PAYS $20 MILLION FOR NHL CLUB

Canadiens in Molson Hands

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Canadiens, winners of 19 Stanley Cups since 1930, are under new ownership today, but don't look for any major changes in management or the stellar on-ice performance by the National Hockey League club because of the change.

Morgan McCammon, president of the Montreal-based Molson Breweries of Canada Ltd., announced the purchase of the Canadiens hockey club for $20 million, together with an agreement for a long-term lease of the air-conditioned, 16,544-seat, Montreal Forum, with an option to purchase the building in the future. In addition to hockey games, the block-square Forum has been the site of such diversified events as Olympic boxing, the Moscow Circus and popular music groups.

He said final agreement between the two sides had been reached late Thursday and that the paper work involved would not be completed before the end of this month.

The purchase of the NHL club was attained by obtaining all the shares of Club de Hockey Canadien Inc., from parent company Carena-Bancorp Inc., in turn controlled by Edward and Peter Bronfman.

Included in the deal are the Canadien-operated Nova Scotia Voyageurs of the American Hockey League and all the team's junior hockey holdings.

The sale to Molson ended a week of published reports that the most successful team in professional hockey would be sold to a rival out-of-province brewery, Labatt Breweries of Canada Ltd., of London, Ont., for an estimated $23 million.

When the Labatt interest became public knowledge earlier this week, McCammon admitted his company was also interested in acquiring the team.

However, at the news conference McCammon said:

"We have had rather lengthy discussions which began very tentatively back in January. The time frame was not set by pressure, but by the owners."

Had Labatt succeeded in its bid it would have required special permission from baseball's American League to go through with the deal because of its 45-per-cent ownership of Toronto Blue Jays. Baseball moguls passed a resolution in 1972 condemning multiple-sport holdings by its owners.

In answer to a question concerning reports that former hockey great Jean Beliveau, now vice-president of corporate and public relations for the team, would replace lawyer Jacques Courtois as president, McCammon said "we have no present intention of changing management."

VALUABLE RACE HORSES DIE ON FLIGHT TO IRELAND

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — Two yearling thoroughbreds worth about $965,000 died during a flight here from Cincinnati, Ohio.

A spokesman for the agricultural section at Shannon airport said Wednesday that one of the animals apparently had become frightened and injured itself while being loaded. The other, a bay colt sired by Damascus, died peacefully during the flight.

The pair were part of a shipment of 25 horses bought at the Keeneland Sales in Kentucky recently and consigned to the British Bloodstock Association, Ireland branch.

Quebec Ruins Hopes of B.C.

WINNIPEG (CP) — Quebec is en route to the top honors at the Canadian cricket championships.

The only question left to resolve today was whether Quebec would have to share the title with Ontario, which has dominated the field in Canada for the last 11 years.

Quebec, with 209 runs for eight wickets, defeated British Columbia, which was all out for 208 Friday. It was Quebec's fifth win in as many games.

Quebec and Ontario clashed today, the last day of the week-long competition. Quebec had 30 points—a win is worth six points—and Ontario had 24.

A win would give Quebec the undisputed title. A victory for Ontario would mean a joint championship—there would be no subsequent playoff.

The British Columbia loss was its first against four wins but the westerners have a bye today.

Alberta, with 132 runs for five wickets, beat Saskatchewan, which was all out for 129 Friday. The victory gave Alberta 18 points, six ahead of fifth-place Manitoba. Nova Scotia, with the bye Friday, and Saskatchewan both are winless.

The Quebec victory was a disappointment to British Columbia, which earlier in the week handed Ontario its only loss to date and could have sewn up the title with a Friday win.

Lydia Bob, Gallic Top Stars

Lydia Bob of Cowichan and Port Alberni's Boyd Gallic were named the outstanding performers Friday as the track and field program started in the annual All-Native Olympiad of Sports at Centennial Stadium.

Softball tournaments, lacrosse, soccer and swimming also will feature the week-long Olympiad.

Bob compiled 75 points to help Cowichan capture the track and field team championship with 760 points. Gallic amassed 60 points to top the boys' field.

Victoria Smokies finished second in the overall standings with 370 points, followed by Ucluelet (227), Ahousat (207), Port Alberni (173) and Tsawout (138).

Softball play, which started Friday, will wind up Monday.

THE DANGERS OF NOT CASTLING

Advising a player to castle early is not unlike advising him not to smoke. Sage advice frequently repeated is almost as frequently ignored. Certainly, there are times when it is right NOT to castle but, as in the case below, a King trapped in the center generally brings grief to his own castle. (The game was played in Baku, USSR, last year.)

BLACK: M. Morguiev

(a) Black's opening play is reasonable; he merely needs to castle some time to have a good game.

(b) It is probably better to trade Queens.

(c) The Black King is exposed and trapped.

ARNOLD AND THE GIANT-KILLER

The Argentine chess magazine "El Ajedrez Americano" recently printed this story about German master Arnold Schottlander (1854-1909). He was playing his favorite opponent, who was known only as "August, the Giant-Killer", and they reached this position: WHITE (Schottlander): King on KN1; Queen on KB4; Bishop on QB1; Knight on K5; Pawn on KB2 (5 pieces). BLACK ("August"): King on KR1; Queen on QN2; Bishop on KN5; Knight on KB1; Pawns on KB3, KR2 and KR4 (7 pieces).

Schottlander played 1. QxBch and August replied with 1. K-N1; the master continued with 2. B-N2; his opponent replied with 2. B-R6. White now played 3. Q-R8ch and Black grabbed it off without delay 3. KxQ.

At this point, Schottlander decided to have some fun. He exclaimed: "What have I done!!? Let me have my Queen back!" August, Queen still in hand, refused. Schottlander rose from his chair and chased his opponent around the room, to the amusement of all the spectators.

"August", said Schottlander fiercely, "are you or are you not going to return my Queen?"

"I am not!" August answered.

"Very well, then", said Schottlander, "let's continue the game" — and proceeded to demolish his opponent in two moves!! 4. N-B7 d.ch., K-N1; 5. N-R6 mate.

* * *

The solution to the problem above is: 1. PxP, NxN; 2. N-B5 d-ch and mate; or 1. NxP; 2. NxB mate; or 1. QxPch; 2. N3xQ d.ch and mate, etc.

China Ships Out Students

By JOHN FRASER
Special to The Times

PEKING — China, with the help of at least seven Western nations including Canada, is about to launch an unprecedented program of sending thousands of its brightest students to foreign institutions of higher learning. A Chinese academic figure who confirmed the story said that within two years the figure may reach as high as 10,000.

Western diplomatic sources, however, believe that even that figure may be too low. The Chinese have already approached West Germany, France and Britain to accept five hundred students each starting next autumn. At the moment there are fewer than 100 Chinese students in those countries. These Western sources say that the total figure for next autumn in Europe alone will be 3,000. Countries like Canada and Australia, which already have a few such students (there are about 50 in Canada), are expected to be approached with similar requests sometime this week.

The range of studies requested by the Chinese covers many of the courses offered by Western universities and polytechnical institutions—from political science to citrus conservation. Although this move is, in part, a reflection of inadequate facilities in Chinese universities, it is also directly related to the Chinese determination to learn advanced Western methodology as quickly as possible.

Both the demands and the implications of the request have electrified diplomatic officers in Peking. For one thing, the move means the Chinese authorities feel confident enough in the members of their future intelligentsia to let them loose on the West and not worry about the possible defections.

They have indicated that the students are to live in ordinary residences or campus co-operative housing and the government will foot the bill for the cost of board and tuition.

A massive increase in the number of Chinese students studying abroad will cause problems for Western academic institutions. West Germany, for example, will probably inform China shortly that it will try to take all the 500 but not immediately. Enrolment quotas for the new academic year beginning next month are already filled. Also, the West Germans will probably insist that the Chinese students fulfil basic academic qualifications and they are toying with the idea of setting up special examination centres in China.

The only equivalent move by the Chinese to make such a determined effort to learn from the West came during the end of the Manchu Dynasty thanks primarily to the influence of Christian missionaries working in China. Western historians have traditionally traced a bold line of connection between the new educated elite that returned from the West at the beginning of this century (including Sun Yat-Sen and Chou En-Lai) and the subsequent transformation of Chinese society that included two revolutions.

The other famous parallel was the Meiji restoration in Japan in the latter part of the last century when legions of young Japanese were sent to the West to master technology and expertise.

Observers here hasten to point out that the Chinese authorities will probably be very careful with their choice of overseas students, all of whom will have extraordinary access to Western society and thinking. "They clearly want an industrial revolution like Japan had," said one, "not a political revolution. Still, with the best of precautions, it's a risky business. The impact these young people will have when they return will be simply formidable."

Dancers auditioning in a 'Chorus Line' scene

Simply a Delight

By AUDREY JOHNSON

An intense interest in musical theatre in almost all its forms took us, on our last night in London in June, to the Harlem reprise piece, Bubbling Brown Sugar.

Many things about it were arresting and attractive — most outstandingly the vitality and luscious beauty of the black cast. But the relentless super-souped-up orchestra sound diminished our power to enjoy. We could have chosen Chorus Line, playing a long run in London, but we'd planned to see it on its current stay in Vancouver, and last weekend we did.

Well. No reservations about this one. It's a beauty in all respects. A true stroke of genius on the part of choreographer Michael Bennett who conceived it, did the dances and directed. It is a fascinating, poignant and truthful representation of how things are in the anxious, uncertain sometimes tragic world of the Broadway chorus dancer.

An important aspect of its genius is its simplicity — a simplicity of staging and set that permits superb lighting to underline the drama and etch the incomparably lithe precision of the dancing.

The theatre darkens completely and then a typical rehearsal piano begins to beat out its typical chorus routine (the orchestra sneaks in after a few bars) and the chorus master's voice is heard on stage: "One, two, three, slide, turn; one, two three, dip, turn ..." something like that. The lights begin to come up and it seems that the big stage is full of dancers, male and female in rehearsal clothes doing the routine, backs to the audience. Except that there are only 14 girls and 16 boys and the rest is illusion — a screen of dark mirror panels comprises the 'cyc', or stage surround. There is no glare from the mirror panels, which swivel and disappear at times, but there are the most extraordinary effects in reflection brilliantly used to heighten the drama.

This is a Broadway audition and the chorus in unison chants the opening musical number to the beat of the routine: "I hope I get it ... how many does he need, how many boys how many girls ... Oh God, I need this job!"

The director steps out on to the ramp, calls the auditionees out by number, in groups, shouts comments, criticisms, then disappears apparently into the auditorium, calls the group into a long line facing him and, his voice amplified from the back of the theatre, begins individual interrogation.

There are, sporadically, solo performances — a dance, a song. Sometimes a whole personal, often pathetic, history is dramatized with song, movement and light. Stories emerge that are funny and sad and desperate.

There is much more that comes to light during the two straight hours the show runs without intermission. Finally the director makes his choice. There is ecstasy and there is dejection. Again the statement is simply made but profoundly effective.

There is a steady onward movement to the script, a sustained drama, a constant shift in emphasis and situation so that even though there is no plot, neither is there any failure to hold and compel our attention.

And at the end, the perfect touch. We are given a glimpse of the ultimate show with the whole company in scintillating costumes doing a number that for precision and buoyant zest is pure virtuosity.

But I think the facet that left the strongest impression with me — for after all Bubbling Brown Sugar had dazzled with the freshness of its choreography and radiant skill in dance — was the exceptional reality of the characterization. The people all seemed, and still do in recollection, to be persons in full dimension, individuals whose lives you entered and came to understand in depth in the brief space of two hours.

$18,000 Wine Or Just Vinegar?

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Restaurateur John Grisanti figures he either will serve his black-tie dinner guests the world's most expensive wine on Oct. 28 — or the world's highest-priced salad dressing. Grisanti paid $18,000 at a May auction for what experts say is probably the only remaining bottle of 1864 Chateau Lafite Rothschild. But, the restaurateur said there is a chance the wine already has turned to vinegar. There is no way of knowing until it is opened.

Workshop Winds up

Thirty secondary school students from various parts of the province who have been studying at UVic Theatre Department's Senior Secondary Summer Theatre Workshop are involved in a culminating production which opens Thursday at the on-campus Phoenix Theatre.

The Good Woman of Setzuan, considered to be one of Bertolt Brecht's finest plays, was chosen for the project by director James Leard. Its theme is modern and deals with the problems of remaining good, kind and generous in a world which seems to be growing more and more cynical and indifferent.

Leard considers the theme to be of particular significance for a high school cast who will soon be faced with that kind of choice as they embark on adult life.

Reservations for The Good Woman of Setzuan, which will run nightly except Sunday, Aug. 13, through Aug. 16, can be made by calling the Phoenix box-office, 477-4821, between the hours of 10 a.m. and 3 p.m., Monday to Saturday. There is a special discount for students and senior citizens, Monday through Thursday.

Opera Starts Small

The trouble with most people, performers particularly but audiences also, when turning on to opera is that they want too much too soon. Advanced vocal students and mature singers, whose experience is almost solely confined to recital work, eagerly take the long stride right into the middle of the big opera repertoire.

They completely ignore the fact that singing a couple of arias in a mixed program, studying scores in the studio or even participating in an evening of opera excerpts is not the same thing as interpreting and sustaining a heavy role over a three-hour period. The unaccustomed strain is too often obvious before the second-act curtain falls.

A solution to the problem of "phasing-in" to the medium of opera is to start with small versions, says the gifted Canadian soprano, Pierette Alarie. It is also a good way to introduce a new audience to what, in its large manifestation, might seem inexplicable and overpowering. In Italy, Austria, England, America, there is a great treasure of chamber opera in vogue or waiting to be unearthed, she says. Haydn, Mozart, Donizetti and many earlier as well as later composers perfected the art of writing small, delightful operas, often on comic themes.

* * *

Sparkling, vivacious Madame Alarie knows well whereof she speaks and in securing her and her equally noted operatic star husband, tenor Leopold Simoneau, to direct and coach the chamber opera program at the Shawnigan Summer School, artistic director J.J. Johannesen has achieved another of his frequent coups.

Last fall Pierette agreed to come to Victoria and together with Johannesen developed the idea of chamber opera study and presentation that would benefit serious advanced students, offer the related Victoria International Festival audiences yet another aspect of great music-making, and as well bring opera to audiences in other parts of the province.

Special assistance from Canada Council's touring office has made it possible for the two operas, which are to be presented here Aug. 21 and 22 at McPherson Playhouse, to make a double tour of interior B.C. communities during the fall and winter.

For this project the operas chosen were both comic — La Prima Donna by Arthur Benjamin, and La Serva Padrona (The Master's Servant) by 18th century Giovanni Pergolesi. Both will be sung in English.

The name Arthur Benjamin may not be overly familiar to British Columbians now, but in the 1930s not only the name but the man was well known hereabouts.

He came to Vancouver and Victoria first as a member of a three-man team of British adjudicators travelling across Canada to judge major music festivals. In love with the West Coast, he settled in Vancouver for a number of years, teaching and performing there. He was a pianist, a composer of delightful music, a brilliant teacher, warm and dedicated; a man of simple manner and dress, given to tatty jackets and stringy ties but imparting a sensitivity and joy through music that was infectious and lingered long after he was gone.

Alarie describes La Prima Donna as being melodically and rhythmically appealing, with an amusing plot that requires six singers. It takes place in 18th century Venice in the home of a spendthrift playboy, heir to a wealthy count who is about to pay a visit to his nephew as the opera commences. The problem is that the playboy's furniture has been seized for debt, there are girl troubles of course, and the action mounts to an hilarious denouement.

There is good music, including quite a few ensemble numbers, and good dramatic effect throughout the work, says Alarie.

The plot of La Serva Padrona concerns a young woman who is maid to a bachelor. When she discovers that he intends to marry she determines to marry him herself. There are only two singing roles in this opera piccola; the third person in the cast is a mute youth.

Incidentally, the terms "chamber" and "piccola" refer only to the fact that they are abbreviated compact forms of opera intended to be performed in an intimate style. There is nothing necessarily remote or elitist attached to the labels.

* * *

Before Shawnigan Summer School sessions opened, Alarie had auditioned the singers for the opera because they had to be available for the tours, which incidentally will be of unparalled value to the singers as well as the communities they are to visit, she points out.

The six opera singers are part of a group of 12 students undergoing voice technique coaching in master classes conducted by Simoneau, one of whose objectives is what he describes as "channelizing a good tone". Beyond the technical aims of the lessons, both artists seek to uncover for their students "what is in the score" — or as Alarie says: "What lies between words, voice and music."

Alarie's own operatic career began at the age of 14, when she sang the role of the very young Barbarina in Mozart's Marriage of Figaro under the baton of Sir Thomas Beecham. Besides possessing an exceptionally beautiful voice, theatre was in her blood. CBC Radio and TV audiences of a decade or so ago heard her actress mother in the role of Madame Plouffe in the popular Plouffe Family series.

Pierette Alarie studied with the celebrated Elisabeth Schumann before winning a contract with the Metropolitan Opera and later with the Opera Comique and Paris Opera. Major European festivals heard the luminous voice of Alarie regularly, and among several recordings she made one with Simoneau consisting of Mozart arias and duets was awarded the Grand Prix du Disque from the Academie Charles Cros of Paris.

In recent years she has taken successfully to the direction of opera, including, up to this year, direction of the opera workshops at the Banff School of Fine Arts.

Simoneau's exceptional career, which has spanned three continents in opera, recital and symphony ~~solo~~ appearances under the batons of the greatest conductors and at the most famous festivals and opera houses, was presaged at his Metropolitan Opera debut. New York critics acclaimed the brilliant new tenor and their admiration was echoed at his subsequent Paris Opera and La Scala debuts. For several years Simoneau sang leading roles at Britain's famous Glyndebourne.

Fined After Hunt

LA TUQUE, Que. (CP) — Three men have been fined a total of $1,200 after being convicted of illegally shooting animals from a helicopter during a hunting expedition. The hunters claimed they shot the animals after the craft had landed, but ballistics experts proved to the court's satisfaction that the bullets were fired from above ground level.

Bombs Still Fatal

HIROSHIMA, Japan (Reuter) — Sixty-nine persons suffering from the Second World War atomic bombings of Hiroshima and Nagasaki died in hospitals last year, it was announced. The Hiroshima Genbaku (A-bomb) hospital said 80 per cent of them were 60 years or older, while 17 had lung cancer.

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Resorts International Hotel, the first legal gambling casino in the eastern U.S., averaged daily winnings of $666,209 in July, 25 per cent higher than in June, casino officials said. June's average daily win was $534,627, officials said Thursday.

Lively Winter Season Planned by Houghton

Dance, jazz and the musical stage play a major role in creating a spectacular 1978-79 entertainment season shortly to be unveiled by impresario Allen Houghton.

Responding to the current growth of interest in jazz and the ever-present passion for dance in this city, Houghton will bring the Moe Koffman Quintet, the World's Greatest Jazz Band and dance companies ranging from the witty and acrobatic Danny Grossman ensemble to the Parthenon Dancers of Greece.

Ten presentations in all will occupy three different stages in the city — the McPherson, the Royal, and the new 1,300-seat University of Victoria concert hall.

In offering the 10 attractions, Houghton is also suggesting that subscribers create their own "seasons" by choosing a minimum of any four events at a 10 per cent saving on regular ticket prices. A minimum of eight, or all 10, can be purchased at relatively higher discounts.

What can be foreseen as the crowning spectacle of a world-girdling series is the Chinese Circus, involving 40 jugglers, acrobats, clowns, magicians, highwire artists, karate experts, sword swallowers and dancers — an extravaganza decked out in $50,000 worth of costumes. This comes to the Royal for two performances in March.

Koffman, the "Swinging Shepherd", a top Canadian jazz musician, opens the season at the UVic Centre in October and will be followed there within 10 days by the Savoyards of London, five outstanding singers in a World of Gilbert and Sullivan program. This is the group of five D'Oyly Carte and Sadlers Wells-trained performers that two years ago thrilled two sold-out houses at the McPherson.

Danny Grossman has been described by the London Times as exhibiting "almost incredible acrobatic control," and was chosen by Rudolf Nureyev to dance with him in the London Coliseum. Grossman was the electrifying highlight when he danced in Victoria last season with the Toronto Dance Theatre. He will be seen with his own company at the McPherson in October.

Noted for their sumptuous costumes and male physical prowess, the Parthenon Dancers are returning for an encore performance in Victoria; Les Grands Ballets Canadiens is also returning, as is the Anna Wyman Dance Theatre.

Still more glamor and color of a gypsy kind will be injected by Rousianka, a dancing, balalaika-playing group from Soviet Russia.

Add to all this the Canadian Brass, The Canadian Opera Company presenting Mozart's Marriage of Figaro and, as the only single-artist attraction, the world famous master of flamenco Carlos Montoya, and it becomes obvious that in this versatile package alone Victorians are assured of some stimulating entertainment.

Musical Notebook

The committee responsible for organizing Jazz in the Park has been awarded a $2,500 grant from B.C. Cultural Services "in recognition of the contribution the group has made in providing summer entertainment for thousands of citizens and visitors," according to an announcement today by Sam Bawlf, minister of Conservation and Recreation.

The series has already presented concerts by the Bill Sample Trio and Mose Allison Trio, and has scheduled an additional three with such well known performers as Elmo Whiggett, Westside Feet Warmers, Gene Burton Cini and Michael Moore.

Michievous Doublebassist Lets Comic Side Hang Out

By AUDREY JOHNSON
Times Staff

The introduction of audiences to contemporary Canadian classical music is one important new facet of this summer's Victoria International Festival. It's a necessary advance but likely to be popular only with the profoundly musical or initiated listener.

The festival's artistic director, J.J. Johannesen, faced with the economic necessity of maintaining a good box office, conceived the idea of inserting one or possibly two Canadian compositions here and there throughout the festival's 28-concert series. He thus offers audiences the privilege of a slight venturing-forth while keeping one foot in familiar territory.

At Thursday's concert at St.Michael's School, three members of the UVic ensemble — Lanny Pollet, flute, Paul Kling, violin, and Hana Dedicius, cello, — performed a Trio composed in 1972 by Harry Somers.

This work, in three movements, was in fact, appealing lyrically, and from the point of view of the imaginative and insightful dialogue between the three instruments and the blending and contrasting of their textures and tonal color, an enthralling piece of music.

Its performance by the three artists was of the finest quality, interpretively perceptive, articulate, and technically fluent, with a fine degree and balance in the choice of dynamics.

The UVic Faculty Ensemble will appear twice more in the series; at McPherson Playhouse, Tuesday, and in an all-contemporary Canadian program at St.Michael's on Aug. 14, a concert which is to be recorded by the CBC.

The combination of mezzo soprano voice and viola is a particularly alluring one and delighted a capacity audience at St.Michael's, Thursday, when Phyllis Mailing was joined by Leslie Malowany and the superbly sensitive piano of Denise Masse in two rich Brahms songs — Longing at Rest and Cradle Song of the Virgin.

Ms. Mailing possesses the glowing, vibrant, tonal qualities and well-developed range and finesse in phrasing, as well as poetic comprehension that renders her a lieder artist of genuine stature.

The combination of incomparable clarinetist Gervase de Peyer, with the keyboard artistry of Robin McCabe in the Brahms Sonata No.2 in E Flat Major, and a Mozart Duo which featured Sydney Humphreys, violin, and Leslie Malowany, viola, in a sparkling performance, were further highlights.

The concert's concluding number was a a sort of divine comedy, which was not unanticipated seeing that it was provided by the Duo Karr-Lewis. Doublebassist Gary Karr, playing like an inspired but mischievous angel, perfectly partnered at the piano by Harmon Lewis, dares to flout the concept of music as "serious" and lets all his comic instincts hang out.

He has fun and so do we.

We are moved by the singing phrases and the wonderfully cello-like tone he elicits from the upper reaches of the strings, and awed as that super-supple left hand flies up and down the vast reaches of the finger-board in dazzling virtuosity.

Tonight at St.Michael's there will be a second in the series of three Keyboard Opulence concerts. The artists performing works from the virtuosic piano literature, will be Abbey Simon, Harmon Lewis, Robin McCabe and William Aide.

Sunday's concert at the McPherson will consist of an all-Schubert program. Flutist Robert Aitken will perform and the Schubert Octet in F Major has been scheduled.

Judge Turns Detective

EDMONTON (CP) — A personal investigation by a provincial court judge resulted in a charge of theft being dismissed against a department store employee Friday.

Judge John Koshuta told the female employee earlier during her trial that he did not believe her story thar she had to steal a dress and a blouse from the women's wear department of the store to enhance a luggage display in another part of the store.

The woman, a display coordinator in the department store, was apprehended last March by the store's security officers after she stuffed the articles into her handbag.

Judge Koshuta said Friday he had done some checking on his own and learned that store managers are reluctant to provide merchandise for display because of the risk of damage to the goods.

Local Pianist Plays Tonight

Victoria pianist George Essihos will appear tinight in recital at Victoria High School auditorium, in a program entitled Improvisation and the Piano.

Recital time is 8 p.m.

A composer as well as a pianist, he will include some of his own work in the program.

He said all the pieces he will play, including Ravel's Sonatine, are based on the natural unfolding of melodies, chords or patterns, rather than on structural development as in the fugue or form-sonata.

Most of the works are short, tuneful and colorful, he says, and the Khatchaturian Tocatta is jazz-influenced. His own music, a group of three pieces, is also jazz-influenced, says Essihos.

He has included a Bill Evans arrangement of the ballad Spring Is Here on which he will improvise. Other works he will perform are Sonata in D Minor by Scarlatti, Bach Prelude in C and a Chopin Prelude in C Minor, Etude in E Major and Berceuse in D Flat; Debussy's Reflets dans l'Eau, and some works by Gershwin and Poulenc.

Nova Scotia is Europe without crowds, only lovelier

Fairest Canada Maritime province

ON THE GO with Jerry Hulse

SHERBROOKE, Nova Scotia — If Europe isn't on your itinerary this season, how about Nova Scotia?

First off, there's less jet lag; second, it's as close to Scotland as you'll likely get without winging over the Atlantic.

THERE ARE other reasons and scenes — scenes which bring to mind Ireland and the fjords of Norway and the velvet green hills of the English countryside.

But hurry, the place is about to be invaded.

By next month convoys of tour buses will be out in force as autumn's annual color spectacle unfolds across Canada's fairest Maritime province.

THIS IS the Acadian country of Longfellow's Evangeline as well as Scottish highlanders, Irish, German and British immigrants.

Locals still do the highland fling and the Irish jig and here and there you can hear Gaelic spoken.

It is Europe without crowds, only lovelier. If not the prettiest land on earth, certainly it must come close.

ONLY A SHORT hop from Boston, tiny Nova Scotia juts into the Atlantic Ocean due east of Maine. As such it competes as an autumn pleaser with all of New England.

Uncrowded, two-lane roads cling to the coast and roll among valleys throughout the entire 375-mile-long peninsula.

Along with the fall foliage, autumn wild flowers will appear, a prelude to a winter's fierce Atlantic storms.

PRESENTLY, though, the earth is green, the air is warm, apples are ripe and berries are ready for picking.

Here on St. Mary's River, Sherbrooke's locals perform daily tasks in a restored village complete with blacksmith shop, a sawmill, barn and tearoom featuring a tempting seafood chowder, oven baked beans, scones and gingerbread freshly baked and coated with whipped cream.

DOWN THE street, ladies in floor-length gowns display handmade quilts, sweaters and hookrugs, along with jars of foxberry and rhubarb jams.

If this seems like a replay of 19th-century North America, in a sense it is.

A couple of hundred years ago the British routed the French from Sherbrooke. Later gold was discovered while the United States was fighting its Civil War. When the gold was gone, a few stuck around, including Jimmy Cumminger's ancestors, who helped settle the new town.

HIS WIDOW takes in guests in a cozy, two-storey bungalow that's withstood the ravages of 130 winters.

While not exactly the Waldorf, it offers Old World comfort — a room with a shared bath going for $10 single and $14 double. If that sounds like some crazy system of reverse inflation, the proprietress makes no apologies.

Indeed, for an extra $2.25 she'll prepare a breakfast that would do in a lumberman.

EARLIER we spent the night at Liscombe Lodge on the Liscombe River, which is just a hoot and a holler from the coastal village of Ecum Secum (how's that for a handle?).

With 15 chalets and a half a dozen cottages — each with river view — the lodge lies hidden among evergreens just downstream from Liscombe Mills Falls.

THE PRICE for easing the frame into one of Nova Scotia's finest lodges comes to $28 a day for a single and $30 for a double. To get a fix on the site, figure it as roughly 100 miles north of Halifax.

As for Halifax, it was here the world's greatest non-nuclear explosion occurred 60 years ago after a French munitions ship collided headon with a Belgian freighter in Halifax Harbor. Hundreds died. Thousands were injured. With property losses in the millions, it marked one of the worst disasters of the century. So widespread was the damage the scars still show.

Still, the city retains a British flavor with its public gardens, historic Province House and St. Paul's, the oldest Anglican church in Canada.

HIGH TEA is served at the Lord Nelson and cash registers ring merrily at Dick Turpin's pub with its Moosehead and Tenpenny ale, London stout and deep-fried clams.

As the lobstering capital of the world, Halifax makes no secret of its fine seafood restaurants, among them the Five Fishermen with its Old World ambience.

Well, sir, it's not that we wish to sell Halifax short, but there's other scenery of the sort that sets poets to scribbling and painters to dabbling.

PAINTERS in particular freak out at Peggy's Cove, gathering to capture on canvas scenes of granite outcroppings carved by receding flows during the ice age. All of this is barely south of Halifax in the direction of Oak Island with its buried treasure and Mahone Bay with its panorama of ocean, islands, coves and a series of quaint seaside settlements.

Of the lot, the village of Chester — settled by New Englanders in 1759 — is an unsurpassed blend of ocean and scenic shorelines, a summer place with one of Nova Scotia's most charming inns, the Sword and Anchor.

Says the proprietor: "We are co-guardians of the most famous of Nova Scotia legends — the hospitality and pleasures lavished on all her visitors. As such, we beg to prove that across our threshhold that legend is still true as the sword, and anchor-deep."

THE OLD two-storey white frame cottage contains six guest rooms, four with baths, and each with a view of Chester Harbor. In the annex across the street — it dates from 1783 — another seven rooms are provided, the rates being $17.50 for a single and $25-$35 for a double.

Of a Sunday, guests are awakened by the bells of St. Stephen's while in the air there's the fragrance of salt and sea. Weathered fencing surrounds the Sword and Anchor and ancient elms cast their shadows across its grassy yard.

Another inn of similar charm, the Sou' Western, offers shelter nearby at Mahone Bay. Rooms gussied up with antiques are bid at $10 single and $13 double, including after-dinner refreshments.

Dorset background for Hardy's novels

By CHRISTINE PISARSKI

WEYMOUTH, England — Thomas Hardy used Dorset's beautiful and enchanting scenery as a background for most of his novels.

Seeing the unspoiled coastline, steep, rounded chalk hills, deep, green vales and miles of peaceful countryside, it is easy to understand why.

But panoramic views alone do not draw the sightseer to this southern county. Few counties are richer in prehistoric remains than Dorset, once part of the Saxon kingdom of Wessex.

Ancient burial mounds, hill forts from the iron age, Roman roads and stone circles are all in evidence.

Weymouth, one of the larger popular seaside resorts on the west coast, has a history going back to the stone age.

The prosperity of Weymouth resulted from the patronage of George III, who first came to this old Roman port in 1789. His statue stands in the centre of the esplanade. His residence, Gloucester House, now is a hotel.

A mile or two farther on, the beach becomes pebbly but for those who want to get away from the crowds, it's ideal.

The front teems with holidaymakers in the summer. There is no lack of fish-and-chip shops, amusements and holiday pursuits such as fishing and sailing.

Unique and impressive on the west coast of Dorset are the vast pebble bank of Chesil Beach and the solid limestone block of the Isle of Portland.

Chesil Beach, which connects Portland to the mainland, stretches to the village of Abbotsbury, enclosing a shallow salt-water lagoon known as the Fleet.

It extends—altogether 18 miles—as a beach beyond Abbotsbury to Burton Bradstock where the pebbles are reduced to shingle.

The pear-shaped Isle of Portland, four miles from Weymouth, has been extensively quarried to provide stone for St. Paul's, United Nations headquarters in New York and other notable buildings.

The hills that surround the Roman city of Dorchester—the Casterbridge of Hardy's novels—are a treasure ground of prehistoric remains.

The most impressive is Maiden Castle, the largest earthwork in Europe, two miles away. It was first occupied by stone-age man about 4,000 years ago.

Its present triple banks and ditches are attributed to an iron-age Celtic tribe thought to have occupied it from about 300 BC.

'Free' Romanians must have choices

Communism's low profile

By BETTY PEACH

POIANA BRASOV, Romania — Downing a shot of hot plum brandy dusted with red pepper is not my standard way to start a day. But at this ski resort in the Carpathian Mountains of central Romania, the hot peppered brandy preceded coffee at breakfast in Outlaw's Retreat.

When in Romania, do as the Romanians. . . .

The communist domination maintains a low profile. Churches are open and thriving. The country is predominantly Romanian Orthodox, with a small percentage Protestant, Jewish and Islamic. Soldiers appear only at the War Memorial, a few government buildings and at the airport.

Bogdan Dronca, a gung-ho young Romanian I mistook for an American, played rock music on his portable tape player, dressed in jeans and a silver racing jacket with an American flag on one shoulder. He carried a top-quality Japanese camera. He smoked American cigarettes although Romania produces large quantities of tobacco. In a rare moment of seriousness he explained why:

"We Romanians are a free people and must have choices. So we have Romanian cigarettes at a low price and the choice of American cigarettes at a high price. The money isn't the issue. Freedom of choice is. We have that."

Other notes on Romania:

Voronet — Old churches in this northern district of Moldavia wear their decorations, largely allegorical, in elaborate frescoes that have survived for 500 years.

The tall narrow arches of the church here hold paintings of biblical figures illustrating almost every facet of the Scriptures. The church was built in less than four months in 1488, and its elaborate exterior paintings begun soon after.

Where the hundreds of individual paintings are sheltered from sun and rain near the top under the eaves, the colors and lines are still clear. Where weather has taken its toll, colors are faded, and where human hands can reach, despoilers have left their names and dates gouged into the plaster.

Rural areas follow the general European custom of clusters of houses surrounded by vast farmlands. Romania has followed only partly the Russian collective farm idea.

Our pretty blond guide, Mihaela Nagy, speaking perfect British English with marine drill sergeant authority, explained that a farmer may join a collective, could work for a co-operative or could farm his own land. She delivered details of each choice with the implication that advantages of the first and second far outweighed anything in private ownership.

But pride of ownership showed in the brightly painted homes and in the gardens of farm villages, where decorated houses and decorated eggs are traditional. The designs are modifications of the 15th century churches.

Bucharest — The capital of Romania is a pretty city in the same manner of Paris. Its broad boulevards are fringed in trees and flowers. Many parks are dotted with ponds, lakes and formal gardens where residents flock on weekends.

Fountains shoot skyward. Monuments and memorials face broad esplanades. And as in Paris, a heavily traveled street circles the Romanian Arc de Triomphe.

Although kings and queens are gone from the scene, some of their treasures remain. In the History Museum of the Socialist Republic of Romania, a well-guarded gallery below ground level houses a fortune in gold jewelry, crowns and royal trappings that are fascinating to study in their brightly lighted display cases.

That old revenge is being curbed by research team

BALTIMORE — Tourists call it Montezuma's Revenge or less tasteful names. Whatever name you use, traveler's diarrhea has ruined a lot of vacations to Mexico and other developing countries.

Now, researchers at the Johns Hopkins Hospital have developed a simple, preventive treatment: a daily dose of the drug doxycycline, an antibiotic from the tetracycline family, starting before the vacation.

Dr. R. Bradley Sach, a Johns Hopkins associate professor of medicine, and his brother, Dr. David Sach, also a Hopkins researcher, found that use for doxycycline during a series of studies on traveler's diarrhea involving Peace Corps volunteers in Kenya and Morocco.

"We found that the main bacterium (causing the diarrhea) is a bacterium that is a form of E. coli that is sensitive to this drug," said Bradley Sach. "Therefore, it was logical that we try this drug. We found its protection to be very good."

For anti-diarrhea purposes, doxycycline is taken once a day in capsule form.

"It's long-acting, so only a single daily dose is needed," said Sach.

He said the drug acts in the small intestine and, said Sach, "That's where the organisms grow so it's secreting exactly where you want it."

Sach said there are some side effects associated with doxycycline, but no adverse reactions have been found in the Johns Hopkins study. However, he recommends against prescribing it for pregnant women and for children because it can stain immature teeth.

"We are recommending that they can take this drug for short periods of time, about three weeks, and it will be about 90 per cent effective," added Sach, who has received calls about the treatment and is prescribing it for travelers bound for developing countries.

An article outlining the study was published in the New England Journal of Medicine and Sach is ready to publish a second article that he expects to make the first more convincing because it reaffirms the findings.

Sach said he suspects doxycycline will soon be prescribed widely — but that he hopes it will be used correctly.

"It's not for people going to Europe," he said, explaining that the organism that doxycycline combats is common to developing countries, but not to the United States and other developed nations.

Israel's Riviera sparkles on Gulf of Elat

Israel's Riviera is at Elat on the Red Sea's Gulf of Elat. Year-round hot temperatures and the warm waters make swimming a must for every tourist. Modern facilities are available.

Festival of arts feature of Banff

BANFF — The very name has magic about it and conjures up visions of mountain ranges, coniferous forests and wild animals. Thousands of people come to the Rockies each year to hike, climb, ski, fish, swim, take photographs and just to drink in the beauty that is all around them.

And there is even more than this natural masterpiece. High on the hills, surrounded by the majesty of the mountains and the mystery of the wild, is the Banff Centre — focal point of the Arts, an educational institution with an international reputation. Those lucky enough to be in the Rockies in August will be able to be part of Festival 78.

The Banff Festival of the Arts began on August 1 and continues until August 19. There is so much to entertain you: Drama, Musical Theatre, Opera, Concerts and visual Arts of all kinds. Nowhere else in Canada can you find such a wealth of cultural activity in such a magnificent setting. And you will have the chance to match the activities of any day to your particular mood: A visit to the Hot Springs by day. A trip to the Opera by night. This year the Festival opera is Cosi fan tutte. Another day, take in a matinee, perhaps Chekhov's the Seagull. Then dine elegantly at any of Banff's many interesting restaurants. Perhaps you like musical theatre. This year the offering is the delightful Brigadoon. Hike by day, maybe meet a herd of deer, then relax to The Heather on the Hill my night.

There is so much to see and do. All kinds of music from an evening of jazz to an evening of Chopin. All kinds of art from painting to photographs to ceramics to sculpture. Banff is a very special place in a very special setting. It is the perfect location for anyone who loves the mountains.

The Banff Centre adds a cultural dimension to the breathtaking beauty of the Rockies that is truly inspiring.

Travellers provide an update

Mighty dollar has fallen

How has the mighty U.S. dollar fallen? For years it was exchanged at $1 for four Swiss francs. (Beautiful silver coins. Bills are a waxy, clean paper, each printed in German, French and Italian.)

Friends returning from Europe gave me this update. "The U.S. dollar now buys you only 1.86 francs in Switzerland. Consequently, our rented Volkswagen cost us $140 from Geneva to Basle. Less than a day and a half. And we bought the gas—$2 a gallon."

Around the World with Stan Delaplane

"A BIG problem was luggage. The railroad station porter with his smock, cap and sweeping mustache is an endangered species. We found only ONE, a rare specimen at Geneva. They should be preserved under glass.

"There are little baggage carts you can use in train stations. But wrestling bags into overhead racks is something else. It took both of us to manage it.

* * *

"You can be sure you'll carry your own bags a lot. In Paris we carried our bags to our hotel room. At the Aerogolf Sheraton (!) in Luxembourg, we carried them again. No hotel porter.

"We hoisted them to our room at the Eden in Geneva. To our rooms, again by ourselves, in Lucerne. We carried them to the elevator in Rotterdam. Down the hall to our rooms.

"We were saving a bundle on tips but our backs were giving out.

"At the Hotel Atlanta in Amsterdam ($55 a day) we hauled the bags up a flight of stairs.

"Back in Luxembourg again at the Hotel Alfa, lo and behold, a hotel PORTER carried the bags to our room. However, he may be a college boy doing it for the summer."

Schwinn Bicycle Company has news for wheelmen going abroad: A recent change in rulings lets international airlines take bicycles free of charge, in lieu of a large piece of baggage.

Keith Kingbay, Cycling Activities manager, in Chicago says: "I pack mine in a large canvas bag, setting the wheels (removed) in pockets inside the bag.

"In Europe I ship the bag by rail between cities I intend cycling into."

"What are handy things to take with us to Europe? Something we might forget otherwise."

A couple of friends voted for the washcloth. "You NEVER find them in hotels. Carry a half dozen plastic sandwich bags to put it in."

I find a flashlight is a handy tool. Especially in Mexico. Bathrooms are one step up or one step down. And resort doctors get rich taping sprained ankles.

". . . The best place to exchange money? Should we get some before we go to Europe?"

Get enough to handle tipping and taxis wherever you're arriving by plane. I get a package worth $10 or so from a bank. There are banks handling foreign exchange at the airport where you're leaving.

Banks too at the airport where you land. But if a lot of planes are arriving—(as at London where it's always busy)—you'll have to get in a long line.

Once in the country, exchange at banks. Hotels ALWAYS take one to two dollars on every hundred dollars exchanged.

Moving from one country to another—as London to Paris—DON'T change English pounds back into dollars to buy French francs in France. Each exchange is charged something. Turn the pounds into francs at airport banks at either end.

"Have you any choice in travel clocks?"

I've been using a Swiss Jaeger-Le Coultre, 1½ inches square. Fits in my breast pocket. Replaces a wristwatch whose band gathers sweat in the tropics. Stands on a table if you like. Has an alarm. Cost $75 in Spain, $90 in Jamaica freeport, $115 in Paris.

But I'm cutting a tooth for a Japanese Seiko a friend brought back from Hong Kong. A wristwatch you set to your overseas time. Set another button and, when you press, it flashes the time in your home town.

Good if you phone home from time to time. In Hong Kong, $110, about $200 in the U.S.

Tourists still flood Ireland

HALIFAX — In spite of a long history of violence and death in Northern Ireland, about two million tourists, including an estimated 44,000 Canadians, will venture into the Irish Republic this year on summer vacations, the Irish tourism minister said here.

News reports of violence in Northern Ireland have created "an unreal picture" of the country and have discouraged North Americans from visiting it, Tourism Minister Tom Fitzpatrick said in an interview.

BEFORE THE JUDGE

An 18-year-old who pleaded guilty to theft under $200 and mischief causing wilful damage in Victoria provincial court Friday was given two-month, concurrent sentences by Judge Fred Green.

After defence lawyer Brian MacKenzie entered the pleas for Guy William Moffatt, 975 Balmoral, crown counsel Don Laughton entered a stay of proceedings against a jointly charged person.

Laughton said Moffatt and a companion were observed prowling around parked autos at the rear of 1022 Pandora at about 4 a.m., July 19, and Victoria city police were called.

Police arrested Moffatt, who was identified as the person who took out the window of a BMW and removed two speakers and some casette tapes.

Laughton also said that Moffatt was convicted of breaking and entering April 13, 1977, in Courtenay and given a suspended sentence and one year's probation.

In handing out the sentence, Green said he took into account the previous conviction and probation period, the fact it may have been an impulsive act but was carried through, and Moffatt's age.

Two men charged with robbery with violence elected trial by judge and jury and had their preliminary hearing set for Dec. 22.

William Robert Lowe, 28, and Roland Alexander Clermont, 22, were charged in connection with a July 21 holdup of an Esquimalt grocery store on Craigflower in which a knife was involved.

Lowe is also charged with being unlawfully at large from a penal institution and defence lawyer MacKenzie elected trial by judge without jury on that charge. Dec. 21 was set for the preliminary on Lowe's separate charge.

Court was informed Stothard was the driver of one of two vehicles involved in a motor vehicle accident at Douglas and Pandora at about 2 a.m. in which the cars suffered about $750 damage in total. Laughton said breath samples taken produced readings of .25 and .23.

Campers a Factor In Elm Disease?

WINNIPEG (CP) — A Canadian forestry service official says campers could be a factor in the spread of Dutch elm disease in the city.

Vern Hildal said people taking firewood from camping area to camping area or bringing the wood back into the city are possibly spreading the disease, which is carried by beetles in the bark of dead wood.

Hildal told a service club meeting Thursday if firewood is to be transported, the safest way is to remove the bark and carry the bare wood. The beetles will remain in the bark and the disease won't be spread.

He said the problem is a "social disease because everybody in Manitoba is going to be affected" by the loss of greenery and the cost involved.

"In Winnipeg there are more than 250,000 elm trees, and every one is susceptible. Some of the trees will cost upwards of $500 each to be removed and replanting will cost about $300 a tree," he said.

Spores of Dutch elm disease are carried by beetles about an eigth of an inch long which move from tree to tree. The disease is usually apparent in the tree after a few days, too late to save the tree. The symptoms are drooping or dead leaves.

Pay Attention to Your Sump Pump hand around the house

By A. J. HAND

Not long ago I got a call from my sister. Heavy rains were flooding her basement and for some reason the sump pump wasn't working. Could I come over and take a look? I put on my rubber boots and drove over.

Once there I waded across the basement floor to the pump. The problem was immediately obvious. The pump was unplugged.

That story would be a lot funnier if it weren't for the fact that a sump pump that fails to work can cause severe damage. Still, many homeowners put in a pump with very little thought or planning. Then they ignore the thing and expect it to serve them faithfully for life. It doesn't work that way.

One common problem with sump pumps is almost as obvious as leaving them unplugged. Many homeowners plug their pumps into outlets that are controlled by a wall switch. Then they absentmindedly turn off the switch. A sump pump should always have its own circuit, direct from the fuse box or service panel. The circuit should be grounded and have a three-hole outlet at least four feet above the floor. This should keep it above water level if the pump fails for any reason.

Sump pumps are subject to clogging. Water on the basement floor picks up debris and sweeps it into the sump. There it lodges in the pump intake. To prevent this you should be sure to keep the sump clean. Keeping your basement floor clean is a good way to start. Every time the pump finishes its job after a flooding, go down and check the sump for debris. Turn off the power to the pump and clean both pump inlet and the sump.

Every year or so it's a good idea to take the pump out of the sump and give it a check. Look for dirt, corrosion, and any parts that seem damaged or worn. Rubber parts are often the first to deteriorate, so pay special attention to them.

While the pump is out of the sump, give the sump a good cleaning. The bottom may be coated with mud, grit, and bits of concrete. Scoop this stuff out or it will eventually clog the pump or wear the moving parts.

Pump switches are a common troube spot. Check yours now and then. You can actuate the switch by hand (lift up on the float) or by pouring a bucket or two of water into the sump. Using the water is a good idea since it also tests the pump as well as its switch. You will have to use water with some types of pumps since they have hidden switching mechanisms.

If your pump fails to activate, check to see if it has overload switch. If the pump starts, feed it water from a hose. Let it run for several minutes. Listen for unusual sounds and if you hear them, shut down and call for service. If not let the pump keep working. If it doesn't heat up and shut down again it should be okay. But if the thermal overload trips again, you need service.

Most pumps are sealed and never need oiling. Check your pump instructions. If they don't call for lubrication, don't oil the pump.

George Needs Company

Wonderful World of Animals

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: Ginny, my female gerbil, died after just a couple of weeks. George, my male, I think is very lonesome and should have another mate. Don't you agree? My mother thinks he likes being a bachelor and doesn't need one. — E.R.

DEAR E.R.: Since gerbils are social animals, they generally are happier as a pair. While they usually mate for life, under these circumstances, George would likely be more than willing to accept another mate.

* * *

DEAR DR. MILLER: This was to have been Cleo's second heat cycle. She is a Samoyed from championship stock and I had her all lined up to breed. Everything has come to a standstill. What do you recommend? — S.T.

DEAR S.T.: Patience. Six-month intervals for estrus in bitches is an approximation, not an absolute. While the six-month interval is reasonably accurate as an average, the individual bitch will establish her own regular heat cycle weeks or even months away from that semi-annual standard.

TREATING TROPICALS (AND OTHER FISH)

The two most common errors made in treating sick fish with drugs are first, choosing the wrong medication and second, using the wrong dosage. If you don't have some specific reasons for using a particular drug, don't use it. Trial-and-error drug treatments by non-experts probably kill more fish than they save. Because there is no way for the fish to alter or escape the dosage of the drug you present them with, it has to be right. You must know the strength of the medication you are putting in the water and, too, you have to know the amount of water you are putting the drug into in order to achieve that desired dosage.

A common mistake is to overestimate the amount of water in the tank. Remember, water is displaced by gravel, rocks or other ornamentation. Frequently a 10-gallon tank contains only eight gallons or even less of actual water. It is far better to under-dose than overdose. Be sure also you follow through on treatment times so that the fish are not exposed to the drugs for too long a period of time. Always carefully follow instructions in drug use. If you have any doubt about the medication withhold it until you can check with an expert — or don't use it at all.

* * *

DEAR DR. MILLER: First don't bother telling me to keep Patrick inside. He is a traffic-wise smart dog who's been roving for six years now and I don't plan to start bottling him up. What I am writing about is one of those big wide-spike collars. Would that be a good idea for him?

He's about beagle size and occasionally bigger dogs jump him and chew him up. I thought maybe a spike collar would be an added protection in a vital area. A good idea? — W.D.

DEAR W.D.: It's true that a wide spike collar might provide added protection for the throat area. This canine collar, conversely, could be a handicap in that it would weigh him down some and make him slower. It would certainly make him less agile. He couldn't turn his head very fast or very far. (Being traffic-wise won't prevent him from getting killed in a dog fight, or being poisoned, or being a nuisance to the neighbors — but being confined could . . .)

Sail Death Cause Natural

Coroner Edmond J. de St. Jorre said Friday he found a 47-year-old sail surfer died by natural causes in a mishap on Elk Lake July 23.

Donald Barry Wallace, 1338 Chan, was riding a sail-driven surfboard when he collapsed and fell into the water. He was rescued and taken by ambulance to hospital where he subsequently died.

The coroner said a post mortem disclosed death was due to coronary thrombosis. The deceased had had a heart bypass operation about five years ago.

Consult an expert next week! . . .
Coloration . . . when it comes to home decorating . . . can be a pretty tricky thing for a lot of people . . . Having said which, we hasten to tell you that if you have any particular coloration problems, expert help is at hand! . . . Plan right now to get down to Standard Furniture next Tuesday, Aug. 8 . . . because on that day, Mr. Rudy Alperin, vice-president of Riverdale Fabrics in New York . . . without doubt one of the top authorities on fabric colors and designs in North America . . . internationally known for his lectures on color and fabric co-ordination . . . will be in the store . . . You'll find him in the drapery department . . . talking to customers about color co-ordination . . . showing new directions fabrics are taking for the year ahead . . . and answering any questions you may have . . . Now that Munday's sale is over, we went in this week and were rewarded with the sight of the first arrivals of new Amalfi shoes for fall and winter . . . The latest look is the Easy Look . . .
Interesting, isn't it, how our ideas change about what constitutes attractive hair? And definitely for the better, we'd say! . . . For example, who can regret the departure of the contrived, "just-fresh-from-the-hairdresser" look? . . . Much less the hairdos casual to the point of looking unkempt! . . . Now it's the Easy Look we're striving for . . . The natural, healthy, well-kept hair that's so well and subtly styled that its not only easy to wear but easy to manage at home between hairdresser appointments . . . This is the type of thing the Charming Lady and Witch's Hut do to such perfection! . . . The all-important cut which gives design and shape to suit a person's features . . . Maybe a body wave or perm depending on the client's hair . . . Almost certainly a conditioner for softness and lustre . . . particularly now when sun and water are busily drying out all our heads! . . . (Incidentally, at these two salons, you're automatically treated to a conditioner along with your perm!) . . . Maybe right now you're wondering why your hair is hard to manage . . . Conditioning may well be the answer. So do talk to one of the expert stylists at the Lady or the Hut and let them advise you . . . We promise you'll be delighted with the service and the environment at either of these two fine salons . . . Their staffs are pleasant, excellently trained, and completely devoted to pleasing you! . . . Charming Lady, 1712 Douglas St., 385-8133 and Witch's Hut, 728 View St., 388-7368.

Fine Peridots for August birthdays . . .
Even though they've been known and treasured for centuries, Peridots . . . transparent gem stones of a rich olive green . . . have recently experienced a new upsurge of popularity . . . The peridot also happens to be the birthstone for August, we were reminded when we saw some lovely peridot jewellery at de Goutiere's this week! . . . Three new rings are set with this romantic gem . . . One a peridot with diamonds all around it . . . $425 . . . A second with three diamonds on either side, priced at $385 . . . and the third a peridot by itself in a modern gold setting at $165 . . . Saw a pair of nice little peridot stud earrings too . . . only $61.50 . . . So if you want to give something lovely to an August birthday girl . . . go see these peridots! . . . De Goutiere has some very beautiful new pearl necklaces . . . a dainty one of small uniform cultured pearls is priced at $800, while a 15" strand of fresh water pearls is just $125 . . . We love the little 14K gold chain necklaces . . . one with seven fresh water pearls . . . another with grey baroque pearls . . . A bracelet to match this latter . . . Getting back to rings, there's a fascinating modern ring with eight different colored sapphires in a bezel setting . . . designed especially for de Goutiere . . . Lots of beautiful wedding and engagement ring settings with the central stone missing so you can select your own diamond or whatever . . . de Goutiere, Jeweller Ltd., 2542 Estevan Ave., 592-3224.

An awful lot of people seem to be moving into new homes this summer . . . working like beavers trying to get everything settled before the kids go back to school . . . When it comes to that supremely important part of home decor known as lighting . . . we think you'd be well advised to go see Beston's Lighting . . . They have a complete range of fixtures, from modern to traditional . . . fixtures of extraordinary beauty and originality . . . and what's more they have qualified people to advise you and help you select all the lighting you need for every room in your home . . . Some of the new merchandise we saw this week is breath-taking! . . . For example, there's a beautiful decorated porcelain chandelier from Italy . . . Soft blues, beiges and rose, with six etched glass chimneys . . . Gorgeous in a traditional setting . . . For a split level entrance hall there's an outstanding fixture consisting of 7 spiral drops of Strass crystal which sparkle like little diamonds . . . The whole thing has a fountain-like appearance which is extremely effective . . . Companion pieces for this include an airy chandelier for the dining room . . . Gold plated look with Strass drops and etched glass chimneys . . . Quite different in tone is the pretty antique brass chandelier with a down light and four upper lamps . . . Matching wall brackets carry out the theme . . . For bedroom or entrance hall in an older home there are charming glass fixtures like big flowers, etched and scalloped in greens, blues, amber or ruby . . . Largest selection of swag lamps in Victoria at . . . Beston's Lighting Exclusive, Hillside Shopping Centre, 595-0332.

The soft, pretty, feminine look in dresses is certainly carrying on into fall, judging from some mew arrivals we saw in Eaton's Signature Shop last Monday . . . In fact you could start wearing any one of these dresses right now, and keep on wearing it till next summer rolls around! . . . We particularly noted a 2-pce. Vali dress in pale grey tone-on-tone printed sheer . . . narrow frill around the neck, down the front and around the skirt . . . A polyester crepe in mint green with tucks and pleated frills . . . (Frills and gathers appear on just about everything!) . . . A very pretty Nipon Boutique dress in a dark print has scoop neck, 5-button front, elasticized waist and gathered sleeve with deep armhole . . . These elasticized waists and deep-cut armholes certainly make for comfort and ease in wearing! . . . A Hugh Garber dress in polyester has a challis-like texture . . . Navy/rust/camel print with plain camel collar . . . dolman sleeves . . . Another very feminine Vali is a blue/navy/white sheer . . . 2-pce. model with plain round neckline and frilled cuffs . . . An interesting Albert Nipon in pearl grey with fuschia trim has a loose, short-sleeved top and longer length skirt gathered into a yoke . . . Same model in fuschia with grey trim . . . We like the Hugh Garber mink and beige dress with crossover front, gathered skirt and dolman sleeves . . . KNIT AND CHAT

Passing Holiday Time

By MAY E. MacLEAN

If you are one of the lucky ones that spends the entire summer at the cottage, you have no doubt thought of taking along something to do in the evenings.

But even if you're planning a shorter summer vacation, it's a good idea to take along something which will utilize your time. After the first few days, the evenings may tend to drag after you have caught up on your sleep.

Crochet or knitting with cotten is pleasant work when the weather is warm. Knitting squares or crochet squares to form a bedspread is not hard work and needs little concentration. Leaflet No. 7060 is a simple knitted bedspread pattern, which, when completed, will make a beautiful wedding gift, or for your daughter's hope chest.

Several readers have written asking for knitted patterns in doilies. Leaflet No. 6947 is a knitted table centre approximately 20 inches across. It consists of five doilies which are joined together in a circle with a smaller doily in the centre. Any of these doilies makes an excellent gift.

I have two more knitted doily patterns, No. 7762 Coronet and No. 7763 Maytime — both lovely. These are about ten inches in diameter.

Several readers have asked for the pattern of a hat which has been smocked with gingham. Unfortunately, I do not have such a hat pattern. However, I do have a leaflet which gives instructions for smocked gingham pillows, No. 7253. I have examined one of these hats and they seem to involve one straight piece of smocking the depth of the crown, with the material gathered in to form the top of the hat. The brim is not smocked, the depth of the brim being about four or five inches, with material being allowed to have this brim double, and the edge catch-stitched to the wrong side of the lower edge of smocking.

I am sure that many of you experienced sewers could easily make this type of sun-hat with just the aid of the smocking guide given on Leaflet No. 7253. Use an old sun-hat as a measurement guide, and you can't go wrong.

Crochet shawls are this week's pattern and the leaflet contains directions for the baby shawl, as well as one for mother. Each can be made with or without a hood.

Light and lacey, these beautiful shawls made from synthetic yarn are ideal gifts — or make one for yourself for those glamorous nights out. You'll find them quick and easy to crochet, light to wear and warm and practical.

To order Leaflet No. 0578, or any other leaflet mentioned, send 75 cents for each, plus a stamped, self-addressed return envelope (a long one if possible). If you do not have a stamp or envelope, please enclose an extra 25 cents to cover the cost of handling and print your name and address. Send to: May E. MacLean, Knit and Chat, 486 Montfort Dr., Dollard des Ormeaux, Roxboro, Que.

Please be sure to state pattern numbers correctly when ordering. Allow about two weeks for normal delivery. All back numbers in my series are available at 75 cents (catalogue 25 cents). Each order must be accompanied with a stamped return envelope or an extra 25 cents.

HOW TO USE YOUR CHART:

BIO-DEX READOUT:

0-5 Negative Cycle-	You may be hasty in your opinion of a new acquaintance. Give him a chance to prove himself before you condemn.
6-10 Neutral Cycle-	If you let your patience run thin, you'll be in for a severe tongue-lashing from someone who won't appreciate it.
11-15 Positive Cycle-	You'll be able to manage your time well today. Plan a full schedule and you'll accomplish a great deal.

A high physical cycle is your key to a memorable occasion. This is the time to climb a mountain, shoot the rapids, tackle the outdoor job that seems impossible. It's rewarding too. Some of life's most satisfying memories arise out of those tasks that require strenuous effort. Even if your achievement doesn't break any records, it puts you in your own winners' circle — feeling just great.

BIO-DEX READOUT:

0-5 Negative Cycle-	You're thinking of yourself too much. Have you shown affection and loyalty lately?
6-10 Neutral Cycle-	Sometimes it's best to back down. No sense beating a dead horse — retreat, and breath again.
11-15 Positive Cycle-	Don't celebrate your success alone. Ensure future success by thanking those who helped you thus far.

If you're new to your community you may find yourself alone more than you would like. Being the new kid on the block is never easy, but a high Bio-dex day is your chance to change things. Take the initiative and say "Hi!" to a neighbor. Introduce yourself and you may find a new friend. Above all, don't be discouraged by a rebuff. You don't need to be friendly with the whole world — just part of it.

Free for Asking

Emotional health is part of our general well-being. However, sooner or later most of us run into problems and find that we are not as emotionally robust as we had assumed.

The six-page folder Living says emotional well-being can be measured by seven yardsticks.

First, face reality. If you are reasonably mature, you should try to make the best of the cards life has dealt you.

Secondly, adapt to change. Life is full of changes, and, regardless of our age, we must continuously adjust.

Next, control your anxieties.

Fourth, give of yourself. For emotional well-being everybody should have a cause, a constructive goal which keeps him busy.

This leaflet is available from: Public Relations Department, Canadian Mental Health Association, 2160 Yonge Street, Toronto, Ont. M4S 2Z3.

BIO-DEX READOUT:

0-5 Negative Cycle-	Don't wait for that phone call. Either place it yourself, or move on to someone new.
6-10 Neutral Cycle-	You're thinking of getting rid of an irritant. Wait for a higher cycle before doing so.
11-15 Positive Cycle-	You're about to lock horns with another leader. Great exercise for your positive powers.

Even in this time of government aid to the needy that seems to make life so secure, survival still comes first. It is possible to be faint with hunger and sick with cold and your high Bio-dex reading means you must feather your nest against harder times. Don't take security and good fortune for granted. Take out insurance, look after your finances properly, and help the weak. The day may come when those you helped may help you.

DEAR ABBY: Charlie and I have been married for 16 years and have had a fairly happy marriage. Charlie never was the jealous type, but I think he carries it to the other extreme.

We've become friendly with a rather odd couple who live in the same "condo." Izzy is 55, short, fat and generally unattractive. Suzy (his third wife) is cute, sexy and about 25 years younger than Izzy. She obviously married him for his money.

Lately Izzy has been getting much too friendly with me. He's forever putting his hands on me. Once he suggested "switching" and when I looked shocked, he laughed and said he was only kidding."

It seems the four of us are spending more and more time together. Last night during a foursome of bridge at our place, Izzy tried to play footsies with me. He slipped off his shoe and practically had his foot in my lap. I loudly told him off while Charlie and Suzy just sat there.

I get the impression that Suzy doesn't care who Izzy plays footsies with as long as it isn't her. (I think she must have something else going for her.)

Anyway, Suzy suggested that the four of us vacation somewhere together. I made excuses why we couldn't, but Charlie was all for it.

Is our marriage sick? I don't care to spend so much time with this couple. Why should my husband want to? And why shouldn't he be annoyed that another man makes passes at his wife?

Help me.

CHARLIE'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Tell Charlie that if he enjoys Izzy's company, he should see him without you because that foursome has become boresome.

DEAR ABBY: The wife who said her husband smelled because he seldom bathed reminds me of a story they tell about Samuel Johnson, the noted English lexicographer of the 1700s.

Johnson was a "purist" where words were concerned, but when it came to his personal hygiene, he was a notorious slob who seldom bathed.

A woman sitting next to him on a coach train said: "Sir, you smell!" Whereupon Johnson replied: "Madam, you are wrong. YOU smell, I stink."

LEE

DEAR LEE: Samuel Johnson was wrong. If he gave off an offensive odor, he "smelled" and stank as well. Or should Shakespeare's immortal line in "Romeo and Juliet" have been. "A rose by any other name would 'stink' as sweet"?

Find Out the Cause Of Bursitis Attacks

About twice a year I get an attack of bursitis in my right shoulder. It is so awful that I can barely work at my job. The attacks come on without any warning. Is there any way they can be avoided? — Mr. O.T.

Dear Mr. T.:

Bursitis is an inflammation of the bursa, or small sac, which is found in many of the joints of the body. The Bursa is filled with a lubricating fluid that helps the normal motion and rotation of the bones of the body.

The bursa can become injured, irritated and inflamed. The swelling within the joint limits the motion of the shoulder as a protective mechanism. The shoulder bursa is the most common site for bursitis. The elbow and the knee are also frequently affected.

A "low grade" bursitis can cause a moderate amount of discomfort that normally can be tolerated. When the swelling becomes marked, the pain can become intolerable. Calcium very often develops within the sac and further limits the motion of the joint, and increases the pain.

Some people with a tendency toward gout may have deposits of uric acid crystals in the bursa. This can create the same symptoms of pain and immobility. Because of this, blood studies for possible uric acid must be done in order to determine the exact cause of repeated bouts of bursitis.

If gout is the underlying cause, control of it may prevent repeated attacks of bursitis. The excellent antigout medications that are now available can reduce the uric acid in the bloodstream.

Unsuspected injuries while at work, lifting heavy weights, exposure to drafts and infections elsewhere in the body may also be responsible for attacks such as you describe. Many people like yourself are so delighted when they are free of the pain of bursitis that they fail to pursue the underlying cause once the attack is over. Don't make the same mistake.

When the exact cause is determined, the chances are great that you will be relieved of these distressing episodes.

Dear Mrs. E.:

The condition, "amblyopia," is sometimes called a "lazy eye." It is not a rare or dangerous condition and is readily recognized by eye specialists and general physicians. Some children may complain that letters or pictures are not distinct and run together. Looking at television may bother them and there may be unusual sensitivity to light.

Corrective glasses and specialized eye exercises are very effective in controlling this condition. Only in some instances, where a particular problem exists, is it necessary to resort to surgery.

Dangers lurking in summer heat

By BEN TRAVATO

A War Cry commentary

Some like it hot.

They like the fast burn of foot-singeing sand. And the warm hug of saunified air.

But there are real dangers under the summer sun.

Hazards to lumber, limousine, limb and love.

From these perils, O Lord, deliver us.

From the carefreeness that distorts into carelessness. And allows a campfire to puff up into a forest inferno. We need a promise from campers that they will explore yet not destroy nature. We need a commitment to the beauty of trees and birds, snakes and bracken that goes beyond a cheap "Yeh, the scenery's great!" We need a promise to our great-great-grandchildren that they, too, will have trees to tent under.

From the peril of forest fire, O Lord, deliver us!

From sweat-intoxicated drivers who are determined to beat the rest of the cottage crowd back to the city.

Even if it means risking a noisy short-cut to eternity. Or giving someone a plaster of paris limb to itch through August with.

'Bring 'em back alive' should be the motto of every sun-time driver. There may not be ice on a mirror-hot highway, but it's easy for an impatient driver to slip over the line that divides danger from safety.

Car insurance may replace your 450 cubic-inch displacement Caddy. But it can't bring back the lives or legs of those who got hurt by your 'hot stuff' behind the wheel.

Also from the assault of skin thin bikinis.

Warm temperatures require an adjustment in clothing of course. But both guys and gals have to be aware of the provocative implications of cooling their pores unwisely.

Our society allows a beautiful freedom and individuality in clothing styles. But that freedom has been a heavy hassle for those folks who would have got warmed up over a Victorian ear lobe.

Summer is no better season than any other when it comes to loving. But takes all the prizes when it comes to lusting.

We encourage people not to throw matches into summer dry woodlands. Let's give the same care to those with tinder dry sexuality.

It is great when a man and woman can look back on a lovely summer. It's sad when all they have left in September are the cold ashes of a cheap sex affair.

Christian folk trust God to help them in these areas. But they also do their part by co-operating with His way.

As Jesus people travel, they respect and care for the beauty of His nature. As they drive, they love their neighbor with safe speed and calm decisions. When they dress, they share their physical beauty with others but do it without tilting someone's sexual balance.

Summer perils cause us to kneel in summer prayers.

'Each of us must consider his neighbor and think what is for his good and will build up the common life' (Romans 15: 2).

True drama new slant of program

Faith For Today, one of the oldest and most listened-to religious broadcasts on coast-to-coast radio and television, has adopted a different slant for religious programs.

Under the program title Westbrook Hospital, Faith For Today telecasts true-to-life medical and health dramas filmed in Los Angeles, Calif., and viewed weekly at 1 p.m. Sundays. Locally the program may be seen on KVOS—TV, Channel 12, Bellingham, Wash.

Westbrook Hospital is already proving to be a popular program dealing with physical, psychological and spiritual problems of those facing hospital or medical emergency situations for themselves or members of the family or friends.

Faith For Today, a syndicated program of the Seventh-day Adventist Church, originates from Thousand Oaks, Calif. Its first speaker, William Fagel, is still heard as the program's main speaker.

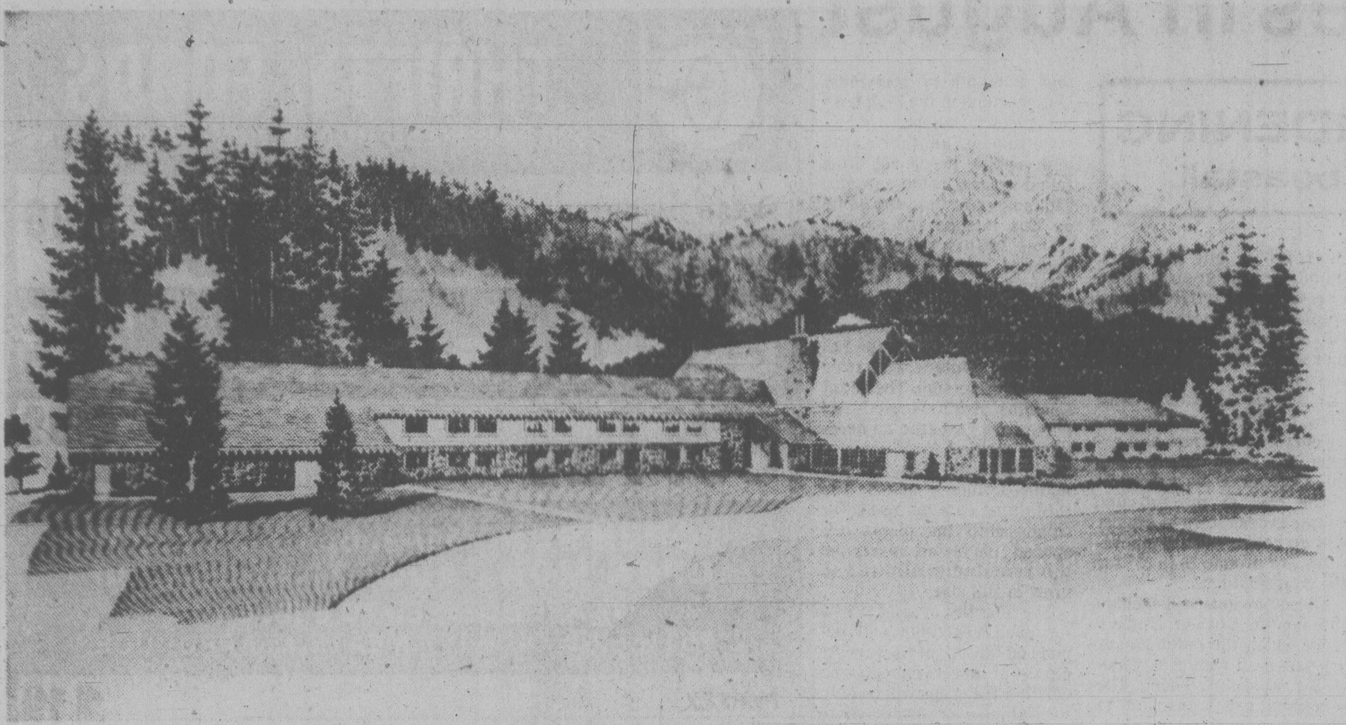
Author-cleric accepts post

Jean-Paul Desbiens, author of Les Insolences du Frere Untel, a controversial book published in 1960 about how French was spoken and taught in Quebec 20 years ago, has been appointed provincial of the Marists Brothers in the Saguenay-Lake St. John region of Quebec.



Sketch of how lodge-conference centre will look when finished

Adventists mass for big confab

The B.C. Conference of Seventh-Day Adventists annual camp meeting, running through next Saturday at Hope, has drawn more than 6,000 adherents from all corners of the province and the western states.

Some families are coming to the camp from as far south as California.

OLD-TIME camp meetings are almost obsolete in large U.S. cities due to security problems and vandalism.

However, with a new layout and many improved facilities, attendance at the camp is predicted to exceed the 6,000 people who attended the 10-day event during peak periods last year, says Kathleen Piper, local SDA Church communications secretary.

Last year a 105-by-165 foot tent was used as the main auditorium, but it was decided to move the old auditorium from the previous camp ground in Hope to the new area. This work, started in early July, was barely completed in time for the opening meeting. A number of changes were made to the building to make it more useable and capable of seating approximately 1,500 people in time for the opening meeting, and an additional 1,000 in the future.

TWO LARGE tents will be erected to serve as auditoriums for the youth and junior divisions.

Conference workers, teachers and ministers arrived at Camp Hope July 23 to help set up the camp. The woods echoed to the sound of hammers, machines and delivery trucks as people eagerly bustled about to have all in readiness.

No work, except that absolutely essential, was done during the Sabbath hours—from sunrise Friday to sunset Saturday.

Health and medical needs of campers are being cared for on the grounds by a team of physicians, dentists and paramedical workers. Their services are voluntary and campers can come to the medical building throughout the day. If ill, campers will be seen in their temporary housing at night.

AMONG THE facilities at the camp is a lodge with bright rooms and all modern conveniences to house 216 senior citizens, plus guest rooms and a modern dining room serving full meals at low cost.

The Adventist church advocates a healthful vegetarian diet excluding animal foods with the exception of dairy products. A well-stocked general store makes it convenient for campers to get their supplies without having to travel away from the grounds to shop.

There are also a book store, post office, telephone booth and swimming pool in the camp.

No tobacco or alcoholic beverages will be seen on the grounds, making Camp Hope an unusual—and quiet—camp city.

A line-up of some 20 guest speakers, denominational leaders, evangelists and musical groups will appear at the meeting, among them radio and television speakers Carl Brooks and Lonnie Melashenko of the Voice of Prophecy, a program directed to the black community.

OTHER SPEAKERS include L.L. Reile from Oshawa, Ont., Canadian union president of the Seventh-day Adventists, and Dr. N.O. Mathews, President of Canadian Union College at Red Deer, Alta.

Among visiting evangelists will be Dr. Carl Hoffman, who will speak to seniors, youths and juniors, and Pastor Fordyce Detamore. These men have spent many years as evangelists world-wide, and are fiery, dynamic speakers.

One of Detamore's former evangelist team-members, Pastor Jere Webb, will be the main evening youth speaker. Webb, a graduate of Walla Walla College, Wash., now serves as evangelist-church pastor at Collegedale Church on the campus of Southern Missionary College, Tenn.

Several medical doctors are scheduled to speak.

Featured will be Dr. Bob Steele, a missionary doctor working in the Far Eastern division. Each afternoon, Dr. Gus Hoehn, a Canadian practising dermatology in southern California, and his physician-son Jack, will conduct a health and diet seminar in the large auditorium, followed by a question-and-answer session.

EVENING PROGRAMS all week will be preceded by a 30-minute sacred concert, using the many talents of church members plus the artistry of guest soloists and groups such as the Messenger Quartet from Walla Walla College and Vanguard, a male quartet of clergymen from the SDA Ontario Conference.

At the opening of the camp meeting Friday, Tony W. Kaytor called the members to task before them: to help finish the work of the gospel and the early reformers.

At each evening meeting in the main auditorium, the guest speaker, evangelist J.W. Lehman, will present topics of interest to the general audience. Visitors are welcome to attend.

Pastor to be inducted at special Sunday service

Rev. John Bell will be inducted into the Gordon United pastoral charge in a special service at 7:30 p.m., Sunday, Aug. 6 in Gordon United Church, 935 Goldstream Ave., Langford.

Bell received his B.A. from UBC and his B.D. from Union College in Vancouver. Union College is now a part of the inter-church Vancouver School of Theology. He was ordained in 1968 and comes to his charge after four years in Port Moody.

Bell was born in Birmingham, England, and was apprenticed as a cabinet maker before coming to Canada 19 years ago. Prior to entering the ministry he worked as a carpenter in Kitsilano. His wife Margaret is a trained teacher and they have two children, Mark, 11, and Lisa, 8.

Bell's predecessor at Gordon United was Rev. David Stiven, who ministered there for eight years. Expansion of the work recently led to the formation of a new congregation, Pilgrim United, making a two-point charge. As yet it has no buildings, but owns a good piece of property across from Sangster Elementary on Metchosin Rd.

Athletic outreach

Ryun, Jackson running UVic camp for Christ

Former track stars Jim Ryun and Madelene Jackson will be in Victoria next week, conducting a running camp Aug. 6 through 11 at University of Victoria.

This first running camp the pair have held outside the United States is seen by Ryun as a ministry, and he feels many young people are influenced for Christ during such camps.

The Church of the Way, a non-denominational charismatic fellowship which meets at the Royal Oak Inn, is backing this outreach.

It offers a series of scholarships for young people, and some vacancies still exist for youths who would like to attend. Registration information is available at 652-5620.

Ryun is still the U.S. record-holder for the mile, and was the world record-holder for the 880 yards.

Madelene Jackson is an Olympic gold medallist, and is one of the fastest woman runners alive. She is, incidentally, also a great gospel vocalist.

Ryun and Jackson are devoted Christians, and will share their testimonies at a special rally Aug. 12.

A special rally, open to the public with free admission, will be held Saturday, Aug. 12 in the Student Union Theatre, UVic Campus, starting at 7:45 p.m.

Layman at Lambeth

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — A. J. Coleman, head of the mathematics department at Queen's University, was the only layman from Canada invited to attend the Anglican Lambeth conference.

The conference, first held in 1867, is called by the Archbishop of Canterbury and held in Canterbury, England. This year's conference, which ends Aug. 13, brings together 400 bishops, 40 assistant bishops, and laymen from many countries.

Organist airs talent

There will be a program of Music in the Cathedral at 4 p.m. Saturday in Christ Church Cathedral, Quadra at Burdett. Featured performer is Isabel Dedinszky-Richards at the organ.

Oak Bay United sets youth program

CHURCH CHRONICLES

Oak Bay United Church's vacation program for youth, Summer 78, will begin Wednesday.

Morning sessions—for children who will be aged four by Dec. 31 to those who will be in Grade 7 this year—are from 9 to 11:30 a.m.

Evening sessions—for young people entering Grades 8 through 12—will be from 6:30 to 9 p.m.

The six-day program will end Aug. 12.

Registration is $3, and additional information is available at 598-5021.

●

Regular 11 a.m. Sunday morning services at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Victoria, will be conducted by Rev. Dr. J. Lewis W. McLean during August.

McLean, a former moderator of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, is minister emeritus of St. Andrew's, having served the congregation as minister for 34 years.

James Bay United Church will be in charge of the ninth in the series of 12 open-air gospel service to be held at 7 p.m. Sunday in Beacon Hill Park's Cameron bandshell. Pastor Bert Forsythe will conduct the service and deliver the gospel message.

The musical program will include a singalong and selections by the church choir of 12 members, with Phyllis Pollard as conductor. Vocal soloists will be Betty Heard, Connie Forsythe and Phyllis Pollard, with accompanist Ella Surratt.

The summer series is sponsored by Park Services Interdenominational.

Rev. Neil Hightower, who has served as superintendent of the Canada central district of the Church of the Nazarene for six years, has been elected president of the Canadian Nazarene College by the Board of Governors, succeeding Dr. Ronald Gray, who resigned in May.

Hightower is vice-chairman of the executive board of the denomination in Canada, and a member of the general board of the international church, which has its headquarters in Kansas City, Mo. He graduated from Bethany Nazarene College in Oklahoma and from the Nazarene Theological Seminary in Kansas City, being ordained in 1952.

He has pastored the Toronto Emmanuel Church of the Nazarene in Ontario as well as Nazarene churches at Bel Air and College Park, Maryland, and Lavelle, Penn.

Hightower and his wife, Ruth, will move from Toronto to the college in Winnipeg next September. They have one married daughter.

Canada should put a freeze on its plans to buy 125 new fighter aircraft, and lead the rest of the world towards disarmament, the United Church Observer says editorially.

Canada believes in "peace, disarmament and development in the Third World," yet, like so many others, it is caught in the arms buildup and has a commitment to spend annually, by 1981, $1.3 billion on new equipment, says the paper.

While Canada is opposed to supplying arms directly to military dictatorships, it does sell component parts and engines to countries which convert them into military aircraft and sell these to countries such as Chile.

"Canadian component sales reached an all-time high of nearly $150 million in 1967," and in per capita terms Canadian arms exports exceed those of the United States today.

●

Canadian theologian Dr. Clark Pinnock will speak at Lambrick Park Church, 1780 Feltham, at the 11 a.m. Sunday service.

Pastor Dr. John Williams has extended a cordial welcome to all interested to hear Pinnok, who is associate professor of theology at McMaster Divinity College.

Sow Fall Vegetables in August

GARDENING
jack beastall

Final sowings for the fall and winter vegetable garden are made in August. These consist mainly of green leaf vegetables, most of which will give a steady supply until March if covered with portable coldframes or glass cloches in early October.

Without protection from heavy rains and light night frosts, the growth will be much slower and considerable leaf damage is inevitable.

As with all vegetable garden planning, we cannot get very far without the help of carefully-kept records for previous years.

Looking over last year's records we see that lettuce seed sown 2 August did not show any signs of germination until 27 August, while beets and Snowball Turnips germinated in four days.

That lettuce should take so long to germinate seems unreasonable, until we go to our weather records. Here we find the answer.

July, 1977, was several degrees cooler than this year. It was in August that we reached our highest daytime temperature for the summer; 31 to 32°C Aug. 9-12, and 33° Aug. 16, followed by a sharp drop for three days with rain, and an average high of 20° for the last week of the month.

The lettuce seed germinated in the lower temperatures at the end of the month, and germination was normal for Celtuce and Swiss Chard sown on 29 August.

From last year's experience it would seem reasonable to go ahead with the sowing of seeds which prefer a warm soil for germination and delay the sowing of cool soil seeds until the average day temperatures have dropped to around 20°C.

Gardens close to salt water will have much lower soil temperatures than those further inland. Owners of these gardens must be guided by their local conditions. Germination could be normal, growth a little slower than inland, but frost is usually unknown before the end of December.

If protection for the fall and winter crops is used, vacancies in the present vegetable garden can be made ready at once. Without protection it is wise to choose a sheltered spot fully open to the angle of the fall and winter sunlight.

When the chosen spot is alongside a solid path it is pleasant to gather these crops in rain or snow.

The normal sowing date is around mid-August, but this will have to be adjusted to prevailing temperatures, which should be suitable by the end of August if not before.

The one problem with August sowings is to keep the top inch of soil steadily moist until germination is complete.

Our method is to take out a drill two inches deep with the hoe and fill the depression with screened compost. The compost is well saturated with water and allowed to drain. The seeds are sown on top of the damp compost and covered with a thin layer of more screened compost and again watered.

Temporary shade is needed to prevent rapid loss of moisture. To provide this we drive short stakes along the centre of the drill and lean old pieces of shiplap or three-ply against the stakes. These pieces are easily changed from side to side to suit the position of the sun.

Don't make the mistake of laying sacks or boards flat on the soil over the drills. Thousands of insects will seek the damp cool covered area and devour the seedlings as they emerge.

Vegetables which enjoy warm soil are beets and white turnips; also radishes can be sown at 15-day intervals until mid-September.

The beet greens and small beet thinnings are used as cooked vegetables at each thinning. The roots will become tough and woody as fall temperatures drop but the supply of leaves will continue and are picked as needed. Ruby Queen has given good results from an August sowing.

The early SnowBall Turnip will produce small edible roots on the first thinnings in September, but are sown mainly for the greens, which are more nutritious than spinach and contain less oxalic acid. The leaves are picked as needed throughout the winter.

A sowing of Nantes Half Long or Red-Cored Chantenay carrots made now will extend the fresh carrot crop into October or November.

The rest of the fall and winter greens sown in August will do better when temperatures are around 20 to 22° for the daytime high.

These sowings will include the Green Curled Endive from which the outer leaves are taken all winter as needed for salads or cooking. The seedlings will transplant to six inches apart.

Corn Salad, a lettuce-type vegetable with an after-flavor of sweet corn, is sown thinly because they cannot be transplanted. Alternate plants are pulled and used while young, and the thinning continues until the remaining plants are eight inches apart.

Two varieties of Simpson lettuce are suitable for this fall and winter period: The Black Seeded Simpson and the White Seeded Simpson. These are the seeds which took a month to germinate last year due to the high temperatures in August.

Celtuce is another salad and cooking green not often found in local home gardens. Thinnings are used the same as Cos lettuce for salads. Large plants have a pronounced mid-rib similar to celery which is used like celery, while the leaf blade which is removed is cooked.

Swiss Chard stands the fall and mild winters well even without protection. The Giant Lucullus strain is used and leaves are gathered as needed for cooking.

Finally, the Cos, or Romaine, lettuce is added. The thinnings can be used for salads until the plants are spaced five inches apart, and the remainder allowed to grow to full size.

The quantity of seed to sow for each vegetable will depend on the size of the family, personal preferences, and whether the crops will be only for fall use or protected to supply fresh greens until March. Sowing thinly means economy of seeds and time necessary for thinning — and in earlier plants of large size. Recipes for using these vegetables appear regularly in Hilda's food columns on Wednesdays.

WORK FOR WEEK

Fuchsias and begonias need moisture at roots to maintain flowering through to late fall.

Cut off old gladiolus flowers but allow leaves to remain to help produce new corm for next year.

If conifers need a trim, don't delay, do it this weekend to allow new growth to harden through warm weather and in fall.

Thin turnips, beets and carrots as soon as can be handled, then gradually thin to first an inch apart, then about two inches. These gradual thinnings can be used as small roots, and also the tops of beets and turnips are good for cooking.

Onions will show signs of ripening according to variety. Only then should tops be bent down at right angles. No further water to reach the roots. Cover with plastic sheet if rain threatens.

Final Stage Do-It-Yourself

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI) — The opportunity for do-it-yourself handiwork has reached the final stage — you can get plans to build and decorate your own coffin.

Dale Zamzow is offering a coffin plan and instructions for $2.75. The price is not very stjff considering tht the ready-built finished product might cost $4,000 and you would never see it.

How many people, after all, have a chance to choose the style and decorating of their own casket? he asks.

"You can have fun with it while you're here. It makes a tremendeous stereo cabinet."

Zamzow said his design for a homemade casket is simple. "Anybody can do it," he said. "If you want to be very plain, you just need a couple of pieces of plywood and a couple dozen nails. If you want gold leaf, go ahead and put it on."

As a boy, Zamzow said, he lived across the road from a cemetery where his father worked.

"There was a funeral daily there," he said. "It keeps you from being afraid of dying. You see people being planted all the time. I used to go out and play ball between the tombstones."

Now a systems analyst in an electronics firm, he decided to market the coffin plans when he got to talking with some friends about the cost of living, which led to the inevitable observation by someone that "You can't even afford to die nowadays."

He said he has sold 200 sets of his plans after putting an ads in a San Jose newspaper, and two national magazines.

New Pontoons For Ferry Terminals

DUNCAN — There will be new pontoons soon at the Crofton and Vesuvius Bay ferry terminals.

The pontoons are the floating portions of the terminals supporting the ramps and moving up and down with the tides.

The existing pontoons, salvaged from the old Ladner ferry landings in the early 1960s, will be replaced by concrete units 11.8 metres long and 9.6 metres wide.

Municipal Affairs Minister Hugh Curtis, MLA for Saanich and the Islands, said that tenders have been called and bids close Aug. 8.

'Irrelevant' Whether RCMP Probe Biased

OTTAWA (CP) — The Federal Court of Canada Friday dismissed an attempt to shut down the McDonald royal commission into RCMP lawbreaking by a group of Ontario lawyers, who alleged political bias by its three commissioners.

The Law Union of Ontario, a group of 180 socialist lawyers and law students, had argued the three commissioners were biased because of their connections with the Liberal party and would not make findings critical of the Liberal government.

Justice Alex Cattanach said in dismissing the application the alleged bias was "irrelevant" because the royal commission was merely a fact-finding and advisory body.

He said the royal commission would report to cabinet which could either act on the recommendations or "consign the report to oblivion."

Cattanach wrote in his reasons for judgment that while a judge in a court may be asked to step down from a case because of the appearance of bias, the same rigid standard did not apply to the royal commission since it was merely an administrative body.

"In my view, the bias of the commission, even if it should be found to exist, and I make no such finding, is irrelevant," Cattanach wrote.

He said that "at the very highest," the royal commission was "a fact-finding, reporting and advisory body."

"They are not even quasi-judicial, for they decide nothing."

The Trudeau government named Justice David McDonald of the Alberta Supreme Court to head the inquiry a year ago after revelations of illegal activities by the RCMP including the theft of records from the Parti Quebecois.

The Law Union said that McDonald had been active in the Liberal party in Alberta prior to his appointment and was a former president of the provincial party.

Commissioner Guy Gilbert is a member of the Liberal Party of Quebec. And the Law Union said Donald Rickerd was once a law professor of Francis Fox, solicitor-general at the time the commission was established.

Toronto lawyer Michael Mandel, who argued the case on behalf of the Law Union, said the court's decision "completely contradicts the pretext on which the government appointed the commission."

"While the government promised an impartial, independent tribunal with full power to get to the bottom of the RCMP affair, the court has held that the commission does not have to be impartial or independent," Mandel said.

He said that the case would be appealed if the Law Union could raise enough money.

"The fight to prevent a whitewash of these crimes and to ensure an impartial investigation is too important to the future of this country to let things rest here."

Court Bid To Close Prisons

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — A Quebec civil rights group plans to launch a court action Wednesday that it says could close the two most securely guarded prison units in Canada.

Jean Claude Bernhien, representative of the office of the Droit des Detinus de la Ligue de l'Homme, said a request to close the Correctional Development Centre in Laval, Que., will be made Wednesday before a federal court in Montreal.

He said in a telephone interview from Montreal it would be possible to take the same kind of action to try to close the special handling unit at Millhaven institution in this city.

Both units hold men that authorities consider too dangerous or escape-prone to keep with other prisoners in a maximum-security prison.

However, Bernheim said his organization will argue that conditions in the Quebec centre contradict the regulations of the penitentiaries commission and contravene minimum standards suggested by the United Nations.

"It is impossible for inmates to work, to have access to education, and to have proper sports activities," he said.

If the organization's arguments are successful, he said, the court will issue a judgment similar to an injunction ordering the centre closed.

Trudeau struts with Dianne Jones-Konihowski in Edmonton

Good Dancer

EDMONTON (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau was given a perfect score for his dancing ability Thursday night in a discotheque at the Commonwealth Games athletes' village.

Trudeau helped celebrate the opening of the Games by dining with athletes and spending about 1½ hours in the village discotheque.

His main dancing partner was pentathlete Dianne Jones-Konihowski, wife of John Konihowski, a wide receiver for Edmonton Eskimos of the Canadian Football League.

Another partner, 29-year-old Edmonton school teacher Sonja Hunchak, said the prime minister is an excellent dancer. Asked to rate his dancing ability on a scale of one to 10, she gave him top score.

Cabinet Has Power To Boost Postage

OTTAWA (CP) — The government has the legal right to raise postal rates by order instead of seeking Parliament's approval each time, the Federal Court of Canada ruled in a decision Friday.

The legality of changing rates by cabinet order has been challenged by Parliament and post office customers, who argue that such increases require parliamentary amendment of the Post Office Act.

But Mr. Justice A. Alex Cattenach of the federal court ruled that the government also has the authority to change rates by order under another law, the Financial Administration Act.

The practice of raising postage charges almost annually by cabinet order in recent years has caused controversy in Parliament.

An all-party Senate-Commons committee studying government orders unanimously questioned such action and the Commons approved the committee's report last spring.

The court case was launched by the Canadian Periodical Publishers' Association after the latest round of rate increases April 1.

The postage on first-class domestic mail was increased then to 14 cents from 12 cents. Third-class rates were raised by between 20 and 35 per cent and quantity rates used by periodical publishers went up by as much as 28 per cent.

Justice Cattenach found that the law permits changes in postal rates in two ways — by amendment of the Post Office Act or by order under the Financial Administration Act, both acts being decisions of Parliament.

"The second method was the means adopted and it was adopted with the blessing of Parliament because it was made available by Parliament," the judge says.

SHELL PLANS $4B PLANT IN OIL SANDS

CALGARY (CP) — After months of trying to find partners willing to gamble in the development of a $4-billion, 125,000-barrel-a-day oil sands mining plant, Shell Canada Ltd. says it will form a consortium to build the plant near Fort McMurray, Alta.

Shell, in a press release, said it would be consortium manager and hoped Canada's third extraction plant in the Athabasca oil sands would be completed by 1985.

Shell said its Alsands Project Group plans to submit an application to the Alberta Energy Resources Conservation Board later this year.

N.S. Backing Queen's Role

HALIFAX (CP) — Nova Scotia will argue against any changes in the federal constitution that would alter the monarchy's position from its present form, Premier Gerald Reagan said Friday.

"The system has worked extremely well for Canada in the past and I firmly believe that it must remain," he said in an interview.

Reagan said he will take that message "in the strongest terms I know" to the premier's conference in Saskatchewan next week.

Extra Eight Years For B.C. Man, 21

EDMONTON (CP) — A 21-year-old British Columbia man, Kelly James Kempton, received an additional eight-year sentence Friday when he appeared in the same courtroom where he took his lawyer hostage last week.

Kempton now faces 30 years in jail after he entered a plea of guilty to carrying a concealed weapon—the knife he used to take hostage the lawyer that was representing him.

During his latest court appearance he was handcuffed to two detectives as he stood in the prisoner's box.

Kempton also pleaded guilty to forcible confinement—for which conviction could add a maximum of another five years to his jail terms—and elected trial by provincial judge. However, Judge John Kashuta ordered a stay of proceedings on the latter charge.

During a special night sitting after the six-hour-long hostage-taking incident July 28, Judge E. D. Stack sentenced Kempton to five years for escaping from Manitoba's Stony Mountain Penitentiary and to an additional 17 years for various offences including nine charges of robbery.

Suit Filed in U.S. Over Air Crash

VANCOUVER (CP) — A U.S. aviation lawyer says he has filed court actions on behalf of two Montreal men injured in the June 26 crash of an Air Canada passenger jet at Toronto International Airport.

The two lawsuits, on behalf of Lyle Unrau and Ernest Lynch, were filed in California Superior Court in San Francisco by lawyer Jerry Sterns.

Unrau and Lynch were among 105 passengers and crew members injured in the crash. Two persons, including a Victoria man, were killed.

"I've been keeping an eye on the Toronto case ever since the crash," Sterns said.

"Two days ago, I was retained to represent two of those injured and we've decided to move rather quickly to get the case into the California courts on a product liability basis.

"We're saying the crash was a direct result of a major defect built into the aircraft by McDonnell Douglas in California, which is why we're suing down south," he said.

Other defendants include United Technologies, which built the jet's Pratt and Whitney engines, and the companies which manufactured and supplied the tire which blew out: Air Treads Inc., and Kleber Colombes Co. of France.

Two weeks ago, the federal ministry of transport confirmed in Toronto that shreds of rubber had been found in one of the plane's engines after the crash.

An Air Canada spokesman said the tire that blew was a $250 retread. New tires cost $500 each. The airline will retread its 24-ply DC-9 tires up to six times and says each retreading is good for 240 landings.

Sterns was in Vancouver, hours after launching the suit, on his way to Cranbrook for a meeting of lawyers representing the estates of 43 persons killed in the Feb. 11 crash there of a Pacific Western Airlines Boeing 737.

OLD WRECK FOUND IN U.K.

BRIDLINGTON, England (AP) — Searchers said Thursday they may have found the wreck of the Bon Homme Richard, sunk after a battle off Flamborough Head on England's northeastern coast about 200 years ago.

The ship commanded by John Paul Jones, father of the U.S. Navy, was a converted French merchantman. It sank Sept. 23, 1779, after a battle with the English frigate Serapis.

Divers have been at work off the coastline in the search—financed by U.S. historical novelist Clive Cussler—at a cost of more than $76,000.

U.S. Slump Forecast

MONTREAL (CP) — The Bank of Montreal Business Review foresees a slowdown in the United States economy within a year that will "cast a shadow on Canada."

In its August edition, the review says strong economic growth in the U.S. during the last three years, topped by a growth rate of 7.4 per cent on an annual basis in the second quarter of 1978, cannot be sustained in the long run.

"Furthermore, the expectation is growing that within the next year, the U.S. economy may run out of steam and enter a period of recession or at least of slow growth," the review says.

The gloomy forecast is based on continuing high interest rates, the emergence of bottlenecks in certain areas and rising inflation. A slowdown can only be avoided if the central bank continues to loosen its grip on growth of the money supply, the bank publication maintains.

Should the slowdown occur, "there would, of course, be important negative repercussions on Canada's already sluggish economy," through higher interest rates or a slowing of export growth.

"For the short term, the vital question is whether the Canadian dollar can withstand new increases in U.S. interest rates," the review says.

"Over the longer term, the dollar's viability will depend on further improvements in Canada's balance-of-payments position, which, in turn, depends on U.S. economic developments."

The review warned against giving in to "repeated calls for excessive economic stimulation" such as increased government spending or tax cuts because the problem of inflation is a "long way from being solved.

"To go that route would undo the good so far achieved and inevitably prolong the eventual period of adjustment."

REPORTER PAYS UP UNDER PROTEST

MOSCOW (UPI) — New York Times reporter Craig Whitney paid out $3,463 "under protest" today to cover fines and court costs arising from a libel suit against him and Harold Piper of the Baltimore Sun.

Whitney, 34, gave the money to Soviet lawyer David Axelbant so that he could pay off the fines and costs at the Moscow city courthouse where the cases were heard.

Whitney's payment was accompanied by a typewritten statement in which he said he was paying "under protest" and that his doing so "is in no way to be considered an acceptance of the finding of slander reached against me."

Whitney specified in the statement that he was also paying on behalf of Piper.

The court fined the two reporters $72.50 each Thursday and passed along an ominous warning that it may try "different measures" if they fail to retract articles found to be libelous within five days.

Moscow City Court Chief Presiding Judge Oev Almazov Thursday fined Whitney and Piper for failing to meet an initial order to publish a retraction in American or Soviet newspapers.

The two U.S. newspapermen were convicted July 18 of slander — the Soviet equivalent of libel — in connection with articles they wrote about the televised confession of Georgian dissident Zviad Gamsakhourdia.

308 CARDS OF THANKS

On behalf of my son-in-law Garry Howarth, my granddaughter Anastasia Margaret, and my son Thom and daughter Jude, I would like to thank the many kind friends who have sent cards, letters and flowers as well as donations to both the B.C. Heart Fund and the Linda Howarth Day Care Centre Memorial Fund, Box 2801, Salmon Arm. Linda was only 28 years old and always gave of herself to one and all, and especially to the care of little children. Through the Memorial Fund we hope to have a living and growing tribute, so the work she began, raising money for a Day Care Centre that is greatly needed, may be carried on. Linda is sorely missed by all who knew her and we pray that she has joined her Dad, Thomas, who preceded her by four years, and that she is having the rest she well deserves. Those who have lost a loved one will know how difficult the times ahead will be, but with the help of our friends we will carry on. — Thom, Jude and Edna M. Kowalchuk, Garry and Anastasia Howarth.

The family of the late Frederick Henry Holmes, would like to take this opportunity to express sincere thanks to all our friends and relations for their kindness, cards, letters. Special thanks to Pastor Mel Tucker, Esquimalt Church of the Nazarene and to Dr. G. Ainsworth and the staff of the Royal Jubilee Hospital.

HOW TO WRITE

A GOOD

CLASSIFIED ACTION AD

1—IT'S BEST to start your ad with the name of the article or service you have to offer. If you have an apartment, room etc., for rent, or property for sale: start your ad with the location.

2—BE CLEAR. Readers respond more quickly and favorably when given complete, definite information. Always include the price in your adveertisement.

3—MAKE IT EASY for the reader-prospect to reach you. Always give your telephone number or your name and address. If you do not have regular hours, state a preferred time for the prospect to get in touch with you.

4—PLAY SAFE. You get the greatest reader attention by using consecutive insertions. A six-day order is best and costs less, and you can, of course, stop your ad as soon as you get the results you want. You pay only for the days your ad appeared. Lower yearly rates are available to those who wish to keep their services or products before the public.

5—PLACE YOURSELF in the reader's position and ask yourself what you want to know about your offer. The answer you give will make a good Want Ad.

6—GIVE YOUR PROSPECT every inducement you can with good copy. Classified action ad readers have the money and are already interested in buying the merchandise or service you have to offer; the details and information you give are the most important.

7—TO PLACE YOUR AD, call 386-2121, your direct line number to fast Want Ad action. A courteous, efficient advisor will be glad to help you word and place your order. And remember Classified Action Ads afford you the most complete coverage. Telephones are open 8:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. for you daily, Monday through Friday; 8:00 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Saturday. Don't allow the reader to speculate.

Boy Aged 8 Off to College

NEW YORK (AP) — An eight-year-old boy will become the youngest student ever known to attend college when he enters the University of Washington in Seattle this fall, a university spokesman says.

The admission to college of Sayed Jalal of Afghanistan culminated a three-month search by private individuals convinced of the boy's genius, although intelligence scores and private observations have not yet confirmed it.

The boy will take regular college courses, supplemented by tutoring and a special high school program for gifted children, said Halbert Robinson, professor of psychology and director of the university's Child Development Research Group.

Jalal, who arrived in New York on May 4 with his father, Sayed Karim, while his mother and three sisters are waiting to join them, is reported to have covered 12 years of school work in 18 months with the help of tutors.

There has been some question whether Afghan high schools can be compared with U.S. programs. Mohammad Anwal, Afghanistan's consul here, said a 12-year school program in his country consists of standard courses — history, geography, math and the sciences.

"He is a genius," Anwal said. "I heard him on radio when he was six, and he answered questions about geography and history most adults don't know."

During a series of intelligence tests administered by Columbia University's Teachers College in June, the boy scored 125, which ranks below the category of "exceptional" children. But it may be impossible to test him properly until he learns English.

Jalal's admission to the University of Washington makes him the youngest college student on record, Robinson said. The youngest to have finished college in modern times was Erich Jablot, who entered Brooklyn College at 11, graduated at 15 in 1977, and now is studying for a doctorate in mathematics at Princeton University, said his professor, George Booth, who also interviewed Jalal.

"I believe Jalal can handle a basic college course in calculus," Booth said, "but I can't say about anything else."

Jalal's father, who is a science teacher in Afghanistan, makes no secret of his plans for his son to earn a doctorate by the time he is 11. For now, the little boy is enjoying himself at Camp Hidden Valley in Maine, where he was sent to learn English.

Fired Officer Still Hopeful

QUEBEC (CP) — Colonel Jacques Painchaud, who was removed from his post as commander of the Canadian Airborne Regiment July 12 for criticizing Defence Minister Barney Danson, says he's optimistic about the future despite his recent statements.

Painchaud, 43, was dismissed for describing as "stupid" and "irresponsible" published reports concerning possible disbandment of the elite paratroop regiment. He also suggested Danson should resign if the reports were true.

Painchaud told the French-language daily Le Soleil this week that he considers the incident an "unfortunate misunderstanding." He added that his remarks had been poorly interpreted.

Admiral Robert Falls, chief of defence staff, said at the time that some of the statements attributed to the colonel were "less than accurate reconstructions of his remarks."

But Falls added that "no officer in the armed forces, regardless of circumstances, should place himself in a position where his public statements could be interpreted as criticism of civilian authorities."

Painchaud said he was not disheartened by his dismissal from the 1,000-member regiment, which he led for a year. "I have an indestructible character; I will remain the same, always aggressive," he said. "I don't want to talk about the past.

Painchaud was transferred to defence headquarters in Ottawa following the incident and will be in charge of land operations for Canada and Europe. He will also take command of the infantry.

He said his new responsibilities will allow him "to continue to work for the military and the country."

Painchaud said the infantry post will permit him to stay near the paratroop regiment, which he considers as his second family after the Royal 22nd Regiment.

Painchaud began his military career when he was 22 years old.

Genetics Boosted At U of A

EDMONTON (CP) — Genetic engineering has received another boost at the University of Alberta, it was announced Friday.

The university, in a news release, said its governors had approved spending $115,000 to convert three rooms into a "containment facility."

The rooms are in the biological sciences centre and on completion, expected in January 1979, will be classed as a level C and D biohazard facility, maintained in accord with guidelines set by the Medical Research Council.

The first facility for recombinant deoxyribonucleic acid (DNA) research, a level D biohazard facility, now is nearing completion in the Medical Sciences Building on the campus.

The governors said the new facility will provide opportunities for researchers to study complex biological phenomena such as the regulation of genetic organization in higher organisms.

The university also announced construction will start this fall on a temporary building to facilitate coal mining research.

Radiation Deafness Near Soviet Embassy

WASHINGTON (AP) — A broadcast official whose office overlooks the Soviet embassy has suffered a hearing loss that might have been caused by microwave radiation, the Chicago Sun-Times reported Friday in a story from its Washington bureau.

The newspaper said Daniel del Solar, 37, of the Corporation for Public Broadcasting (CPB) has lost 20 per cent of the hearing in one ear and has been afflicted periodically with "instant sweats," — both symptoms of microwave radiation.

A recent sweep of his downtown office discovered a radiation level of 100 microwatts per centimetre, an amount considered by some experts to be hazardous, the story said.

The Sun-Times said CPB officials and authorities in the field believe there are three possible explanations:

—Soviet embassy staff are electronically monitoring the activities of their neighbors on 16th Street, perhaps to determine who is watching and listening to them.

—The radiation is accidental, the "sidelobe" of a beam for telecommunications or eavesdropping elsewhere.

The story said that when informed of the radiation problem, the state department said it would look into it. The FBI refused comment on U.S. intelligence activities directed against the Soviet embassy here.

Del Solar told the Sun-Times that while sitting in his third floor office he periodically experiences "instant sweats" in the late afternoon.

Two years ago, employees at the U.S. embassy in Moscow were warned of a potential health hazard from microwaves which it was reported were being beamed at the building.

In response to repeated U.S. protests, Soviet officials have contended that the increase in radiation is caused by stepped-up output from hospitals and laboratories in the area.

Last Spike Group Looking for $1,000

Public donations may exceed $600 of the $1,500 it is estimated organizers will be short, and the hope remains that the provincial department of tourist industry will make up the balance, even though a ministry spokesman said Thursday the program won't get a cent of government money.

John Cooper, chairman of the Vancouver Island steering committee to save the E&N, said he thought donations being sent to city hall as part of a raffle for six seats on the last spike excursion would provide $500 toward the estimated net cost of $6,000.

Fares would make up $4,500 at $15 a head, leaving $1,000 deficit. There has already been about $150 donated to a second committee supporting the event, chaired by Esquimalt MLA Lyle Kahl.

Kahl sent out form letters July 20 addressed to "Dear E and N Supporter," inviting subscriptions to promote the celebration of the 92nd anniversary of the line's completion at Cliffside, Shawnigan Lake. It is proposed to bring a steam train from the mainland in the feature role, at added cost to the railway.

E&N employees have offered to absorb about $4,000 of the cost by donating crew time without wages.

Kahl's action is in line with verbal, on-the-spot and legal support given to continuation and improvement of E&N service by Premier Bennett.

People wanting to try for a chance on the seat draw may send their names, addresses and $1 to the E and N Fund, Victoria City Hall. Funds for promoting the event may be sent to lawyer George Easdon, 620 View, who was named to collect for Kahl's committee.

Police Outflank Genelle Protesters

GENELLE (CP) — Police outnumbered protesters Friday as RCMP from several West Kootenay detachments escorted uranium exploration equipment past a picket line of citizens concerned about radioactive contamination.

A bus and seven police cars took about 50 members of Nelson RCMP to the scene of a protest against uranium exploration near China Creek, the domestic water supply for this community of 500.

"It was well-organized by the mining company," Kowalchuk said. "The police were there when they wanted to move the (drill core) samples and even though I'm an elected trustee of the local water board, I couldn't go through — that's ridiculous."

On Thursday, Ellen Grant of Genelle blocked the removal of the samples by helicopter but no arrests were made. Protesters said they planned only passive resistance in future.

Three protesters — Herb McGregor, Eric Taylor and Brent Lee, all of Genelle — will appear in provincial court Oct. 24 on a charge of obstruction of a public highway, stemming from an incident in July.

After the mining people had left, Kowalchuk said he was allowed to inspect the water intake and several drill holes. He said radioactive levels had not been determined because of a lack of evidence.

Residents have picketed around the clock for several weeks to protest drilling by Manny Consultants Ltd., of Vancouver, which represents a consortium of small mining companies.

Residents say they are worried about sloppy exploration procedures and possible dumping of radioactive slurry near the water intake.

Nelson RCMP Chief Superintendant Bud Johnstone said there had been threats of violence and police were also concerned about protesters blocking a public highway.

"We're not on anybody's side," he said. "We're just here to keep law and order in what is a very emotional issue."

The drilling company said water samples are taken three to four times a week and sent to a provincial government laboratory in Vancouver for analysis.

Dr. Wayne Green, provincial radiation protection branch spokesman, said preliminary tests found one picocurie per litre of radium 226, less than the maximum permissible concentration of seven.

All data is sent to local officials to be released publicly, he said.

However, a spokesman for the West Kootenay health unit said health inspectors are still waiting for test results from February data and have received only "very sketchy reports" on samples taken since drilling began.

RARE SIGHT

The elusive spoonbilled sandpiper, seen on this continent only twice before — in 1914 and 1977 — was spotted on Iona Island near Vancouver this week. Wildlife photographer Ervio Sian spent many hours in a camouflaged boat to snap the Siberian-bred visitor. The sighting has been described as "the bird sighting of the century in North America."

Canada-U.S. Fishing Talks Progressing

WASHINGTON (CP) — Canadian and U.S. negotiators are making progress toward resolving the fisheries aspects of a maritime boundary agreement, Canadian negotiator Marcel Cadieux said Friday.

He told reporters he plans to meet in Ottawa next week with U.S. negotiator Lloyd Cutler to continue efforts toward an agreement of fisheries issues in the boundary dispute between the two countries.

Cutler told reporters during a break in the current round of talks that if the two countries are to reach agreement on fishing, "it will be by the end of the month."

Cadieux said he does not want to suggest a date, but that he expects an agreement "as soon as possible."

Cutler also said he is hopeful that reciprocal fishing might resume by the end of the year.

The latest round of talks began Thursday and may continue through today.

An interim reciprocal fishing agreement enforced provisionally pending congressional approval, broke down in June amid accusations by each country that the other had not lived up to it.

Since then, commercial fishing boats have not been allowed to operate off the other country's coasts.

Congress now has ratified the interim agreement.

The two negotiators hope that once the fishing issues are settled, they can turn their attention to drawing the actual boundary lines. The adoption of 200-mile offshore limits in 1977 resulted in a boundary dispute when the two countries' claims overlapped in several areas.

Renewed Beirut Battles Delay Plan for Regulars

BEIRUT (UPI) — Clashes between rightist militias and Syrian troops today overshadowed government efforts to dispatch Lebanese army regulars to the country's southern border with Israel.

Several hours of sniper fire escalated into mortar and artillery barrages in Beirut's eastern suburbs by mid-morning, and sources said at least a dozen persons were wounded.

Rightist spokesmen accused the Syrians of starting the shooting by attempting to plant land mines on a main highway in suburban Hazmiyeh.

The renewed fighting came as the government reiterated its determination to dispatch Lebanese army regulars to the south.

Foreign Minister Fuad Butros met with a representative of UN Secretary- General Kurt Waldheim "to discuss the south Lebanon situation," government sources said.

Prime Minister Selim al Hoss said the government was determined not to bow to Israeli-backed Christian militias preventing the stationing of army troops in the south.

Hoss Friday said the army "will not retreat or change its route on its advance into the south."

UN sources said Israel — apparently as a result of U.S., European and United Nations pressure — said it "intended" to prod its Christian militia allies in the south into letting the army pass.

Copper Quota Studied

By CLAUDE ADAMS
Times Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — A U.S. government agency is studying the feasibility of imposing an annual quota on copper imported into the country, an action that could have a significant impact on the Canadian copper industry.

Canada is the leading supplier of copper to the U.S. Last year, shipments south totalled nearly 100,000 tons — a quarter of all American imports — at a value of $133 million.

Under pressure from U.S. copper producers, who say they will be crippled financially unless they are protected against the growing imports, the U.S. International Trade Commission (ITC) is expected to reach a decision Thursday on what course of action to recommend to the White House.

A specific import quota of about 300,000 tons a year has been recommended by ITC staffers. This would represent a decrease of 23 per cent from last year's imports.

However, the commission itself has not indicated how it will act or how major foreign sources of copper like Canada, Chile, Peru and a number of African suppliers would be affected.

Analysts here also believe that President Carter would reject a quota, especially in the current sensitive period when the world trading nations are negotiating new relationships at talks in Geneva.

The Carter administration believes that an import quota to shield the U.S. copper industry would be inflationary, pushing up domestic prices dramatically.

Canadian officials here are guarded in their comments on the ITC action saying they are waiting until next week to see how the commission will act on the staff report released yesterday.

On Tuesday, the Carter administration criticized Canada for offering cash incentives to U.S. auto makers to build new plants in Canada.

RUBBER-CLAD ARGUMENT? Helen Vincent, of Port Alberni, donned a wetsuit, mask and snorkel to protest against the city's flood-plain bylaws. She quoted from the Bible and Koran, and called the city the "promised land" in her rambling dissertation, which appeared to leave most of the councillors cold.

Israeli Beats Salinity Drum

Prof. Chaim Forgacs, Ben-Gurion University of the Negev, gave a seminar at the Institute of Ocean Sciences entitled Reverse Electrodyalysis — A Way to Extract Energy from the Sea.

He said taking advantage of contrasting salinity in seawater could be one of the most efficient sources of what he called non-conventional energy, its density ranking more than 30 times ahead of hydroelectric power in kilowatt hours per kilogram.

Forgacs said hydro power is one of the cheapest to obtain but it has one of the lowest ratios of energy per kilogram.

Among potential sources of non-conventional energy such as solar, wind, and tides, Forgacs mentioned reverse electrolysis, pressure-retarded osmosis and concentration boiler, of which the last two are not yet practical.

The visiting physicist explained the electrodialysis system as a series of storage battery-like cells separated by ion-exchanging membranes allowing an electrochemical potential to build up. Alternate positive and negative charges would accumulate to produce a current flow.

JUDGE HALTS TRIP TO U.K.

TORONTO (CP) — A judge of the Ontario Court of Appeal has ruled that Raymond Conn, a Briton who says he has spent $40,000 in a six-year, trans-Atlantic battle for his daughter, cannot take her out of the country.

The decision was announced Friday, hours before Conn and his daughter, Rachel, 9, were to leave for three-week trip to London.

Earlier this week, the Ontario Supreme Court upheld the British court ruling and ordered Rachel's mother to allow Rachel to accompany her father on a three-week visit to England, but appeal proceedings have intervened.

14-Year Study 'Proves Smoking A Serious Hazard to Health'

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — A $15-million study financed by six major tobacco companies and sponsored by the American Medical Association has produced new evidence that cigarette smoking is a serious health hazard, according to The Observer.

The report summarizing 14 years of research on the effects of cigarette smoking supports the idea that smoking can be a major factor in development of afflictions affecting the lungs and circulatory system and other diseases, according to the newspaper.

The report has been completed and will be made public soon, its story adds.

The Committee for Research on Tobacco and Health concluded, the newspaper says, that the project's research "supports the contention that cigarette smoking plays an important role in the development of chronic obstructive pulmonary disease and constitutes a grave danger to individuals with pre-existing diseases of the coronary arteries."

The tobacco industry has argued for years that a 1964 report in which the U.S. surgeon-general concluded that cigarette smoking is a health hazard was based on inconclusive evidence.

Spokesmen for the Tobacco Institute, which speaks for cigarette manufacturers, refused to comment until they have seen the report.

—A study at Indiana University based on treadmill stress tests on 622 Indiana state policemen — including smokers, non-smokers and former smokers — concluded that cigarette smoking reduced the length of time they could exercise and the amount of exercise they could do.

—Doctors at Philadelphia General Hospital found a "highly significant acceleration" of cholesterol deposits in blood tested 30 minutes after heavy smoking.

—Cigarette smoking inhibits the action of cells in the lungs that consume bacteria, which means smokers may be more susceptible to infection than non-smokers.

Good Ship America Not Bound For Glory

NEW YORK (AP) — The SS America, retired after only two voyages, fined $439,000 by U.S. federal officials, and saddled with claims totalling "several million dollars," will be offered for sale sometime this month.

If it can't be sold, it will go as scrap, a lawyer involved in legal proceedings over the ship said Friday.

The America's maiden voyage, a three-day Cruise to Nowhere, was forced back to New York less than 12 hours after it set sail June 30 when 250 passengers protested conditions on board.

Lawyer Lewis Ashton said Venture Cruise Line Inc. "decided it is best that they walk away from it (the ship)" following a Thursday court conference involving U.S. marshals and potential creditors.

Another meeting is slated for Monday, to be presided by U.S. District Judge Vincent Broderick, Ashton said.

The 35,000-ton America, bought earlier this year from the Greek Chandris Lines, was forced to cancel 33 cruises after flunking two sanitation inspections in five days.

Author Fined All Profits On CIA Book

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP) — A U.S. district judge has ordered Frank Snepp to pay the U.S. treasury department at least $60,000 to cover his profits from a book critical of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Snepp's book, Decent Interval, published last November, is critical of CIA operations at the time Saigon fell, saying that the agency abandoned many Vietnamese who had worked for the U.S. government.

The CIA brought a civil suit against Snepp, claiming that he violated an agreement he signed with the agency when he joined it in 1968.

Lewis also ordered Snepp not to write any further "manuscripts containing information relating to the CIA, its activities, intelligence activities generally or intelligence sources and methods" unless he submits it to the CIA for clearance.

UN Pushes Embargoes Against Vorster Regime

GENEVA (AP) — The United Nations Economic and Social Council voted 35-to-4 Friday to urge all UN member states to stop supplying South Africa with oil and halt investments in the white-ruled country.

The United States, Britain, France and West Germany cast the dissenting ballots. Nine countries abstained.

The meeting also called on UN Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim to study the extent of collaboration by multinational companies with the South African government and to list those companies that do not recognize black trade unions.

The points were contained in a resolution drawn up by the council's 48-country Commission on Transnational Companies and adopted at the final plenary meeting of the UN body's four-week annual session.

It condemned "the continued investments and exploitation of cheap black labor by transnational and other corporations" and called upon all governments to introduce legislation to put an end to collaboration with the South African government by the companies.

In addition, the resolution urged all countries "to refrain from supplying petroleum, petroleum products or other strategic materials" to South Africa, and to stop "extending loans, investment and technical assistance."

Iran, Iraq, Algeria and the United Arab Emirates were among supporters of the resolution.

The meeting gave Waldheim until next May to complete the study on the companies collaborating with South Africa.

The resolution said all multinational corporations that collaborate "in the industrial, mining and military sectors" of the South African economy should be included in the report.

Rivals Plan Windhoek Protests

WINDHOEK, South-West Africa (AP) — Two rivals for power in this South African-controlled territory plan airport demonstrations Sunday to impress a UN mission appointed to nurse it to independence.

Calling on their supporters to rally at the airport were the South-West Africa People's Organization (SWAPO), a black militant group whose guerrillas have been warring against the administration of white-ruled South Africa, and the South Africa-backed Turnhalle Democratic Alliance (TDA).

SWAPO and TDA hope to have thousands of followers at the J. G. Strijdom airport. Windhoek has a population of 80,000.

Officials said there will be strict security at the airport and in Windhoek.

South Africa and SWAPO have agreed to accept a UN role in bringing independence to South-West Africa, also known as Namibia.

South Africa has administered the former German colony under a a post-First World War mandate of the League of Nations. That mandate for the mineral-rich but underdeveloped territory was repudiated by the UN, which also recognized SWAPO as the only legal representative of the territory.

South Africa has promoted the TDA as a counter to SWAPO.

Mokganedi Tlhabanello, SWAPO publicity secretary, said the group's airport rally will be "to welcome the UN when it comes to take its rightful responsibility after 30 years."

A DTA official said his party's demonstration will be to show Ahtisaari there are other political forces in the territory.

Led by Dirk Mudge, a white former South African, the DTA supports a South Africa-backed plan for a government based on ethnic and tribal groupings. It has has a following among whites, who comprise 12 per cent of South-West Africa's 800,000 people, and some tribal chiefs.

Blast Kills Four

MAR DEL PLATA (AP) — Three men and a woman making explosives in a guerrilla hideout in this beach resort city died in a bomb blast, police said, bringing the number of terrorism-related deaths in Argentina to 16 in the last three weeks.

CHAUFFEUR SUSPENSION

OLYMPIA (AP) - The state trooper who smashed up one of Governor Dixy Lee Ray's cars last month had been drinking, was speeding and fell asleep at the wheel, Patrol Chief Robert Landon said Friday.

But David Loomis, 31, will be permitted to continue serving as the governor's driver and security aide, the chief said. He will be suspended for 10 days in August, meaning a wage loss of $790.36.

Ray, who was not involved in the accident, was informed of the investigation, but did not try to intercede on Loomis' behalf, the chief said.

Soviets Blast Peking

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union accused China today of whipping up "military hysteria" by calling for a third world war and trying to scuttle detente between Moscow and Washington.

In a 2,400-wordarticle, Pravda, the Soviet Communist party newspaper, criticized a recent statement by Chinese Defence Minister Hsu Hsiang-chien who said the Soviet Union is China's main enemy and called for closer ties with Washington.

"The Chinese leaders are trying as best they can to frustrate the detente process, are openly putting the question of recarving the world's map in their favor," Pravda said.

"They have been gripped in a veritable militarist hysteria. Preaching hatred and hostility among peoples, building up a military psychosis and incitement towards a new war — this is the essence of the Peking leaders' present-day foreign policy actions."

The Soviet Union has recently stepped up its propaganda campaign against China, noting Peking's rapprochement with Washington. Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev warned the Carter administration in June not to use "the Chinese card" against the Kremlin or risk hurting detente.

"The Chinese leadership, and this is confirmed in the defence minister's article, urges Western countries to conclude no accords with the socialist states, the Soviet Union least of all," Pravda said.

The newspaper described Peking's calls as "efforts to turn the world back to cold war times" in preparing for another war.

Reporter In Prison

HACKENSACK, N.J. (AP) — New York Times reporter Myron Farber, sitting in a cell next to a murder suspect for refusing to surrender his files on the Dr. X murder case, "is like any other inmate" in the Bergen County jail.

Farber and his newspaper were convicted of contempt for defying a court order to surrender their material on Dr. Mario Jascalevich, the surgeon referred to as Dr. X in Farber's stories on a series of mysterious deaths at a New Jersey hospital.

Farber served seven hours in jail last week before his sentence was stayed temporarily by a New Jersey Supreme Court Justice. A last-minute effort to keep the reporter out of jail until an appeal could be argued was rejected Friday by Justice Thurgood Marshall of U.S. Supreme Court.

The reporter was sentenced to jail until he turns over the files, to be followed by an additional six-month jail sentence. The newspaper was fined $100,000 in addition to a daily fine of $5,000 for as long as it refuses to turn over the material.

Jascalevich is being tried for murder in the deaths of three patients who the prosecution alleges were killed by injections of the muscle relaxant curare. His trial ended its 23rd week Friday.

Farber and the Times say they deserve a hearing on the constitutional issues, before the sentences are imposed.

'CONQUERER' T-SHIRTS IDI AMIN'S RALLY GIFTS

NAIROBI (Reuter) — Ugandan President Idi Amin, competing in a four-day car rally, says he escaped unhurt Friday when his car was in an accident while being driven by his "junior" wife, Sarah.

Sarah was his co-driver in the rally, staged to mark the sixth anniversary of Amin's expulsion of Asians from Uganda in 1972.

Speaking live over Uganda radio, monitored in Nairobi, Amin said a "technical accident" happened to his Peugeot 604 near Mutukula, on the Uganda-Tanzania border west of Lake Victoria.

His two sons were injured but "are not very serious," Amin said.

Amin appeared at the finishing point in Kampala after all the other finishing cars had checked in.

Final results of the rally were not announced immediately.

But Amin said the four leading drivers will receive a special prize — T-shirts bearing his portrait and the slogan Conquerer of the British Empire.

IMF Seat for Saudis

Washington Post

WASHINGTON — The United States and other major powers of the International Monetary Fund have reached an informal agreement under which Saudi Arabia will have its own seat and its own executive director on an enlarged IMF executive board.

It will be a temporary 21st seat, for at least the next two years, making the Arab nation a member of a new "Big Six" of the IMF, including the United States, Britain, West Germany, France, and Japan.

The changeover will be made official when executive directors are selected in a biennial vote during the annual meeting of the IMF in Washington late in September.

It had been decided about a year ago, as first reported by The Washington Post last August 28, that the Saudis, as the second largest lender of funds to the IMF, were entitled to their own seat on the IMF Board.

But until now, the United States had opposed enlarging the 20-man board, setting up a potentially difficult political decision in deciding which one of the other 15 executive directors — representing smaller countries — would be forced off the board.

A Saudi seat is one more certification of growing economic power in the Arab world, and a status symbol known to be welcomed by King Khalid. If the Saudis continue as the second largest creditor, they will continue to hold the 21st seat. An assessment of creditor rankings is made every two years.

Under the present system, there are 20 executive directors of the IMF, of whom five are appointed by countries that make the largest quota deposits into the IMF. They are the five nations, other than Saudi Arabia, in the above-mentioned "Bix Six."

The remaining 15 executive directors represent "clusters" of the others of the 134 member countries. In some, the largest country of the group nominates the director. In others, the honor rotates.

The Saudis have been a member of a group of 14 Arab or Moslem states, whose executive director at the moment is Muhammed Al-Atrash of the Syrian Arab Republic.'

The Saudis' acquisition of a seat of their own derives from an IMF rule providing that if the two largest creditors of the IMF are not among the five major quota countries, they are entitled to their own executive directors.

Saudi Arabia has passed West Germany as the IMF's second largest creditor — the United States is first — by virtue of its participation in the old facility, and the still inactivated "Witteveen facility" — special accumulations of money created initially in 1974.

UIC RULES ON STRIKE

MONTREAL (CP) — The Unemployment Insurance Commission ruled Thursday it will not pay benefits to members of the International Typographical Union (ITU) who refused to cross another union's picket line at the Montreal Star.

The ITU represents about 200 Star employees who have been off the job since the strike on June 14 by the newspaper's pressmen, members of the International Printing and Graphic Communications Union.

The commission also ruled that 480 Newspaper Guild members—editorial, advertising, circulation and delivery workers—are eligible for unemployment benefits.

A Long-Long Row Over Short-Shorts

LOS ANGELES - The U.S. Postal Service has decided less uniform is better than a lot. Bill Bordone, a sectional postmaster, ruled Friday that Kathy Byrne, 20, a mail carrier in suburban Alhambra, can wear short-shorts on her daily rounds. Bordone intervened after Ms. Byrne chose a novel way to fight a local order barring the shorts. She came to work in a floppy dress falling to her calves, bloomers, grey-checkered knee socks and a red bonnet. More costumes would follow, she vowed. When she threatened to dress as a clown, Bordone called her and said shorts were fine, as long as she wears regulation shoes.

MINNEAPOLIS — Bob Dylan dropped in, paid the $1 cover charge, and stayed for the show, never budging from his seat in the back of the Caboose bar where he listened to the Luther Allison band. Dylan, the singer-songwriter born Robert Zimmerman in Hibbing, Minn., came to see Allison's band at the bar near the University of Minnesota campus where he got his own folk-singing start as a Univerity of Minnesota student in 1959.

SEATTLE — Steve Harding says it was just a little music to wait by. But Port of Seattle police felt differently, tossing the 32-year-old country music writer, singer and band-leader into jail and charging him with being a public nuisance. Harding was charged after playing near a flight departure gate at Seattle-Tacoma International Airport. In a telephone interview, he said: "I don't know of any law against singing in public. Do you?" Harding says he's played the Seattle airport before — sometimes for as long as three hours. It is not reported if he was playing the old Peter, Paul and Mary hit Leaving on a Jet Plane.

LAS VEGAS — Dead of a heart attack at 48, entertainer Totie Fields was buried after eulogies that underscored her love of life and her great collection of friends. The chubby comedienne was "passionate with her entire being" in her feelings about life, her family and the millions of people she kept laughing, said entertainer Jan Murray at a memorial service Friday. Several hundred people, many from the television and Las Vegas entertainment industries, filled Temple Beth Sholom for the service. Among the entertainers were many fellow comedians. Miss Fields, born Sophie Feldman in Hartford, Conn., went into show business when she was four and had her first big break in 1963 when Ed Sullivan saw her at the Copacabana in New York and booked her on his television show.

SPOKANE — It wasn't just a case of prenuptial jitters, says Spokane County's marriage licence clerk. A man who came to pick up his marriage licence Friday didn't know his future bride's surname. "I said, 'Well, what's the girl's last name?' He said he didn't know. I couldn't believe it," said clerk Magdalene Winslow. "He said he has always just known her by her first name," Mrs. Winslow said. She found the licence by using the man's last name.

LOS ANGELES — Singer Tina Turner has been sued by Diner's Club Corp., which alleges she owes more than $26,000 for purchases made on her credit card account in the last four years. Two separate suits were filed by the credit card coporation in Los Angeles Superior Court this week. One suit, naming Miss Turner as defendant, asks back payments totaling $14,690.48 plus seven per cent interest. Another suit, filed against Miss Turner's company, Tina's Operation, asks $11,418.30, plus interest.

Murder Trial Set

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Gail Trait, accused of stabbing her four children to death, has been found mentally competent to stand trial and will be held for grand jury action. She is accused of slaying her son and three daughters with a butcher knife July 16. Mrs. Strait is 26; her children ranged in age from 2 to 9.

PONTIFF POORLY

VATICAN CITY — Pope Paul is suffering from increased arthritic pains in his knees and is taking a few days of "complete rest" at his doctor's advice, the Vatican announced today.

As a result, the announcement said, the pope will be unable to appear at the window of his summer residence of Castel Gandolfo for his usual Sunday blessing to people gathered in the courtyard below.

TV's Favorite 'Drunk' Dies

SPOKANE — Frank Fontaine, a veteran vaudevillian who won national fame as television's cheerful drunk "Crazy Guggenheim," died of an apparent heart attack Friday night at the age of 58.

Fontaine died while attending the National Order of Eagles convention

He collapsed shortly after receiving a $25,000 cheque the convention gives to celebrities who then donate the funds to medical research.

Fontaine had a history of heart problems and was hospitalized in 1970.

Born in Cambridge, Mass., Fontaine played in Boston-area nightclubs. He said he developed his "Crazy Guggenheim" character from watching his boyhood friends.

He moved on to Las Vegas nightclubs in the mid 1960s where customers found out that he could also sing and perform in other roles than that of Crazy Guggenheim.

Fontaine also appeared in several motion pictures.

He was married and had 11 children. He resided in the Boston area.

OTTAWA (CP) — Nearly $453 million was paid out in unemployment insurance benefits in May, an increase of 25 per cent from May, 1977, Statistics Canada reported Friday.

Total payments from January to May have been $2.3 billion, an increase of 21 per cent from the first five months of 1977, the statement said.

More Mills Closed

Times News Services

PORTLAND — The U.S. West Coast pulp and paper mill strike spread to seven Crown Zellerbach plants today following the rejection of the firm's latest offer by the Association of Western Pulp and Paper Workers.

The strikes brought the total number of mills struck by the AWPPW and United Paperworkers International Union to 27, idling some 13,000 workers.

Jack Brown, a spokesman for the giant paper company, said pickets were to be posted at 8 a.m. at mills in Washington, Oregon and California that employ 5,000 people.

"We made a two-year settlement proposal," Brown said.

Brown said no further bargaining sessions have been scheduled.

Friday evening the AWPPW announced it had reached tentative agreement with Western Kraft in Albany, Ore., averting a strike at that mill which employs 295 people. That two-year contract was expected to come up for a vote early next week.

Prior to the break down in negotiations with Crown Zellerbach, Farris Bryson, President of the West Coast union, said he was "elated" at the agreement reached Friday in Albany.

The seven Crown Zellerbach mills struck early today are located in Camas, Port Angeles and Port Townsend, Wash., West Linn and Lebanon, Ore., and Antioch and Los Angeles, Calif.

Meanwhile, Ocean Falls Corp. officials said Friday the company will put one paper machine back into operation Aug. 21 to fill a special order for the Los Angeles Times.

As previously announced, the corporation will close down its operations on Sunday because of the current hot spell which has been limiting its hydroelectric generating capabilities.

It was originally thought that the mill would be closed indefinitely.

CanCel Profits Slumping

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canadian Cellulose Ltd. reported Friday a sharp drop in net profits for the second quarter of 1978 in spite of a $9 million increase in sales.

Donald Watson, president and chief executive officer, said the company had a net profit of $641,000 or five cents a share compared with $5.8 million or 48 cents a share in the corresponding period last year. Net sales were $50.5 million compared with $41.5 million in 1977.

For the first six months, the company had net profits of $1.2 million or 10 cents a share compared with $9.2 million or 76 cents a share the previous year. Total sales for the first half were $89.1 million compared with $82.5 milliong.

Meanwhile, Doman Industries Ltd. of Duncan predicted Friday that 1978 will be a record year for profits and sales following impressive second-quarter results.

The Duncan-based forest company reported a net profit of $3.9 million or 59 cents a share on sales of $50.7 million for the first six months of 1978, compared with $2.15 million or 33 cents a share on sales of $41.7 million for the corresponding period in 1977.

Quebec Lake Scoured For Bus That Killed 41

EASTMAN, Que. (CP) — A helicopter and divers were scouring Lac d'Argent today for the bus in which 41 passengers, a number of them handicapped, drowned Friday night.

What appeared to be the worst bus disaster in Canadian history occurred when the vehicle transporting a theatre-going party of mentally and physically handicapped of all ages — and their companions — careened down a steep hill outside the theatre and plunged to the bottom of the lake.

Six volunteer assistants to the group as well as the bus driver managed to escape as the vehicle floated briefly before sinking.

The others, two of them in wheelchairs, were trapped inside.

A helicopter was skimming over the lake late Saturday morning using sonar equipment in an attempt to detect the location of the bus. A team of divers was working from three police boats.

The victims, ranging in age between 14 and 86, were returning from a theatre performance specially held for them here to their homes in the Quebec mining town of Asbestos on a back road, when the brakes of the bus failed.

Alain Pouliot, one of the survivors, said: "The bus started to speed, and the driver told me to tell everyone to get set because he was going to do a 90-degree turn . . . but at the speed we were going, he couldn't turn."

Among the victims, all members of La Fraternite des Malades et Handicapes de la Region Asbestos (Society of Infirmed and Handicapped of the Asbestos Region) were some mentally handicapped persons, while the others had a variety of physical ailments.

Among the dead are two nuns, a priest, several other volunteers and parents of the disabled persons.

Early today, police listed the survivors as: driver Denis Martel, Adelard Lussier, Maurice Paquet, Gaston St. Jean, Alain and Lucie Pouliot, and Georgette Levasseur, all of Asbestos.

Three or four of them arrived in Asbestos, a town of 10,000 people about 60 kilometres northeast of here, early today, after first going to hospital in Magog, Que., said Const. Jacques Poirer of Asbestos police.

Priests there had been summoned to the police station to help complete a list of the victims, and to contact their families.

By dawn, the news had been broken to five or six families of the victims, he said.

A list of victims was not expected to be available until later today after definite identification had been made and families were advised, he said.

As the sun began rising, Quebec provincial police Const. Alain Perron told a news conference the bodies of one of the victims had been found. It was identified as that of Bernadette Plourde, 72.

He also said the flat-nosed bus, owned by Autobus Bolduc Transport, "apparently" had no brakes as it came down the hill above the lake.

"The bus apparently had lost control," he said.

Canada, U.S. to End Auto Firm 'Wooing'

OTTAWA (CP)-Canada and the United States agreed in principle Friday to stop the bidding war to attract auto manufacturers to their countries with generous government incentives.

The announcement by Julius Katz, U.S. assistant secretary of state, followed six hours of closed talks between top trade officials of the two countries.

The meeting came only hours after Ford Motor Co. announced Thursday that it had decided to build a $535 million engine plant in Southern Ontario rather than Ohio. Both areas had been vying for the plant estimated to provide up to 2,600 jobs.

Canadian officials had no comment on the talks.

Katz said details of the Ford decision were not discussed, but the case was mentioned as an example of the kind of competing incentives both countries are determined to avoid in the future.

He said no specific plan for ending the incentive race was agreed to, but futher meetings are planned to work out a detailed formula.

Katz refused to say whether the United States government considers the Ford decision to locate its new plant in Ontario final. He also refused to indicate the reaction in Washington to Ford's decision to build in Ontario with a $68-million incentive from the Ontario and federal governments.

Calling the talks extremely productive, spokesmen for the U.S. delegation said Canadian and U.S. officials are in complete agreement that it is a "mugs' game" to entice wealthy corporations to their soil with taxpayers' money.

Fred Bergsten, U.S. assistant secretary of the treasury, said there was a serious risk that the process of enticing major auto manufacturers with government incentives could escalate if steps were not taken fast to control it.

Meanwhile, General Motors is expected to decide in a few months where to locate a planned $400 million aluminum casting plant. The Montreal area is one of the sites under consideration and the federal and Quebec governments have agreed to offer the company a $78 million incentive.

98 Counts Follow Drug Raids

VANCOUVER (CP) — A roundup of persons charged with drug trafficking in three Vancouver-area centres has resulted in the arrest of more than half of 83 persons named in warrants. The persons named face 98 charges.

Police said that Friday 60 RCMP officers began arresting people in Surrey, Maple Ridge-Haney and the Coquitlam-Port Coquitlam- Port Mooday area. The arrests followed the surfacing of three separate one-man undercover operations.

The drugs involved included marijuana, Hashish, cocaine and the chemical MDA. Undercover buys were in amounts of between $25 and $800.

Still No Movies

VANCOUVER (CP) — Striking theatre projectionists in British Columbia Friday rejected a contract offer which would have ended a strike which has shut down most movie houses throughout the province since July 21.

After six hours of negotiations, members of the 113-member B.C. Projectionists Union voted 88 per cent to turn down the proposal made by Canadian Odeon and Famous Players Theatres.

Theatres' spokesman Doug Chow did not reveal details of the proposal but said further negotiations are scheduled to take place next week.

Meanwhile, MP Stuart Leggatt (NDP—New Westminster) said Friday he will assist in the negotiations.

"The union invited me so I've offered my services as a kind of go-between."

Terror Aide Named

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Don Jamieson has created a new intelligence position in his department to help cope with a world where terrorism is becoming common.

Eldon Pattyson Black, 52-year-old career diplomat who has been working in the defence department, will become deputy under-secretary of state for security and intelligence affairs.

An external affairs statement said the creation of the new intelligence position that is comparable to assistant deputy minister in other departments "will contribute to more effective management of the security and intelligence aspects of Canada's international relations."

The appointment comes only a short time after the leaders of Canada, the United States, Britain, France, West Germany, Italy and Japan agreed in a summit meeting that greater action should be taken against terrorists.

A department spokesman said it is a reflection of the growth of terrorism in the international field.

Black has been seconded to the defence department as assistant deputy minister policy since 1975. Before that he was director-general of external's bureau of European affairs. Since joining the department in 1949 has served in Moscow, Stockholm, Brussels and Paris.

DEADLY SHARK IN PUGET SOUND

SEATTLE (AP) — A gillnet fisherman bagged a half-grown specimen earlier this week — but he wasn't about to reach in and throw it back.

The Washington department of fisheries said the 1.8-metre mackerel shark was captured in southern Puget Sound about 48 kilometres southwest of Seattle.

The mackerel shark grows to about 4.6 metres long, is very fast and belongs to the same shark family as the great white shark.

Pigott said department records indicate there have been six previous sightings of mackerel sharks in Puget Sound.

"They are the most dangerous sharks in the world," said Roy Pigott, the assistant manager of the department's Miller Creek Hatchery who identified the shark. "They'll attack anything that moves."

Clinics Jammed For Polio Shots

Times News Services

Thousands of Canadians jammed clinics Friday following reports this week of cases of paralytic polio in Western Canada and Ontario.

And in Holland, a polio epidemic among members of a religious community opposed to vaccination has claimed its first fatality, a three-month-old girl, the Dutch health ministry said today.

In Norwich, Ont., where doctors say two men have polio and a third is suspected, the head of the Oxford County health board called for federal legislation to make polio immunizations mandatory.

Health officials say there is also a case of polio in Chilliwack, B.C., and one in Lethbridge, Alta.

All victims are Dutch-Canadians who belong to fundamentalist Protestant sects that do not believe in immunization.

Norwich health board chairman Jack Warden said he would ask for legislation to ensure that all Canadians and visitors to Canada receive polio vaccine.

"Immunization should be made compulsory, regardless of religious beliefs," Warden said.

"People don't have a choice when the life and health of fellow Canadians are involved."

About 1,400 of the 1,800 Norwich area residents were immunized this week.

In the Delhi, Ont., area, where students from the Netherlands are on an exchange program and helping with the tobacco harvest, about 500 local residents have been vaccinated.

In Toronto, hundreds of persons, including three members of the Netherlands consulate-general, crowded clinics and jammed municipal switchboards seeking immunizations.

In the Chilliwack area, 5,000 were immunized at clinics all week.

AirCan Normal For Now

Canadian Press

Air Canada expects to operate normally during the weekend, but there may be more problems next week when the final result of a national contract-ratification vote by its 7,500 ground-service workers is announced.

Union sources said late Friday that workers in Montreal and Toronto voted by a wide margin to reject a tentative contract negotiated recently with the company.

The Montreal vote was reportedly 1,635 to 257 against the offer of a 16-per-cent wage increase over 25 months, retroactive to April 3.

The same union sources said Toronto members, who returned to work Friday after a 36-hour work stoppage, voted by a two-to-one margin to reject the tentative agreement.

Between them, the two units account for almost three-quarters of the ground-service group, whose work stoppages at several eastern centres this week played havoc with airline operations in Eastern Canada and the northern United States.

The Montreal workers—off the job since Thursday—returned to work this morning as did ground-service employees in Saint John, N.B., the only other group out Friday.

National officials of the International Association of Machinists (IAM), who opposed the work stoppages, have ordered local leaders not to release their vote counts until all units finish balloting early next week.

Real Vaillancourt, head of the Montreal unit, said that if vote goes against the agreement, the IAM's bargaining team should press Air Canada to reopen negotiations to improve several non-monetary clauses which were unacceptable to many of the workers.

Hostile Game

BAGUIO, Philippines (UPI) — The ninth game of the world chess championships, marked by open hostility between champion Anatoly Karpov and Soviet defector Viktor Korchnoi, was adjourned tonight after five hours of play.

Four Mowed Down In Terror Attack

ISLAMABAD (UPI) — Two Arab gunmen mowed down four people with machine gun fire today in an attack on a Palestine Liberation Organization office.

The gunmen escaped without finding their prime target, PLO chief of mission Yousuf Abu Hantash.

He said he believed the Iraqi government was behind the attack, the latest in a series of violent clashes around the world between the mainstream Palestinian group and the Baghdad regime.

"This was a serious action plotted by the Iraqi government," Hantash said. The two attackers spoke with Iraqi accents, he added.

Pakistani police guards stopped the two gunmen as they walked up to the PLO mission gate at about 11 a.m. and asked to search a bag holding their machine guns and hand grenades.

The two attackers argued with the police about the search until a Palestinian telex operator, Saad Abu Nassar, came out of his office.

One of the assailants grabbed him and the other shot him and a Pakistani policeman down in the doorway, leaving the area splattered with blood.

The two then burst into the office shouting for Hantash.

"They were shouting for me. I was sitting in my office but they didn't enter it," the PLO chief said.

Instead they found Omar Khan Far, a Palestinian studying medicine in Pakistan, who had dropped by the office. They shot him down without saying a word.

Their fourth victim was "a PLO freedom fighter training in Pakistan's Army," Hantash said, identifying him as Mohammad Al-Hussain.

The two gunmen hurled two grenades behind them as they ran out of the office. A third man, believed to be a Pakistani, drove a getaway car waiting outside.

It was unclear just how the gunmen escaped but police were searching the city for them.

"I think they came from Iraq," Hantash said. "The Iraqi embassy supplied them with machine guns and organized the attack. We hold the Iraqi government responsible and hope that the Iraqi people, who have always stood by the Palestinans will take their revenge on the Iraqi regime."

The attack followed another three days ago by two other Arab gunmen, reportedly Fatah commandos, who raided the Iraqi consulate in Karachi. One of the gunmen was killed and the other died today in a hospital.

COME ON, MA I ONLY HIT YOU A COUPLA TIMES

NEW YORK (AP) — One morning, a Pennsylvania woman who divorced her husband because he beat her weekly was punched in the mouth by her 17-year-old son.

"Aren't you happy now?" he asked. "You've still got me to hit you."

An 81-year-old Chicago man was chained to a radiator by his 19-year-old daughter. She stole $2,300 from him before she set him free seven days later. He told police from his hospital bed that he would not press charges.

In New York, a 19-year-old youth was arrested for repeatedly thrashing his mother and stealing her money. He tossed off a final plea as police led him away: "Aw, come on, Ma. I only hit you a couple of times."

The social workers and scholars who move about the veiled corridors of family strife say no one is sure how many parents are battered by their offspring. But they say this most private of miseries — the son who slugs his mother, the daughter who shoves her down the stairs — is more common than most would suspect.

Through the burgeoning number of shelters for battered women, bits of information have surfaced about offspring injuring their mothers. Next to nothing, however, is known about those who attack their fathers.

"It's the last family problem to be explored," said Richard Gelles, a University of Rhode Island sociologist.

"It is a hidden problem, but it's something all of us found as we started to share information," said Sue Bienemann, director of a new coalition of 18 Pennsylvania projects for battered wives.

"It's a strange thing, because oftentimes the mothers are reluctant to disclose that their children beat them," she said. "They want to protect them."

After interviewing more than 2,100 families, Gelles and Murray Strauss, a University of New Hampshire sociologist, concluded that as many as one in 10 parents have been kicked, slugged, punched and otherwise battered by their offspring.

The researchers believe one in five parents may have suffered lesser abuse at the hands of their children — objects lobbed at their heads, shoving, pushing, furious verbal abuse — an expression, perhaps, of the adolescent turmoil that can bubble over.

But at its most explosive, Gelles says, there is "stark evidence" that such physical abuse is learned at the knee of an assaultive parent.

"Of the five or six million kids who assault their parents, about half are probably kids who've been assaulted by their parents," he said.

Gelles and Strauss think the violence goes beyond self-defence or revenge. They say that to strike out, to win by decking a parent, is the way these young people learned to handle family disagreements.

"It doesn't matter if it's a wife or a sister or a mother. The point is: It's a woman."

Eager Crowds Mob Queen During Games' Walkabout

EDMONTON (CP) — Tamil Selvan won the applause and admiration of Queen Elizabeth on Friday night as the Royal Family watched the Indian weightlifter break the Commonwealth Games record in the 52-kilogram class.

The Queen, looking relaxed and interested in the show of strength, witnessed the event at the end of a day spent viewing Games competitions and meeting athletes.

With a lift of 105 kilograms, Selvan broke the Games record but placed second in total points to Precious McKenzie of New Zealand.

As with other venues visited by the Royal Family on Friday, the weightlifting auditorium was surrounded by eager crowds hoping for a glimpse of the Queen.

Earlier, the Royal Family spent almost two hours at the Commonwealth Games athletes' village where they ate with Games competitors in the cafeteria.

At a reception before the lunch, the Queen told weightlifter Lawrence McConnell of Northern Ireland: "It must be hard for you over there living with all the bombs and terror."

McConnell, of Belfast, said he told the Queen he did not foresee an end to the violence in the near future. The Queen nodded sympathetically and moved on to talk with someone else, McConnell said.

The Royal Family, on a 12-day Canadian tour which began July 26 in St. John's, Nfld., appeared to enjoy the visit to the village.

Earlier Friday, the Royal Family viewed the sedate sport of lawn bowling which requires considerable skill but not much exertion.

The competitors tended to be middle-aged and more than a few had their cigarettes ready at the edge of the green so they could puff after competing.

Young athletes who met the Royal Family said it was harder to meet a prince than it was to compete before thousands.

"You don't see the people when you compete," said Sherry Hawco, 14, of Cambridge, Ont. She was so shaken after meeting Prince Andrew, 18, and Prince Edward, 14, that she could not remember everything they said to her.

At the weightlifting events, news photographers were not allowed to take pictures of the Royal Family which was seated in the middle of the audience directly in front of the competitors.

QUEEN MUM MARKS 78th

LONDON (AP) — Some sang Happy Birthday, others shouted "God bless you, Ma'm!" and others just cheered Friday as Britain's Queen Mum greeted well-wishers on her 78th birthday. Most of her family was out of the country, however.

The crowd, many of them tourists, waited for hours outside Clarence House to see Queen Elizabeth the Queen Mother. She stepped outside briefly to say "Bless you" and "Thank you all very much."

Also marking the date was publication of a new book about this country's First Granny. The book, The Country Life Book of Queen Elizabeth the Queen Mother, written by Godfrey Talbot, includes a warm and loving tribute from one of her greatest admirers.

"For me she has always been one of those extraordinary rare people whose touch can turn everything to gold," wrote Prince Charles.

MURDER BY BULLDOZER

WILKINSBURG, Pa. (AP) — A construction contracter was killed Friday by a man using a bulldozer for a weapon, police said.

Authorities said Umberto Gulli, 28, of Pittsburgh, was arraigned on a general charge of murder and jailed without bond in the death of Ian Snider, 31, of nearby Plum Borough.

Snider died at a Pittsburgh hospital after being attacked at a construction site in this Allegheny County community, the coroner's office said.

Authorities said Snider went to the work site to collect a debt from Gulli, who was reported to be operating a bulldozer.

In the midst of an ensuing argument, police said, Gulli dropped the bulldozer's dirt-laden bucket on Snider, then gouged him with the toothed lip of the bucket.

Nazis Pelted

LANSING (UPI) — Counterdemonstrators greeted neo-Nazis Friday night with eggs, stones, firecrackers and baseball bats in the Nazis' second rally in the Chicago area this summer.

Nazi leader Frank Collin ducked missiles as he addressed about 200 onlookers and 40 protesters from the Progressive Labor Party and its International Committee Against Racism.

The demonstration in the heavily ethnic working-class community was the first of seven the National Socialist Party of America plan this summer and fall in southern and western suburbs.

The Nazis gave up plans to march in north suburban Skokie, which has a large Jewish population, after winning approval for a rally in Chicago's Marquette Park. They held one rally and plan more activities in the Marquette Park area.

Collin stood eight steps up on a landing of the Park District office, in an area cordoned off by police, and read from a notepad.

"Fellow white Americans," he said, "we believe all white people should stand united in the cause of the white race."

Guerrillas Abduct Rhodesia Farmer

SALISBURY (AP) — Black nationalist guerrillas abducted a former British army officer from his home in the eastern Rhodesian countryside and took him across the nearby border to Mozambique, the military command reported today.

As far as is known, none has been heard of since being seized, although military sources say some are thought to be held at guerrilla bases in Mozambique.

The communique said Wigglesworth was abducted Tuesday morning.

The report was delayed to allow time for notification of relatives in Britain.

The retired soldier, who lived on a farm near the small town of Penhalonga, was seized when he returned home after seeing his wife on to the military-escorted convoy that runs daily round trips to the nearby larger town of Umtali.

"He was armed but there were evidently too many of them," she said.

Harness Racing Boon to Sidney

By AL FORREST
Times Staff

Sidney had mixed feelings about the idea of summer-long harness racing at Sandown but now that it's under way everyone is smiling.

"The harness people have turned out to be good neighbors," Sidney Chamber of Commerce president C.E. Goodman said Friday.

"And the jobs are a real boost for the area. The impact has been all good. People stay in the hotels, eat in the restaurants and go shopping in town. Harness racing is a major new industry."

Orangeville Raceways Ltd. spokesman Jim Keeling Jr. said the feeling is mutual, the harness racing officials are happy to be at Sandown and they plan to stay awhile, despite being in the red during its first year.

"We will lose $100,000 this year on operations," he said. "And there is another $100,000 for capital improvements. We will be out of pocket $200,000 at the end of the season.

"Actually that isn't too bad at all. We expected it would take a while to catch on. We should be able to break even in our second season. After that, we should grow strongly. We expect to double our handle in four years."

Orangeville needs betting of $11,000 a race to break even. The race track collects 10.5 per cent of that amount ($1,155) and the rest goes in government taxes and in bet payouts.

"The average betting is only $8,400 a race but the significant thing is how much we have improved. On opening day the handle was only $66,000 or $6,000 a race. But now it is almost double. We have had one week with an average over $10,000 a race.

"Last week the average was $9,500, up from $9,400 the week before. It keeps getting better."

Despite the first-year loss, Orangeville plans to be at Sandown for a long time — at least four years and probably 20. The track has been leased for the four years with an option on 16 more.

At the end of the fourth season a major decision will have to be made: whether to continue and, if so, whether to construct its own racetrack in the area or continue at Sandown.

Keeling said there is nothing to indicate Orangeville will leave in less than 20 years.

"We're very happy with the way things are going and we are planning for the long term."

He admits to a few first-season problems.

"We had far too many people employed on opening day. But we had two previous openings where we didn't have enough people. That was a worse mistake. We vowed we wouldn't let that happen again."

The previous openings were in Orangeville, Ont., where the company was founded, and in Cloverdale.

For the Sandown opening there were 150 employees on the payroll and many had very little to do.

The staff was quickly pared down to 115. With the arrival of summer and larger crowds, the staff was increased to the present total of 130. The weekly payroll is $10,000.

"About half the employees live in the Victoria area and the rest are from Sidney and Central Saanich. We have a number of housewives on the concession stands while the people at the betting windows are mainly students."

Most employees work on a bonus system. There is a flat salary plus a bonus, based on the handle.

"In four years the handle will double but that doesn't mean the staff will be twice as large. We have a very large staff now and it would only have to increase about 25 per cent to handle twice as many people."

This would add about another 35 to the payroll.

Most employees have a four-day week: the racing days, Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday. About 25 are full-time employees working a five-day week.

After opening day, the staff total was reduced by 15 in the betting windows and some concession workers were also laid off. The parking staff was reduced from four to one.

The present level of 130 employees is about as low as the race track can go to meet the demands of busy summer racing days.

In addition to the $10,000 local payroll, the racing has attracted 200 horsemen to the Sidney area for the season.

"They are living near the track and spending money in the community. This has been another benefit for the district," Keeting said.

Sidney Mayor Dick Leigh agrees.

"This racing season is doing us a lot of good. There are no problems at all and the jobs are welcome."

Sidney Review publisher John Manning says local merchants have noticed an increase in sales as a result of the harness season.

"The only complaint I have heard is from the Saanichton Fall Fair organizers. They are worried because there is racing on the Labor Day weekend when the fair is on but I think they can work it out. There is no reason why people shouldn't be able to go to both events during the weekend."

Goodman said the chamber was a bit concerned that money might leave the community because of the racing season.

"With the thoroughbreds, we noticed a decline in sales in Sidney when people were out at the track betting. But we haven't noticed any decline this summer. If anything, sales are improved because of the harness season."

Who Will Pay Bus Bills: Tindall

The key question to be answered Aug. 14 at the first meeting of the new Urban Transit Authority is how the province is going to help municipalities pay bus deficits, Victoria Ald. Bill Tindall said today.

Tindall, a member of the 10-member UTA board, said there is no doubt municipalities will have to begin paying for transportation deficits.

"The key question is: where will we get the money?"

Tindall said the provincial government has given assurances the funds will not come from property taxes in 1979 — but beyond that there are no guarantees.

"We will have to consider new sources of revenue. Tourism is our number two industry. Maybe we should use a portion of the hotel tax raised in this area to pay for the bus deficits. This is one idea we should consider."

Other possibilities include an increase in gasoline taxes and a surcharge on electricity bills.

What everyone wants to avoid, he said, is an increase in the property taxes to pay for transportation.

"Something more palatable will have to be found."

He said Victoria Mayor Mike Young has also indicated a strong opposition to using property taxes to pay transit deficits.

Tindall and Saanich Mayor Mel Couvelier will represent the Victoria region on the 10-member board. The other eight come from the Vancouver area.

Tindall said it appears the new Urban Transit Authority will act as a management group only. B.C. Hydro would continue to operate the bus system but now municipalities would have to pay the annual deficits.

All questions of routes and fares would be decided by the municipalities.

"Obviously there is no need to be concerned about a disruption of contracts with the bus drivers because these continue to be in force. The drivers are still working for B.C. Hydro."

Many questions remain to be answered under the new system but the key issue will be cost-sharing, Tindall said.

He said municipalities must face the reality they will have to pay transportation deficits that may grow larger each year.

Tindall's remarks follow a statement Friday by Muncipal Affairs Minister Hugh Curtis that municipalities were being unduly "alarmist" about the transportation changes.

Curtis said contracts with the bus drivers' Amalgamated Transit Union (ATU) continue to be in force.

"The Urban Transit Authority is not, I repeat, is not going to become an operating company. It will enter into operating arrangements with a number of companies for the delivery of service. One of these companies is B.C. Hydro.

"There are contractual agreements in place between Hydro and the ATU that are inviolate. They are legal documents."

Curtis said the transit changes, while making municipalities liable for the deficit, would for the first time give local governments a voice in transportation policies.

HELP OFFERED THEFT VICTIMS

The Burry family may have a holiday this summer after all, thanks to the generosity of two Times readers.

After reading an article in Friday's Times about the family losing their tent trailer and camping gear to a thief, they phoned to offer help.

One man said he had a tent he no longer needed which he'd gladly give them.

Another said he had a variety of camping equipment the family could use.

Darlene Burry, a welfare mother with three children to support, had saved 2½ years to buy the trailer and had only used it a couple of times when it was stolen from a carport at her home at #4, 2409 Chambers.

Judge Details Options For Heroin Sentences

A number of options are open to judges faced with sentencing those convicted of heroin-related offences before the compulsory Heroin Treatment Act comes into effect Jan. 1.

Les Bewley, taking time off the provincial court bench to act as a consultant to the Alcohol and Drug Commission, today explained the options to a problem raised by Judge Blake Allan in Victoria provincial court earlier this week.

Allan remanded Stephen Prescott, 26, of 991 Cloverdale, to sentencing after he pleaded guilty to a breaking and entering charge.

Prescott admitted to the court he had a heroin problem and was dependent on two to three caps per day.

Allan noted that the new Heroin Act had been proclaimed, but was unsure if any of the treatment facilities were available.

Bewley said Judge Allan has the power to adjourn the matter for sentencing until after Jan. 1 when the act comes into effect along with its treatment program.

At that time, Prescott could enter as a voluntary patient or Allan could order him to the program.

Or, more immediately, Prescott could voluntarily submit himself to one of the programs currently operated by the ADC.

Allan could also suspend sentence, and as part of the probation order direct Prescott to seek treatment under one of the existing treatment programs.

Allan could also include another provision ordering Prescott to present himself to one of the evaluation panels that will be set up after Jan. 1.

Another option open to the judge, if he feels a jail sentence is necessary, is to require Prescott to appear before an evaluation panel upon his release as part of the post-incarceration probation.

Meanwhile, Bewley said he would call Allan to advise him of the options and said any other provincial court judge faced with a similar problem should call the ADC in Vancouver.

The ADC is in the process of switching its voluntary treatment programs to compulsory ones over the next five months.

Death Laid to Lack of Care for Senile

The next day his body was pulled from the sea and Barbara Rolls says the accident should not have happened.

"That man and others like him would be alive today if we had a proper long term care facility for the ambulatory confused in the Lower Island area," explains Mrs. Rolls, whose husband is a patient in a local nursing home.

"My husband has to be restrained — tied to a chair — to keep him from wandering because the facilities at the nursing homes for this type of patient are simply inadequate," she adds.

"The woman was really concerned for her husband's safety as he'd already disappeared several times before, often being missing seven or eight hours at a time. She used to take him for walks every day and have him home on the weekends but when she wasn't with him there was no one to prevent him from wandering away.

"Nursing homes here are just not equipped at all and there's no way that these patients should be in them."

Concern over the case of her own husband and for other people has led Mrs. Rolls, who is also health services chairman of the Consumers' Association of British Columbia, to write to Winfield Mott, long term care administrator for the Capital Regional District.

In stressing the need for a long term care facility in the area, Mrs. Rolls asked Mott if he would consider a survey to establish the number needing it.

"I personally know of several and feel there must be a need for a facility where such patients can move around freely and safely both inside and outside, and without invading the privacy of extended care patients in their rooms," she said in her letter.

"Admittedly the construction of such a facility will take time," she told Mott. "But could not modifications be made to an existing facility in the meantime so these patients would not have to be restrained?"

Mrs. Rolls' letter rightly pointed out the lack of such a facility "and the unfortunate situations which arise from that lack," Mott told her in his reply.

"To that I can add that your husband's status is hardly a unique one," he said. "There are a large number of people in this condition in your area, most of them without an articulate advocate such as yourself.

"Several facilities and proposed facilities have plans on paper to construct or renovate space to do exactly what you suggest."

Plans are taking shape and the problem should be dealt with in a much better way within three or four years, Mott told Mrs. Rolls. Renovations could bring some improvement even within a year, he said.

A brief submitted by the Consumers' Association as long ago as last December and urging the establishment of a long term care facility for the ambulatory confused in the Lower Island area, will be heard by the provincial health department at 8:30 next Wednesday morning.

"We're going to try to get the Minister to agree to a facility on the Lower Island," Mrs. Rolls explains. "The only places at present where such patients can be free to walk about but not roam off the premises are in Vernon and in a special wing at Riverview, both on the Mainland.

"You know, Mr. Mott said the problem here should be dealt with in a much better way in three or four years . . . but a lot of people can die in that time."
